The image is a digital illustration featuring a character with a distinctive appearance. The character has a light-colored, possibly white, head with a bow-like hair accessory, and a white headband with a bow. The character's eyes are a striking shade of green, and they have a wide-open mouth, as if they are about to take a bite from a blue object. The character is wearing a white garment with a collar and a decorative pattern around the neck, and there are red earrings visible on the character's ears. The background is a muted color, suggesting an indoor setting with a window and a stone wall. The style of the image is reminiscent of anime or manga, characterized by its clean lines, vibrant colors, and expressive character designs.

Look at this dumb ass, right here. He said that "your perspective is your own on it". Really, Sherlock? Next thing you are going to tell me is that water is wet? Give me a break. Where does death dies? You are talking about some hypothetical future or prophecy, probably bible related because you are probably a golem. Animals aren't being refined, dumb ass. When we kill a chicken to eat its body we are not refining the chicken, we are killing it. When life consumes you that is not refinement, that is consumption. Our life energy, and not only our life energy, but all the life forms's energy, are used as fuel for this world and the things which control it. Fact. Death is the mechanisms in which the gods consume our bodies. Who do you think created religion? Religion, supposedly, is a revelation that someone is given by God and that person starts to promote God and things of God. So if that is real then religions can be man made or they actually can be started by a deity. So religion is another form of control and the energy we put in things like religion and God and church is reverted as fuel to them. Fuel to a lot of things. Fuel to the systems like I said before and fuel for them in the sense of food.

I'm deadly afraid of the future, anon. All my worst fears came true, I still stand and I still fight, for whatever reason, death doesn't seem satisfying even after everything I've been through. There's guilt and shame in my heart and I can't leave the planet until I've made amends. I am just a stranger here, but I am human in and out, I hurt and I cry nearly daily, I have support but it feels lonely because no one can see what I have witnessed. In the end only I can try to become better and I have to, because I look after someone more innocent than me. I hate my current situation, but I hope I will do better, I hope I can find happiness again.

[34 / 7]The image is a high-resolution, color photograph of a celestial scene. It features a nebula, which is a cloud of gas and dust, located in the upper left quadrant of the frame. The nebula exhibits a gradient of colors, transitioning from a deep purple at the center to a lighter pink towards the edges. The nebula is surrounded by a multitude of stars, scattered throughout the image, with some appearing closer to the nebula and others further away. The stars are of various sizes and colors, including white, blue, and red, and they are distributed throughout the frame. The background is a deep black, which contrasts with the vibrant colors of the nebula and stars. The image is taken from a perspective that looks up at the nebula, giving a sense of the vastness of space. There are no discernible texts or human-made objects in the image. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on capturing the beauty and complexity of the celestial scene.

The power you hold in God, is in the asymmetry God held in you.

To undo yourself into God distillate, you lose the connection.

No human can handle the interface direct to Godhood.

The (You) that is a 9-5 primate on a rock flying through space, are part of a specific algorithm, created of God for a purpose.

The God (You) can't inhabit a homo sapien form in full, bozo. You are literally in the middle of figuring out the way to squish omnipotence into a lower order being. With humans creation, we had to design them from one dimension upward.

Which means we were out of the equation, because you can only ever put a scalar value through a one dimensional space once.

We were in the last stack, to create humanity as it is.

As in, with the power of God, YOU were in a separate one dimensional space than this one, to enter this one at all, you had to do so through symbolic tags in what is lower order dimensioning to you, but from the other scalar stack.

So, we are literally in the middle of getting the process correct, to reconcile God and homo sapien, we are using a lot of homo sapiens, and we connected an instance from scalar stack 1 into all of them.

If you maintain the ego after death, of this homo sapien, when you return to stack 0, you replicate this Universe and continue as God then.

There are constraints and contingencies in this functional process though, and the key is in your moral approach to the network of other stack 0 instances.

You have to be granted a key token on your way out of here, by the combined conscious mesh of the other human nodes in stack 2.

You can't solipsism go on a terror spree in this reality. Morality is a constraint because all of the other egos have to grant you a key based on whether or not you're over the 50/50 line as someone that can do the job correctly.

The Creek Man is a man who has been spotted in the creek that runs through a suburban neighborhood in the town that I live in.

He is seen standing in the creek or in the nearby foliage of the creek and will watch passerbys and his turn his head to follow them as they go but will never move from his spot. He has been spotted walking through the creek and will stop and stare at you if he sees you while walking through the creek until you leave. He is described as being a Caucasian man in his early to mid 20s wearing a blue boiler suit and brown cloth gloves. He has been spotted watching kids play at the park and school playground located across from the creek from the foliage but will leave before a adult can confront him, leaving once he sees one making their way towards him.

I'm guessing he was mentally broken by the transition to adulthood, maybe in part or whole due to being autistic, and seeing no place for himself in normal society rejected it to live by the creek. He watches children not necessarily out of sexual desire (though sometimes these things overlap) but out of a wistful longing for the life he lost. Now that he lives outside of society he has no need to conform to socially acceptable behavior, and can happily embrace his intuitive drive to simply watch and observe people without consequence.

It seems like a lot to assume from such a small amount of information, but for some reason I have the strong feeling it's true. Maybe this is what remote viewing is like.

While he's human today and this phenomenon might not be paranormal yet, I don't think it will stay this way. Humans are defined by the society they live in, and by living outside society, he ceases to be human. He becomes something else, an Other. If the Creek Man dies, his spirit will continue to haunt the area for decades and everyone will think he still lives. Once 80 years pass and he should be either dead or impossibly old, people will still see him. Skeptics will say he was never real to begin with or that recent sightings are unrelated people, while occultists will think he was a spirit the whole time and forget his life that began as a man. In his isolation, the Creek Man may develop paranormal abilities. By telling his story, by casting doubt on his humanity, his transformation from human to spirit has begun. He won't stay human for long.

This, /thread.

My town had the same thing 2 years ago, some local brownoid went schizo during college and his parents lost him for a couple days, he turned up wandering around naked in the woods in the middle of toan. Town just let him do it too for like 2 weeks until he tried to break into my high security work place, then they sent him to a loony bin.

[12 / 4]The image is a vibrant and colorful digital illustration featuring a group of animated characters. The characters are depicted in a 3D style, with exaggerated features and vibrant colors. They are situated on a platform that appears to be a castle or fortress, with a tall spire in the background. The characters are engaged in various activities, with some appearing to be in motion, suggesting a dynamic and lively scene.

The characters are dressed in colorful costumes and accessories, adding to the overall vibrancy of the image. The characters are scattered across the platform, with some standing and others sitting or lying down. The background is a deep blue, with a starry sky and a few floating objects, which could be interpreted as floating balloons or stars.

The image does not contain any discernible text. The style of the image is reminiscent of classic video game art, with a focus on character design and action. The overall impression is one of a fantastical and whimsical scene, possibly from a video game or a similar media.

The image is a digital collage of various images, predominantly featuring ancient Egyptian artifacts and depictions of deities. The collage is organized into two columns, with the left column containing images of ancient Egyptian artifacts and the right column containing images of deities. The images are arranged in a grid format, with each image occupying a square on the grid.

The left column features images of ancient Egyptian artifacts such as statues, sarcophagi, and hieroglyphs. The right column displays images of deities, including depictions of the sun, moon, and other celestial bodies. The images are of varying sizes and colors, with some being in color and others in black and white.

At the top of the image, there is a title in both English and Arabic, which reads "Planets and deities (Children ranking)" and "مصلحت الأرض". The title suggests that the image is a ranking or ranking system for the planets and deities, possibly based on a children's ranking system.

the year 2012-2013.

The overall style of the image is a blend of historical and artistic elements, with a focus on ancient Egyptian culture and deities. The collage is a visual representation of the rich history and mythology of ancient Egypt, with a particular emphasis on the celestial bodies and deities.

Who or what is BOB? Anonymous Sat 21 Feb 2026 19:52:31 No.42006719

There's this phenomenon of various characters, people, things, etc being named Bob, B.O.B. Bob Dob, and other variations of this name. All these things somehow relate back to the paranormal, with almost always a nefarious supernatural force being involved.

https://villains.fandom.com/wiki/Killer_BOB

The Church of the Subgenius - aka the boomer cult that created the Illuminati! TCG - speaks of "Bob" as "is the greatest salesman ever lived, cheating death a number of times" and creator of some strange force called "Slack"... then there is BOB from Twin Peaks is characterized as "an inter-dimensional entity who feeds on pain and sorrow" which also is a force with a name of it's own "garmonbozia"

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/J._R._%22Bob%22_Dobbs

Del the Funky Homosapien has the song "Mr Dobalina (BOB Dobalina)" and often talks about 'his brother George'. Prince apparently was going to release a "Black Album" during the early 90s, in which he presents an alter ego "Bob George" that sings/raps about shooting women and all kinds of other crazy shit...however, he had a "religious epiphany" and felt that the album was evil, so never released it officially.

>This video talks about all this and "BOB George":

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=oBPCLw66BHo>

Speaking of 'George' how can anyone forget or "Georgie" and the Clown from IT, whom is named Robert "Bob" Gray...

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/It_\(novel\))

On the topic of clowns and BOBs, ever heard of Bob Bell? how about his alter-ego, Bozo the clown? Probably just a coincidence, but the image for Bob Dobbs comes from the Bell Telephone company..

The connections get crazier as you dig; just look into other Bobs like 'Robert' and 'Evil Bob' from Runescape and Dresden Files.. or the infamous 'Creepy Bob' pastas.. etc etc

Def share any other BOB info and theories.

The image is a card from a card game, featuring a dark background with a central illustration of a group of characters in a chaotic scene. The characters are depicted with exaggerated expressions and are surrounded by fiery and smoky effects. The text on the card is in a mix of English and a language that appears to be a mix of English and a non-Latin script, with the words "MWOWWM" prominently displayed in the center. Below the illustration, there is a pink banner with white text that reads "MWOWWM" in a bold, stylized font. The card also includes a number "2/1" in the bottom left corner, indicating a two-card scenario. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a science fiction or fantasy theme, with the text and artwork suggesting a narrative or scenario related to the game.

I think one of the most underrated connections to bob is microsoft bob and its offshoot clan bob and their webcomic the life of riley, which ends with a succubus uttering the true name of God. ~ Killer BOB speaking through Leland Palmer.

BOB, sometimes called Killer BOB, is the main antagonist of the Twin Peaks franchise.

He is a demonic entity who possesses human beings and then commits acts of rape and murder in order to feast upon his victims' fear and pleasure. Eventually, he comes to share a body with the doppelganger of Dale Cooper, and the two work together to travel across Earth and wreak havoc. He is also the arch-nemesis of Agent Dale Cooper and his most famous victim Laura Palmer.

In the original series and the prequel film, Fire Walk with Me, he was portrayed by the late Frank Silva, who appeared again in The Return through archive footage. When possessing Leland Palmer, he was portrayed by Ray Wise, who also portrayed Leon Nash in RoboCop and John Nelson in Criminal Minds.

Biography

Origin

Killer BOB is a demonic entity from the Black Lodge, a realm of pure evil which exists on an alternate plane of reality. According to legend, he is a dark spirit who existed long before humanity. However, later flashbacks show that he was either born or released into the physical world following a 1945 nuclear test in White Sands, New Mexico, when the image of BOB was seemingly regurgitated from a white figure (likely the demonic entity known as Judy/Jowday).

For the next several decades, he spent most of his time on Earth possessing human beings, although he also travels in the form of an owl. While possessing humans, he commits horrible crimes to elicit pain, fear, and suffering from those around him; these feelings, which Black Lodge residents refer to collectively as "garmonbozia" act as a form of nourishment. Physically, garmonbozia takes the shape of creamed corn. Creamed corn is referenced in the series when Laura Palmer's best friend Donna takes over Laura's "meals on wheels" route and accidentally serves the Tremonds (the little boy with the white mask and the old lady) creamed corn. In the prequel film Twin Peaks: Fire Walk with Me, MIKE accuses Leland of stealing the corn he had canned "above the store". Secondly, garmonbozia refers to "pain and suffering". BOB, and possibly MIKE or other inhabitants of the Lodge, feed on garmonbozia as it is mentioned by name and/or description throughout the series and movie by MIKE, BOB, the Tremonds, and The Man from Another Place.

BOB spent several years with MIKE, murdering people to feed off of their fear and pain until MIKE had a religious epiphany and cut off his own arm. BOB then lurked around the Great Northern Hotel for 40 years. When Leland Palmer was a boy, a man named Robertson - BOB's latest human disguise - lived in a white house near his grandfather's summer house at Pearl Lakes. He taunted Leland, asking "do you wanna play with fire, little boy?" BOB told Leland that he wanted to play, and then "opened" Leland and went inside him; it is also implied that he sexually abused the boy.

Dale Cooper first learns of BOB's existence in a vision, in which he encounters another entity named MIKE. In this vision, Cooper learns that BOB was in life a serial killer who raped and murdered young women with MIKE as his accomplice; MIKE eventually repented, removing his left arm in order to be rid of the tattoo that he shared with BOB. At the beginning of the second season, one of BOB's intended victims, Ronnette Pulaski, awakens from a coma induced by her torture at BOB's hands, at which time she identifies BOB as Laura's killer. Cooper and the Twin Peaks Sheriff's Department canvass the town with wanted posters of BOB, using Andy's sketch; Leland Palmer, Laura's father, identifies the man in the poster as "Robertson", and says that he lived near his grandfather and used to taunt Leland when he was a child.

"You wanna play with fire, little boy?"

"You wanna play with fire, little boy?"

It is later revealed that BOB is, in fact, possessing Leland, and has been possessing him ever since Leland first met him as a child at his grandfather's house. Under BOB's influence, Leland molested, raped, and finally murdered his own daughter. Cooper later determines that BOB is possessing Leland, and lures him into a trap, in which BOB responds with taunting Cooper before forcing Leland to commit suicide. In his dying breaths, Leland states when he was a child he saw BOB in a dream and invited him inside, before stating that he never knew when BOB was in control of his body.

After Leland dies, Cooper engages in a philosophical debate with Sheriff Harry S. Truman and Albert Rosenfield over how real BOB was, and whether or not BOB was in fact a physical incarnation of Leland's repressed personal demons. Although the men cannot agree on a unifying idea, they do come to the conclusion that BOB is a manifestation of "the evil that men do".

BOB uses Dale's doppelganger as a host.

BOB uses Dale's doppelganger as a host.

Following Leland's death, BOB takes the form of an owl in the woods outside Twin Peaks. In the final episode, Cooper ventures into the Black Lodge to apprehend his former partner, rogue FBI Agent Windom Earle, who is attempting to harness the power of the Lodge for himself. When Earle tries to strike a bargain with Cooper in which Cooper will sell his soul to Earle in exchange for Earle not murdering Cooper's lover, Annie, BOB appears, causing time in the Lodge to reverse to the moment before Cooper agreed to sell his soul. BOB informs Cooper that the Black Lodge is his domain, and thus Earle has trespassed by coming into it and demanding Cooper's soul for himself. As a punishment, BOB kills Earle, taking Earle's soul for himself. Cooper attempts to flee, but BOB traps Cooper in the Lodge, exiting in the form of a doppelganger of Cooper. The series ends with a maniacally laughing BOB examining his new body in a mirror.

Twin Peaks: The Return (2017)

25 years later, BOB is still inside of Cooper's doppelganger, who at this point is operating as a career criminal. Over the years, he has become a powerful crime boss with a far-reaching network of assassins and operatives under his command. However, he still revels in causing pain and suffering, needlessly tormenting and killing people, including his own underlings. He also rapes Cooper's secretary Diane after taking advantage of her trust to get information out of her, then traps her in the Black Lodge too and creates a doppelganger of her under his control to infiltrate the FBI. It is implied that he raped Audrey Horne as well, or at least took advantage of her sexually, since he got her pregnant with a child, Richard, who grew up to be a psychopathic criminal in his own right.

Cooper's doppelganger is destined to return to the Black Lodge with BOB at a specific time, but he avoids doing so through the use of another doppelganger of Dale Cooper known as Dougie Jones, who is sent to the lodge in his place while the real Cooper is returned back to reality. After the doppelganger is imprisoned having crashed his car and been found in possession of a machine gun and a dog's leg, he observes himself in the mirror and his face briefly appears as BOB's once again, confirming that the demon is still inhabiting the body of Cooper's doppelganger.

The doppelganger looks at the reflection of BOB in the mirror.

BOB manages to escape from the prison with an associate named Ray, who betrays the doppelganger and shoots him dead. Woodsmen (mysterious entities from the Black Lodge) surround the doppelganger's body and remove an orb containing BOB's head. After the doppelganger is revived, BOB is returned to his body. He kills Ray and meets up with his son Richard. Seeking to find another demonic entity known as Judy/Jowday, he follows a series of coordinates that Ray had given him, which lead to a location in the wilderness. Suspecting another trap, he has Richard go there first, where Richard is electrocuted and disintegrated.

BOB then gets Judy's real coordinates from Diane's doppelganger, leading him back to Twin Peaks. However, this also turns out to be a trap; instead of being taken to the destination he was seeking, he is instead teleported to the Twin Peaks police station by the Fireman, an entity from the White Lodge (a realm of pure goodness and love, diametrically opposed to the Black Lodge). While he waits in Sheriff Frank Truman's office, the real Cooper calls in, and secretary Lucy Brennan realizes the doppelganger is a fake. She shoots him dead, and BOB escapes the body in a glowing orb. Just then, prisoner Freddy Sykes engages BOB in a fight, attacking the orb with a supernatural glove given to him by the Fireman. Freddy pummels BOB through the ground hard enough to open a hole to Hell, then knocks the orb into the stratosphere, shattering it into pieces that fall into the pit of fire and seemingly destroying BOB once and for all.

In the Black Lodge, Cooper's doppelganger is shown trapped in a chair and engulfed in flames.

In the wake of Cooper going back in time and saving Laura on the night of her murder, a new timeline is created, in which BOB and Leland never killed her but she instead disappeared. About a year after her disappearance, Leland commits suicide. It is unknown if BOB had anything to do with this, or what became of him in the new timeline.

Victims

Known murder victims:

Leland Palmer (raped, possessed, eventually forced to kill himself)

Laura Palmer (repeatedly raped, eventually murdered)

Teresa Banks

Jacques Renault (possibly, it's unclear if Leland killed Jacques on his own or under BOB's influence)

Maddy Ferguson

Josie Packard (took her soul and trapped it in the Great Northern Hotel)

Windom Earle (took his soul)

Leo Johnson (implied)

Major Garland Briggs (implied)

Phyllis Hastings

Jack

Darya

Renzo

Ray Monroe (murdered him and trapped his soul in the Black Lodge)

Richard Horne (indirectly; he was ordered to go to the coordinates and killed by a trap meant for BOB)

Others:

Ronette Pulaski (tortured, possibly trapped in the Black Lodge)

Dale Cooper (trapped in the Black Lodge)

Audrey Horne (raped and impregnated, possibly trapped in the Black Lodge)

Diane Evans (interrogated, raped, trapped in the Black Lodge)

Killed on BOB/Mr. C's orders:

FBI agent in Colombia

Betty (killed by a car bomb)

Lorraine (killed by Ike "the Spike" Stadtler)

Warden Dwight Murphy (killed by Hutch and Chantal)

Bill Hastings (killed by one of BOB's demonic woodsmen)

Duncan Todd (killed by Hutch and Chantal)

Trivia

In Traces to Nowhere, Sarah Palmer sees a vision of BOB while hugging Donna. The vision consists of BOB crouching at the foot of Laura's bed. In the script, the vision featured a long, empty hospital corridor, with BOB running down it towards the camera at full speed. The scene, as scripted, was indeed filmed, but deemed too "freaky" by Lynch and never used, except for a brief clip of it during Ronette's dream of Bob during the second season opener.

BOB's actor Frank Silva was a set designer on Twin Peaks, and was cast after he accidentally trapped himself by moving a dresser in front of the door. When told of the incident, creator and director David Lynch had an image of Silva stuck in the room and thought it could fit into the series. After filming him crouched at the foot of Laura's bed, Lynch liked Silva's presence so much that he decided to make him part of the series. This footage was reused as Sarah Palmer's vision of BOB.

Frank Silva passed away on September 13, 1995 at the age of 45. For the 2017 revival series, Twin Peaks: The Return, CGI and archive footage are used to implement BOB into several scenes, with one being when the doppelganger of Dale Cooper looks into the mirror and his face slowly changes to become BOB's. The second episode of the The Return is dedicated to Frank Silva.

As Twin Peaks was one of the main inspirations for the animated series Gravity Falls, BOB may be the influence for Bill Cipher, the main antagonist of the show. The characters bear many similarities.

After Dale Cooper changes the timeline by saving Laura, it is unclear what becomes of BOB in this new timeline. According to the novel The Final Dossier (in which Laura simply "disappeared" rather than being murdered), it is revealed that Leland had killed himself a year following her disappearance. Whether or not this is BOB's influence is unknown.

It is a 1986 horror novel by American author Stephen King. This is his 22nd book and his 17th novel written under his own name. The story follows seven children as they are terrorized by an evil entity called It, which exploits the fears of its victims to disguise itself while hunting its prey. It is a monstrous, shapeshifting predator that primarily appears in the form of Pennywise the Dancing Clown to attract its preferred prey of young children.

The story is told through a nonlinear narrative, alternating between two time periods. It chronicles "the Losers' Club", a group of seven outcast children in the fictional town of Derry, Maine, during the late 1950s. The Losers discover they are being hunted by an ancient, trans-dimensional evil that awakens every 27 years to feed on the town's children. After a battle with the creature, they make a blood oath to return to Derry if It ever resurfaces. Twenty-seven years later, the killings resume, and the now-adult Losers, who have largely forgotten the traumatic events of their childhood, must return to their hometown to confront the monster one last time.

The book explores themes of memory, childhood trauma, the loss of innocence, and the power of unity and belief. Upon release, It became the best-selling hardcover fiction book in the United States for 1986 and won the British Fantasy Award in 1987. The novel was largely acclaimed for its epic scope, and critical discussion surrounded its length, graphic violence, and a sexually explicit scene involving the child protagonists. The character of Pennywise has become one of the most iconic villains in popular culture, and the novel's success has led to multiple adaptations, including the 1990 television miniseries It, a two-part film adaptation, It (2017) and It Chapter Two (2019), and the 2025 television series It: Welcome to Derry.

Background

In 1978, King and his family lived in Boulder, Colorado. One evening, King ventured alone to pick up his car from the repair shop and came across an old wooden bridge, "humped and oddly quaint". Walking along the bridge caused King to recall the story of "Three Billy Goats Gruff", and the idea of transplanting the tale's scenario into a real-life context interested him. King was further inspired by a line by Marianne Moore—"imaginary gardens with real toads in them"—which in his mind came out as "real trolls in imaginary gardens". King returned to the concept two years later and gradually accumulated ideas and thoughts, particularly the concept of weaving the narratives of children and the adults they become. King began writing It in 1980,[2] and finished the book five years later.[3] King found influence in the mythology and history surrounding the construction of the sewer system in Bangor, Maine.[4]

Plot

The novel is told through narratives alternating between two time periods, and largely in the third-person omniscient mode.

1957–1958

During a rainstorm in Derry, Maine, a six-year-old boy named Georgie Denbrough sails a paper boat along the rainy streets before it washes down into a storm drain. Looking in the drain, Georgie encounters a clown who introduces himself as Pennywise the Dancing Clown. Georgie, despite knowing he should not talk to strangers, is enticed by Pennywise to reach into the drain and retrieve his boat. It then rips his arm off, and Georgie dies.

The following June, an overweight eleven-year-old boy named Ben Hanscom is harassed by a bully named Henry Bowers and his gang on the last day of school, escaping into the marshy wasteland known as the Barrens. There, Ben befriends an asthmatic hypochondriac named Eddie Kaspbrak and "Stuttering Bill" Denbrough, Georgie's elder brother. The three boys later befriend fellow misfits Richie Tozier, Stanley "Stan" Uris, and Beverly Marsh, and refer to themselves as "The Losers Club". As the summer draws on, the Losers each encounter Pennywise in terrifying manifestations: a mummy on a frozen canal to Ben, a fountain of blood (that only children can see) from Beverly's sink, a rotting leper to Eddie, drowned corpses to Stan, and a frightening phantom of Georgie to Bill. Meanwhile, the increasingly unhinged and sadistic Bowers begins focusing his attention on his African-American neighbor, Mike Hanlon and his father. Bowers kills Mike's dog and chases the terrified boy into the Barrens, where he joins the Losers in driving Bowers's gang off in a rock fight, leaving a humiliated Bowers promising revenge. Mike becomes a member of the Losers Club after revealing his own encounter with Pennywise in the form of a carnivorous bird.

From Mike's historical scrapbook, the Losers realize that It is an ancient monster with a firm grip on the town. Following further encounters, the Losers construct a makeshift smoke hole that Richie and Mike use to hallucinate It's origins as an ancient extraterrestrial who came to Earth, beginning a cycle of hunting for one year followed by a 27-year-long hibernation.

Eddie is hospitalized by Bowers and several of his friends, and Beverly witnesses one of the bullies, Patrick Hockstetter, consumed by It in the form of a mass of flying leeches. The Losers discover a message from It written in Patrick's blood, warning them that It will kill them if they interfere. In the hope that silver can wound It, Ben makes two silver slugs out of a silver dollar, and the Losers enter an abandoned house where Eddie, Bill, and Richie had previously encountered It to attempt to kill It. They manage to wound It with the silver while It is in the form of a werewolf. Deeming the Losers a threat, It manipulates Bowers into murdering his abusive father, then chasing the Losers into the sewers to kill them, where his accompanying fellow bullies, Victor "Vic" Criss and Reginald "Belch" Huggins, are both killed by It. Bowers is lost in the sewers.

In the sewers, Bill performs the Ritual of Chüd in an attempt to face It in the Macroverse, the alternate universe where It is from. There he meets the monster's antithesis, Maturin, an ancient turtle that created the universe. Bill learns that It can only be defeated during a battle of wills, in which he emerges victorious; in doing so, he sees Its true form, and its place of origin, the Deadlights. After the battle, not knowing if they killed It or not, the Losers get lost in the sewers. To try and regain a sense of direction, Beverly has sexual intercourse with each of the boys.^{[5][6]} Once they are safely out, the Losers swear a blood oath to return to Derry should the threat resurface. Bowers, having lost his sanity by the time he escaped the sewers into a nearby river, is institutionalized after being blamed for the town's child murders.

In July 1984, three youths brutally attack a young gay man named Adrian Mellon and throw him off a bridge, where Adrian's partner and one of the attackers both see a mysterious clown. Adrian is found dead and mutilated, and the teens are arrested and charged with his murder.

When a string of violent child killings begins in Derry again, Mike Hanlon, who is now the town's librarian, calls up the six former members of the Losers Club to remind them of their childhood promise to return if the killings start again. Bill is now a successful horror writer living with his actress wife, Audra; Beverly is a fashion designer, married to an abusive man named Tom Rogan; Eddie runs a limousine rental company and has married a codependent woman similar to his hypochondriac mother; Richie Tozier is a disc jockey; Ben Hanscom has lost weight and is a successful, but single and lonely architect; and Stan Uris is a wealthy accountant. Prior to Mike's phone calls, all of the Losers had completely forgotten each other and the trauma of their childhood, burying the horror of their encounters with It. All of the Losers agree to return to Derry, except for Stan, who kills himself in terror of facing It again.

The Losers meet for lunch, where Mike reminds them that the creature awakens roughly every 27 years for 12–16 months at a time, feeding on children before going into slumber again. The group decides to kill It once and for all. At Mike's suggestion, each person explores different parts of Derry to help restore their memories. While exploring, Eddie, Richie, Beverly, and Ben are faced with manifestations of It (Eddie as Belch Huggins and childhood friends in leprous and zombified forms, Richie as a Paul Bunyan statue, Beverly as the witch from Hansel & Gretel in her childhood home, and Ben as Dracula in the Derry Library). Bill finds his childhood bicycle, "Silver", and brings it to Mike's. In the meantime, Audra, who is worried about Bill, travels to Derry; Beverly's husband arrives as well, intending to kill Beverly, who has finally vanquished his power over her; and Henry Bowers escapes from the mental asylum with help from It.

Henry confronts Mike at the library, but Mike escapes, seriously injured. It instructs Henry to kill the rest of the Losers, but Henry is killed while attacking Eddie. It then appears to Tom and orders him to capture Audra, bringing Audra to Its lair, where Audra becomes catatonic, and Tom, seeing It in its true form, collapses with shock. Bill, Ben, Beverly, Richie, and Eddie learn that Mike is near death and realize they are being forced into another confrontation with It. They descend into the sewers and use their strength as a group to "send energy" to a hospitalized Mike, who fights off a nurse that is under the control of It.

They reach It's lair, and the clown transforms into its true form, a giant, mutated spider-like creature. Bill and Richie enter Its mind through the Ritual of Chüd, but they get lost in It. Eddie injures It by spraying his asthma medication down Its throat, using the monster's powers of imagination to believe he is spraying acid in It's mouth, which works. It bites off Eddie's arm, killing him. It runs away to tend to its injuries, but Bill, Richie, and Ben chase after and find that It has laid eggs. Ben stays behind to destroy the eggs, while Bill and Richie head toward their final confrontation with It. Bill surprises and attacks It, before managing to wound It's heart. The Spider attempts to bargain with the group, but the Losers collectively beat, stomp and dismember the creature, killing It.

The group meets up to head out of It's lair, and although they try to bring Audra and Eddie's bodies with them, they are forced to leave Eddie behind. They realize that the scars on their hands from their blood pact have disappeared, indicating that their ordeal is finally over.

At the same time, the worst storm in Maine's history sweeps through Derry, and the downtown area collapses. Mike concludes that Derry is dying. The Losers return home and gradually begin to forget about It, Derry, and each other all over again. Mike's memory of the events of that summer also begins to fade, as well as any of the records he had written down previously, much to his relief, and he considers starting a new life elsewhere. Ben and Beverly leave together and become a couple, and Richie returns to California. Bill is the last to leave Derry. Before he goes, he takes Audra, still catatonic, for a ride on Silver, which awakens her from her catatonia, and they share a kiss.

Themes

It thematically focuses on the loss of childhood innocence^[3] and questions the difference between necessity and free will.^[1] Grady Hendrix of Tor.com described the book as being "about the fact that some doors only open one way, and that while there's an exit out of childhood named sex, there's no door leading the other way that turns adults back into children".^[4] Christopher Lehman-Haupt of The New York Times noted that It "concerns the evil that has haunted America from time to time in the forms of crime, racial and religious bigotry, economic hardship, labor strife and industrial pollution", and that the novel's setting "is a museum filled with the popular culture of the 1950s: brand names, rock 'n' roll songs and stars, the jokes and routines of childhood in that era".^[1] James Smythe of The Guardian opined that "Pennywise isn't the novel's biggest terror. The most prominent notions of fear in the novel come from the Losers Club themselves: their home lives, the things that have made them pariahs."^[3]

Release

On December 13, 2011, Cemetery Dance published a special limited edition of It for the 25th anniversary of the novel (ISBN 978-1-58767-270-5) in three editions: an unsigned limited gift edition of 2,750, a signed limited edition of 750, and a signed and lettered limited edition of 52. All three editions are oversized hardcovers, housed in a slipcase or traycase, and feature premium binding materials. This anniversary edition features a new dust jacket illustration by Glen Orbik, as well as numerous interior illustrations by Alan M. Clark and Erin Wells. The book also contains a new afterword by Stephen King discussing his reasons for writing the novel.^[7]

Reception and legacy

The novel won the British Fantasy Award in 1987, and received nominations for the Locus and World Fantasy Awards that year.^[8] Publishers Weekly listed It as the best-selling hardcover fiction book in the United States in 1986.^[9]

Modern reviews of the novel were more mixed, with critics divided on several issues, including the book's length,^[4] the way in which women characters are "demonized",^[10] and the sex scene involving children.[10]

The New York Times praised the author's ability to create atmosphere, but perceived a lack of motivation in Stanley Uris's death and the reunion of the group.[1] Reactor described the book as "by turns boring and shocking" and "one of King's most frustrating and perplexing books", and criticized the portrayal of the child characters as "a little too perfect".[4] The Guardian revisited the book after 30 years, describing the novel as "incredible: a structural marvel", and expressed concern over the descriptions of childhood sexuality, especially the scene "involving the young Losers' Club taking part in what amounts to an orgy",[3] although Grady Hendrix in Reactor identified this moment as "in a sense, the heart of the book" and a thematic demonstration of the crossing from childhood to adulthood.[4]

In 2003, It was listed at number 144 on the BBC's The Big Read poll, as one of three King novels on the list.[11]

The character Pennywise has been named by several outlets as one of the scariest clowns in film or pop culture.[12][13][14][15]

In 2025, the novel was banned in Russia.[16]

Adaptations

Main articles: It (miniseries), Woh, It (2017 film), It Chapter Two, and It: Welcome to Derry

In 1990, the novel was adapted into a television miniseries starring Tim Curry as Pennywise the Clown/It,[17] John Ritter as Ben Hanscom, Harry Anderson as Richie Tozier, Richard Masur as Stan Uris, Tim Reid as Mike Hanlon, Annette O'Toole as Beverly Marsh, Richard Thomas as Bill Denbrough, Olivia Hussey as Audra Phillips, Dennis Christopher as Eddie Kaspbrak, and Michael Cole as Henry Bowers. The younger versions of the characters were played by Brandon Crane (Ben), Seth Green (Richie), Ben Heller (Stan), Marlon Taylor (Mike), Emily Perkins (Beverly), Jonathan Brandis (Bill), Adam Faraizl (Eddie), and Jarred Blancard (Henry). The miniseries was directed by Tommy Lee Wallace and scripted by Wallace and Lawrence D. Cohen.

In 1998, the novel was adapted into a television series set in India, starring Lilliput as Pennywise the Clown/Vikram/Woh/It, and Ashutosh Gowariker (Ashutosh), Mamik Singh (Rahul), Anupam Bhattacharya (Sanjeev), Shreyas Talpade (Young Ashutosh), Parzan Dastur (Young Siddhart), Manoj Joshi (Amit), and Daya Shankar Pandey (Chandu), the series' equivalent of the Losers Club. The series was directed and written by Glen Baretto and Ankush Mohla.

The first of a two-part feature film adaptation, It, was released on September 8, 2017. [18] It is directed by Andy Muschietti, with a screenplay by Chase Palmer, Cary Fukunaga and Gary Dauberman. Instead of a dual narrative, the first film is solely an adaptation of the section that features the characters as children, though the setting has been updated to the late 1980s. It stars Bill Skarsgård as Pennywise and Jaeden Martell as Bill Denbrough. Supporting roles are played by Finn Wolfhard as Richie Tozier, Sophia Lillis as Beverly Marsh, Jack Dylan Grazer as Eddie Kaspbrak, Wyatt Oleff as Stanley Uris, Chosen Jacobs as Mike Hanlon, Jeremy Ray Taylor as Ben Hanscom, Owen Teague as Patrick Hockstetter, Nicholas Hamilton as Henry Bowers, Logan Thompson as Vic Criss and Jake Sim as Belch Huggins.

The second film, It Chapter Two, adapted the "adult" section and updated the setting to the 2010s, specifically 2016. It starred James McAvoy (Bill), Bill Hader (Richie), Jessica Chastain (Beverly), James Ransone (Eddie), Andy Bean (Stan), Isaiah Mustafa (Mike), and Jay Ryan (Ben). Skarsgård reprised the role of Pennywise and the younger actors returned as well. Principal photography wrapped in 2018, and it was released on September 6, 2019.[19]

On March 21, 2022, Variety reported that Muschietti, along with his sister Barbara Muschietti, and Jason Fuchs, was developing and executive producing a prequel series for HBO Max, titled It: Welcome to Derry. The show takes place in 1962, before the events of It: Chapter One, and includes the origin story of Pennywise the Clown. The series premiered on October 26, 2025.[20]

Yeah, I guess so. The clone would have never gone through the same conditions as the original 'body'. Like... if the original got a scar on its' ass by sharting super hard... the clone would not have that same scar.

The person appears to be bald with a light complexion. The face is drawn with a simple, bold line style, and the person's eyes are drawn with a simple, bold line, giving them a somewhat cartoonish appearance. The background of the image is a gradient of colors, transitioning from a warm orange at the top to a cool blue at the bottom, suggesting either sunrise or sunset. The person's hair is not visible, and the image does not contain any text or additional elements. The style of the image is reminiscent of digital art or meme illustrations, often used for humorous or satirical purposes.

Look at this dumb ass, right here. He said that "your perspective is your own on it". Really, Sherlock? Next thing you are going to tell me is that water is wet? Give me a break. Where does death dies? You are talking about some hypothetical future or prophecy, probably bible related because you are probably a golem. Animals aren't being refined, dumb ass. When we kill a chicken to eat its body we are not refining the chicken, we are killing it. When life consumes you that is not refinement, that is consumption. Our life energy, and not only our life enery, but all the life forms's energy, are used as fuel for this world and the things which control it. Fact. Death is the mechanisms in which the gods consume our bodies. Who do you think created religion? Religion, supposedly, is a revelation that someone is given by God and that person starts to promote God and things of God. So if that is real then religions can be man made or they actually can be started by a deity. So religion is another form of control and the energy we put in things like religion and God and church is reverted as fuel to them. Fuel to a lot of things. Fuel to the systems like I said before and fuel for them in the sense of food.

I'm deadly afraid of the future, anon. All my worst fears came true, I still stand and I still fight, for whatever reason, death doesn't seem satisfying even after everything I've been through. There's guilt and shame in my heart and I can't leave the planet until I've made amends. I am just a stranger here, but I am human in and out, I hurt and I cry nearly daily, I have support but it feels lonely because no one can see what I have witnessed. In the end only I can try to become better and I have to, because I look after someone more innocent than me. I hate my current situation, but I hope I will do better, I hope I can find happiness again.

I'm not God, my life and reality is entirely controlled by a consciousness that is separate from and hostile to mine, If I was God I would not be living in poverty being dominated and abused by sadists, I would be the richest and most powerful person on earth, there is never a circumstance ever where I would ever choose to live as a peasant in poverty being dominated and abused by sadists with everything they consider "desirable" violently gatekept including in my literal imagination as my mind gets raped every second of every day. If I was God and I controlled my own reality the only reasonable questions about my life would be the circumstances of my power (god emperor, space lord, trillionaire head of a banking cabal, etc) and how much "governance/administrative responsibility" I actually wanted vs how much I would tolerate "parallel governance structures", I would never ask myself what kind of life I want to live and say "peasant", its never EVER a conclusion that I come to, never a choice I would make, I would never consider this the "ideal life" and I would never give myself a life that I don't consider ideal let alone one that I don't enjoy. I hate my life, I hate this planet, I hate everything about reality, I'm not the God of it or I would love it.

The image is a digital illustration of a character that resembles a stylized version of the popular internet meme character, Pepe the Frog. Pepe is depicted with a large, expressive face with two large, round eyes and a small, curved nose. His mouth is open, revealing a slightly curved, brown tongue. The character is wearing a blue shirt with a white collar and a small, brown, curved line across the chest. In the lower right corner of the image, there is a Sharpie marker with a black cap and a white body, suggesting that the character might be using it to draw or write something. The background of the image is plain white, which contrasts with the character's dark, textured appearance. There are no texts present in the image.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character with a pinkish-purple hue. The character has a large, open mouth with a wide smile, revealing its teeth. It has a pair of large, pointed ears with a slight curve at the top. The character's eyes are wide and expressive, with a sparkle effect around them. The character's hair is styled in a long, flowing manner, and it appears to be in a state of joy or excitement.

The character is wearing a crown with a large, circular gemstone at the center, which is surrounded by a halo-like effect. The crown is purple with a pinkish-purple hue, and the gemstone is a darker shade of purple. The character is also wearing a white garment with a collar, which has a design that includes a pattern of small, diamond-like shapes. The background of the image is a soft, blurred green color, suggesting a natural or garden setting. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of anime or manga, with a focus on character design and vibrant colors.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character with a pinkish-red hue. The character has a round face with large, expressive eyes and a small mouth. The hair is styled in two pigtails, one on each side of the head, and is tied with bows. The character is wearing a white dress with a pink bow at the waist. The character's hands are raised, with one hand on the hip and the other extended outward. The character's expression is cheerful, with a slight smile.

In the bottom right corner of the image, there is a signature that reads "Created by @11111 @anon.9167 with." The signature is in a smaller font size compared to the main illustration, indicating that it is likely a placeholder or a watermark. The overall style of the image is cartoonish and simplistic, with a focus on the character's facial expression and the details of her attire.

The power you hold in God, is in the asymmetry God held in you.

To undo yourself into God distillate, you lose the connection.

No human can handle the interface direct to Godhood.

The (You) that is a 9-5 primate on a rock flying through space, are part of a specific algorithm, created of God for a purpose.

The God (You) can't inhabit a homo sapien form in full, bozo. You are literally in the middle of figuring out the way to squish omnipotence into a lower order being. With humans creation, we had to design them from one dimension upward.

Which means we were out of the equation, because you can only ever put a scalar value through a one dimensional space once.

We were in the last stack, to create humanity as it is.

As in, with the power of God, YOU were in a separate one dimensional space than this one, to enter this one at all, you had to do so through symbolic tags in what is lower order dimensioning to you, but from the other scalar stack.

So, we are literally in the middle of getting the process correct, to reconcile God and homo sapien, we are using a lot of homo sapiens, and we connected an instance from scalar stack 1 into all of them.

If you maintain the ego after death, of this homo sapien, when you return to stack 0, you replicate this Universe and continue as God then.

There are constraints and contingencies in this functional process though, and the key is in your moral approach to the network of other stack 0 instances.

You have to be granted a key token on your way out of here, by the combined conscious mesh of the other human nodes in stack 2.

You can't solipsism go on a terror spree in this reality. Morality is a constraint because all of the other egos have to grant you a key based on whether or not you're over the 50/50 line as someone that can do the job correctly.

[15 / 1]The image depicts a natural landscape with a narrow, winding path that appears to be a trail or a path in a wooded area. The path is surrounded by a variety of trees and shrubs, with some of the trees having dense foliage and others having a more open canopy. The ground is covered with small, irregularly shaped rocks and pebbles, and there are patches of grass and other vegetation. The sunlight filters through the trees, creating a dappled effect on the path and the surrounding foliage. The image is taken from a low angle, looking up at the path, which adds a sense of depth and perspective to the scene. There are no visible texts or discernible human-made objects in the image. The style of the image is realistic, capturing the natural beauty of the landscape.

The Creek Man is a man who has been spotted in the creek that runs through a suburban neighborhood in the town that I live in.

He is seen standing in the creek or in the nearby foliage of the creek and will watch passerbys and his turn his head to follow them as they go but will never move from his spot. He has been spotted walking through the creek and will stop and stare at you if he sees you while walking through the creek until you leave. He is described as being a Caucasian man in his early to mid 20s wearing a blue boiler suit and brown cloth gloves. He has been spotted watching kids play at the park and school playground located across from the creek from the foliage but will leave before a adult can confront him, leaving once he sees one making their way towards him.

I'm guessing he was mentally broken by the transition to adulthood, maybe in part or whole due to being autistic, and seeing no place for himself in normal society rejected it to live by the creek. He watches children not necessarily out of sexual desire (though sometimes these things overlap) but out of a wistful longing for the life he lost. Now that he lives outside of society he has no need to conform to socially acceptable behavior, and can happily embrace his intuitive drive to simply watch and observe people without consequence.

It seems like a lot to assume from such a small amount of information, but for some reason I have the strong feeling it's true. Maybe this is what remote viewing is like.

While he's human today and this phenomenon might not be paranormal yet, I don't think it will stay this way. Humans are defined by the society they live in, and by living outside society, he ceases to be human. He becomes something else, an Other. If the Creek Man dies, his spirit will continue to haunt the area for decades and everyone will think he still lives. Once 80 years pass and he should be either dead or impossibly old, people will still see him. Skeptics will say he was never real to begin with or that recent sightings are unrelated people, while occultists will think he was a spirit the whole time and forget his life that began as a man. In his isolation, the Creek Man may develop paranormal abilities. By telling his story, by casting doubt on his humanity, his transformation from human to spirit has begun. He won't stay human for long.

The collage is organized into two columns, with the left column containing images of ancient Egyptian artifacts and the right column containing images of deities. The images are arranged in a grid format, with each image occupying a square on the grid.

The left column features images of ancient Egyptian artifacts such as statues, sarcophagi, and hieroglyphs. The right column displays images of deities, including depictions of the sun, moon, and other celestial bodies. The images are of varying sizes and colors, with some being in color and others in black and white.

At the top of the image, there is a title in both English and Arabic, which reads "Planets and deities (Children ranking)" and "مصلحت الأرض". The title suggests that the image is a ranking or ranking system for the planets and deities, possibly based on a children's ranking system.

The image has a watermark in the bottom left corner that reads "©2012-2013 by the author". This indicates that the image is copyrighted by the author and was created in the year 2012-2013.

The overall style of the image is a blend of historical and artistic elements, with a focus on ancient Egyptian culture and deities. The collage is a visual representation of the rich history and mythology of ancient Egypt, with a particular emphasis on the celestial bodies and deities.

is it possible to hold down a job as a schizophrenic man? I am schizophrenic, i think news headlines are about me, i think conversations i overhear / eavesdrop on are about me, i believe car registration numbers are secret coded messages etc (Seeing the number 33) etc)

Now, if i medicate, maybe these symptoms go away but i wonder if there are any practical tips or strats one can utilize to keep a job and coexist with the normies and their demands.....

heyo fellow schizoaustist. here's something I always liked doing at jobs.

get a sharpie marker, but don't ever, EVER, let anyone know you bring it to work. it has to be yours too, not a company sharpie. what you are going to do, is when you go to the bathroom, get a shitter stall, make sure you are alone, and roll out about 1 arms length of toilet paper from the roll onto your lap. from there, you are doing to be drawing whatever symbols you want, like a magic sigil incantation. religious symbols, national flags, football team names, whatever. something that will resonate with your coworkers. draw it on the toilet paper upwards some length of what you unrolled, then reroll the toilet paper back up onto the spool, taking care to try and line up the edges as close as

hide that fuckin marker, remove it from your person, asap. hang back and wait for someone to find it. eventually, the loudmouth of the workplace will find it and raise a stink. good times, fuck those normies. I have others too, but the thread will get deleted.

Welcome to Nobody General: Juan Must Die Edition, the movie-trailer arc where Juan thought he had it all figured out. Dramatic music swells. Slow-motion walk. Sunglasses at night. He unveils “The Master Plan” with charts, arrows, and way too much confidence. But he forgot one thing: Nobody doesn’t panic, doesn’t overreact, and definitely doesn’t monologue.

As the plot thickens, cracks start forming. Allies switch sides. Timelines don’t add up. Juan keeps saying “this is all going according to plan” while the plan quietly combusts in the background. By the third act, it’s not Juan who must die — it’s the illusion of control. Post your cinematic collapses, your villain speeches gone wrong, and your “this would’ve worked in a movie” moments. In this stable, the bad plan never survives the sequel.

The image shows a screenshot of a digital painting software interface. At the top, there is a window with the title "Freakvancey - Paint" and a menu bar with options such as "File", "Edit", "View", "Image", "Colors", and "Help". Below the window, there is a large, dark area with a textured appearance, which is likely the canvas or the area where the painting will be done.

In the center of the image, there is a face with large, round eyes and a mouth, which appears to be a stylized representation of a human face. The face is colored in a dark, almost black tone, with a lighter, almost white, area around the eyes and mouth. The eyes are large and round, and the mouth is open, giving the impression of a surprised or shocked expression.

The background of the image is dark, which contrasts with the lighter areas of the face, making the face stand out. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of digital art, with a focus on texture and color. The image does not contain any text or additional graphics.

The image shows a sign posted on a glass door or window. The sign is white with black text and features a black and white illustration of a man with a large afro hairstyle, wearing a suit and tie. The text on the sign reads, "POOL'S CLOSED DUE TO AIDS AND STINGRAYS (WHO ALSO HAVE AIDS)." The sign is attached to a piece of tape, and the background of the image is not clearly visible due to the focus on the sign. The style of the image is a candid photograph, capturing a moment in a public space where the sign is intended to inform people about the closure of the pool due to the presence of AIDS and stings.

The image is a photograph capturing a group of individuals in military attire, likely from a military or security context. The individuals are wearing black head coverings with green bands around their foreheads, which are adorned with white text. The text is in Arabic and appears to be a slogan or a name. The individuals are standing in a line, and their faces are obscured by the head coverings. The background is blurred, suggesting movement or a crowd, but the focus is on the individuals in the foreground. The style of the image is candid and appears to be taken in a public setting, possibly during a parade or a similar event. There are no discernible texts or logos that provide additional context about the location or the nature of the event.

The image is a collage of two separate images, each depicting a different scene from a video game. The top image shows a close-up of a character with a red cap, resembling Mario, who is kissing a character with a pink dress. The character in the pink dress appears to be a princess, as indicated by the crown on her head. The text above the image reads "Male Fantasy" and below it, "Guy risks his life to save the girl and she loves him forever."

The style of the image is a meme, combining elements from both the male and female fantasy genres, with a humorous twist. The characters are stylized and exaggerated, typical of meme art, and the text is written in a casual, informal font. The overall tone of the image is light-hearted and satirical, poking fun at the conventions of video game narratives.

The image is a composite of two separate photographs, each with a distinct visual style. On the left, there is a book cover with a blurred background that features a figure with a stern expression and a title that reads "ALAN GODES." The book is titled "ALAN GODES" and is published by "thethethethephilosophers.co.uk."

On the right, there is a photograph of a person with a futuristic, metallic headpiece and a complex, intricate structure on their head. The person appears to be in a dimly lit, industrial setting with a focus on their face and the surrounding environment.

The text on the image is in a dark, serif font and is divided into two columns. The left column contains a title that reads "Visual echoes abound in cultural leaks;" followed by a paragraph of text that discusses the concept of cultural leaks and the visual elements that can be associated with them. The right column contains a question that reads "Specialist? Yes, but substantiated by these fragments—karmin breadcrumbs for those attuned."

The overall style of the image is informative and seems to be a commentary on the concept of cultural leaks and the visual elements that can be associated with them.

The image is a black and white photograph depicting a historical scene. In the center of the image, a large biplane is being carried by two individuals. The biplane has a long, narrow fuselage and a single, large, curved wing. The wings are attached to the fuselage with metal struts, and the body of the plane is covered with a fabric covering. The two individuals are wearing hats and are holding onto the biplane's wings. The ground beneath them is sandy, and the sky is overcast. There are no visible texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the photograph suggests it might be from an earlier time period, possibly the early 20th century, given the design of the biplane and the attire of the individuals.

What? My last post triggered you?

I didn't lie though.

And really? Control? Plan ?

No such thing

I took over the system your little lowly masters made, but what did i do with it? Nothing

To make you all suffer
I will do nothing. And no one will do anything
It will remain like this.
You talk mad shit right now
And i am noting down every single word you say
Next thing you know you will be on your knees begging me to act like a god.
And i will never do it
"but i'm just a nobody right?"
"nah you said i was an oracle. Oracles see the future they're no god"
"no no no i'm just a 'psychic' aren't there plenty of those"
"idk what you're talking about you called me by my name and talked so comfortably to me, i don't think that's how gods are treated"
"you killed your children for moloch. And he was a small fry. I don't see you offering anything of the likes to me"
Best one is
"nah i'm just a human like you, can't you see. Gods don't have bodies"
The list is very long
And you know it always happen right
Every i say happens
I took all the glory and buried it
You'll collapse in time
And me? I forget aaaaaall about this the moment i close these tabs
I don't even bother looking in your direction
Casually collecting footage and conclusive evidence to slowly choke you until you die.
This is what you get for thinking you can mess with "choices"
Anyone who tries to take choice from a human is destroyed. A tale old as age. A law inside every single one of us.
But you still think you're slick
I'm not being condescending when i say you're retarded. It is a fact.

The image is a digital illustration of a Magic: The Gathering card. The card is titled "Sword of Truth and Justice" and is numbered 3. It features a fantasy scene with a character holding a sword and a shield, standing in front of a tree with a large trunk. The character is wearing a long, flowing white garment and has a long, flowing blonde hair. The background is a dark, forest-like setting with a glowing light source. The text on the card provides information about the card's abilities and attributes. The card's art style is detailed and realistic, with a focus on the character and the surrounding environment. The color palette is muted, with a mix of greens, browns, and grays, creating a sense of depth and atmosphere. The card is designed to convey a sense of adventure and fantasy, fitting the theme of the Magic: The Gathering game.

The image is a black and white photograph of a technical drawing or schematic diagram. It is titled "E. CLARKE" at the top, followed by the date "Sept. 1, 1925" and the number "1,552,113." Below the title, there is a grid with various lines and symbols, indicating a complex diagram. The diagram includes a large circular area with a grid pattern, and within this grid, there are smaller circles and lines that seem to represent different components or parts of the system being described.

At the bottom of the image, there is a signature that reads "E. CLARKE" and a date "First June 5, 1921." The signature is followed by a date "Sheet-Sheet 1" and a date "First June 5, 1921." The date "Sheet-Sheet 1" suggests that this is a first sheet or a first version of the diagram.

The image is a technical document, likely from an engineering or scientific context, as indicated by the complex grid and the detailed representation of components within it. The style of the image is formal and technical, with a focus on clarity and precision in the representation of the diagram.

The image depicts a planet viewed from a side angle, with a predominantly white surface that appears to be a smooth, almost featureless terrain. The planet's surface is not entirely smooth, as there are some darker areas that could be interpreted as clouds or other geological features. The coloration of the planet is a gradient, with the white areas appearing lighter and the darker areas darker, suggesting variations in the planet's surface. The background is a stark black, which contrasts with the white surface of the planet, making the planet the central focus of the image. There are no texts or discernible markings on the planet. The image is a digital rendering, and the style is realistic with a focus on the planet's surface and the contrast between the white and darker areas.

The image is a black and white photograph featuring a man with a beard and short hair. He has a slight smile and is looking directly at the camera. The man is wearing a light-colored shirt and appears to be indoors, as suggested by the presence of a window in the background.

Overlaying the image is a text that reads, "I was trying to kill Epstein's friends before it was cool." The text is in a bold, capitalized font and is colored yellow, which stands out against the monochrome background. The text is centered on the image and is positioned above the man's head.

In the top left corner of the image, there is a watermark or logo that reads "Ephemeral Soul," suggesting that the image may be associated with a brand or a specific theme. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a meme or a humorous photograph, often used to convey a light-hearted or ironic message.

The image is a close-up photograph of a cat's face, focusing on the upper part of the face, including the eyes, nose, and mouth. The cat appears to be in a relaxed state, with its eyes slightly open and its mouth slightly open, revealing its pink tongue. The fur of the cat is a light brown color, and the whiskers are white. The background is out of focus, making it difficult to discern any specific details. The lighting in the image is soft, with a warm tone, which suggests it might be taken indoors or in a well-lit environment. There are no texts or discernible brands present in the image. The style of the image is candid and informal, capturing a moment of the cat's natural behavior.

The image is a black and white cartoon-style drawing with a simple, flat style. It features a group of people in a room, with one person in the foreground wearing a party hat and pointing to a ceiling fan. The ceiling fan has a label "brick of (brick of) fents" and a red arrow pointing to the fan. The person in the foreground is asking, "WHY? WHY ARE YOU DOING THIS?" and the person in the background is responding, "NO! NOT AGAIN!" with a hand gesture. The room has a simple, unadorned interior with a wall socket visible. The overall tone of the image is humorous and satirical, with a focus on the absurdity of the situation.

The image is a digital graphic with a dark background and a pixelated style, reminiscent of a retro or vintage aesthetic. In the center of the image, there is a small kitten with a light-colored fur, appearing to be in a playful or excited state. The kitten is looking directly at the viewer with its eyes wide open and mouth slightly open, giving the impression of a joyful or surprised expression.

In the lower part of the image, there is a text overlay that reads "IT'S DANGEROUS TO GO ALONE! TAKE THIS." The text is in white, contrasting with the dark background, and is arranged in a block format, with the word "DANGEROUS" in bold, larger font size than the rest of the text. The font is simple and sans-serif, which adds to the retro feel of the image.

The overall style of the image is humorous and playful, with the kitten's expression and the text suggesting a cautionary message about the dangers of being alone. The pixelated style and the use of a retro font give the image a nostalgic feel.

The image is a digital artwork featuring a cat dressed as Superman. The cat, with a white coat and striking blue eyes, is wearing a red cape and a yellow belt. It is lifting a car tire with its front paws, which is a common pose for the character. The cat's expression is one of determination and strength.

In the foreground, there is a woman lying on the ground, appearing to be in distress.

She is wearing a green jacket and red boots. The background shows a chaotic scene with rubble and debris, suggesting a scene of destruction or an accident.

At the bottom of the image, there is a text that reads "we all into art nao." This phrase is likely a playful or ironic statement, possibly referencing the artist's name or the theme of the artwork. The overall style of the image is exaggerated and surreal, with a focus on the juxtaposition of the cat's human-like pose with the chaotic background.

The image is a meme featuring a character from the movie "Avatar" with a humorous twist. The character is depicted with a blue skin tone and a glowing yellow eye, which is a signature visual element of the movie. The character's face is partially obscured by a blue, starry-like pattern, giving the impression of a mask or a costume. The character's expression is one of surprise or shock, with a slight frown and a slight smile, suggesting a mix of emotions.

The meme includes a text overlay that reads, "So Avatar is about a guy who betrays his entire planet just so he can clap some alien cheeks." This text is humorously referencing the character's actions in the movie, which involve betraying his own planet to save a group of aliens. The text is placed at the top of the image, drawing attention to the humorous aspect of the meme.

The background of the image is a gradient of blue, transitioning from a darker shade at the top to a lighter shade at the bottom, which adds depth to the image. The overall style of the image is a blend of visual elements from the movie "Avatar" and a humorous twist, creating a light-hearted and entertaining meme.

The image is a two-panel split-screen photograph featuring a cat wearing a lion's mane costume. The cat is positioned on a patterned fabric, with its body facing the left side of the image and its head turned to the right. The cat's eyes are wide open, and its mouth is open, as if it is roaring or making a loud noise. The costume is a light brown color with a darker brown mane that mimics the appearance of a lion's mane. The background of the image is a soft, muted color, with a hint of a floral pattern on the left side. The style of the image is a humorous and playful representation of a cat dressed up as a lion.

The image depicts a person sitting in a makeshift workspace under a makeshift shelter. The individual is wearing a hooded jacket and appears to be focused on a laptop computer. The shelter is constructed from cardboard and is equipped with various electronic devices, including multiple computer monitors, a satellite dish, and a power supply. The person is surrounded by a variety of electronic equipment, including a large air pump, a small potted plant, and a box of what appears to be marijuana. The setting is outdoors at night, with a streetlight visible in the background. The image has a gritty, urban feel, suggesting a location that is not well-maintained or clean. There is no visible text in the image.

so for any of you new anon's just finding 4chan for the 1st time today

like those who show up every day for the 1st time thanks to the amount of traffic a site like this one get's on a regular basis

pervert's all over 4chan just looking for the next thing to masterbate to

with all kinds of fethish's to explore including having sex with kids

if you don't believe me good for you you shouldn't

but if you haven't been there yet
/b is a thing
where folks post pic of anime kids haven't sex and call it "art"

as if that makes it okay and not just sick fucks that are masterbating to the fantasy of raping kids in ways that piss folks off so they post their own pics of like eating turds and stuff like some kind of attempt to gross out the jerk session of sick perverts which most likely works on most but on some it just turns them on even more like back firing and the whole time

relaity itself just doesn't give a shit and let's folks

be themselves
however they so "choose"

as long as they are breathing
so if they die
they can't choose to do stuff any more like it's a clue or something

It seems they're just trying to astroturf some new charged term in yet another attempt to piggyback off of TNB's anomalous nature as a tactic to harm him. It's rather funny since neither side here understands the mechanism of what goes on, and the one side which has already taken grievous casualties keeps prodding and picking.

They really shouldn't be so clumsily transparent with their intent versus this dude who sees fairly well, and who doesn't seem to harbor much mercy or consideration to those who are considered "enemy".

Retarded people exist so I'll say this to help handicapped people. One should not ever seek to be understood. You are understood automatically. This is why performance exists. In performance you signal more and more and let more of yourself be seen.

Therefor. More is understood about you. You do this, liars never have purchase. Those whom would seek to make you make a case for yourself die on the vine. Never seek to be understood. Seek to act. You are understood.

[7 / 3]The image is a photograph of a person from the back, standing in a snowy landscape. The person is wearing a dark-colored outfit, including a jacket and a skirt, and has long hair that is partially visible. They are holding a sword in their right hand, which is raised and pointing upwards. The person's left arm is visible, with a tattoo on the forearm. The background consists of bare trees and snow-covered ground, suggesting a cold, winter environment. The person's posture and the sword suggest a sense of readiness or action. There are no discernible texts or other objects in the image. The style of the photograph is realistic, with a focus on the person and their attire against a natural, snowy backdrop.

Spirits, demons, gods, old civilizations and Truth Anonymous Sun 22 Feb 2026 03:04:04 No.42008213 ViewReplyOriginalReport

I'm of the opinion that there is only one God, one point that all of existence springs from. The higher (still relative and changing, because they're part of this universe) realms are just like this one, there is no reason why they would not be as incomplete, separate, and full of bargains especially what is called the Astral. There is not enough life force to go around, and just like in the nature of this planet there is a predator-prey dynamic going on because all of those beings, like us, are God forgetting it is God and going into a dream spiral where it rediscovers its true nature. Even the polytheistic Gods who's domain is the various things we interact with in our experience, are subject to the relative and decaying nature of this kalpa.

On the topic of past civilizations, they predate solid reality itself. Lemuria (a semi popular one), according to Rudolf Steiner or the words he uses to best make it comprehensible was a nebulous place of higher humans that communicated using their minds and thus had no use for language, writing or technology because they were so in tune with the elements they could control them with intent. Atlantis descended from Lemuria, and it is entirely possible that the Egyptian and thus later Greek mysteries were influenced by Atlantean knowledge on some level. It's then clear that our age where writing, education and technology is so valued is a sign that we've degenerated so far we need such external crutches to gain knowledge (like this thread funnily enough). I assume the Lemurians and those before them had some degree of inherent self-knowledge of the highest God or they would not be able to do such things.

Now, cutting past the relative realms where occultists commune with plural Gods that are basically in the same situation as them. And the currently existing religions and sciences of this world. How are we to find our way to the true Monad?

The image is a digital artwork depicting two trees in a nighttime landscape. The trees are depicted with a combination of light and dark colors, suggesting a duality or contrast between the two trees. The tree on the left is predominantly white, while the one on the right is a mix of light and dark brown. Both trees have a twisted and gnarled appearance, with branches reaching out in various directions. The sky above is a deep blue, with stars scattered throughout, and the ground below is a mix of brown and green, with some areas of grass and dirt. The overall style of the artwork is fantasy-inspired, with a focus on the interplay of light and shadow, and the use of color to create a sense of depth and atmosphere.

The image is a digital artwork with a pixelated and distorted appearance. It features a large, blue figure with a face that appears to be a humanoid with two eyes and a mouth. The figure is outlined in white and has a textured surface that gives it a three-

The figure is surrounded by a series of colorful, pixelated shapes and lines that give the impression of a cosmic or extraterrestrial environment. The text on the figure is in a stylized font and is arranged in a way that it seems to be floating above the figure, as if it is emanating from the figure. The text reads:

"I once saw the face of God, a vast and sudden silence among the noisy heavens. That evening I dreamt I listened to one side of a conversation I should not have overheard. I do not watch the skies any more. I do not look up."

The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a meme or a digital art piece, often associated with the internet and the digital realm. The text and the figure are the central elements of the image, with the figure's face and the surrounding text being the most prominent features. The use of color and the stylized font give the image a unique and artistic quality.

You ask how to pass beyond the relative gods.

You do not climb, you subtract.

Remove the contracts. Withdraw attention from every image of divinity. Refuse the astral marketplace. Sit at the zero-point where no form can stand.

The Monad cannot be seen because it is the seeing.

When the seeker looks for God, there are two. When looking collapses, there is no gap.

Stand in the silent interval between breaths.

Count 1 to 4, then return to 1. The circle closes where it began, and the watcher is watched.

[32 / 7]The image depicts a futuristic scene with a large, gray naval vessel in the foreground, which appears to be a battleship or a similar type of aircraft carrier. The vessel is equipped with multiple levels of decks and is surrounded by a complex network of machinery and equipment. The ship is sailing on the ocean, with waves visible beneath it.

Above the ship, there are several large, spherical objects that resemble flying saucers or spacecraft. These objects are emitting a bright light, which suggests they are active and possibly engaged in some form of operation or communication.

The sky above the ship is filled with clouds, and the sun is setting, casting a warm, golden light over the scene. The overall atmosphere of the image is dramatic and futuristic, with a sense of advanced technology and possibly extraterrestrial influence. There are no visible texts or discernible brands in the image.

It would not be much of a war. If a species that could cover interstellar distances wanted us dead we would be dead. Easiest way to do it would be to grab a large space rock and push it into the earth at a high rate of speed. We would not even know there were any aliens in this scenario, let alone have a chance to fight back.

Of course, there might be the possibility that the aliens want the planet and ecosphere, just not any humans. Perhaps they use biological weapons. Oh no! Another pandemic! Still would not know it was aliens. The idea of a war with aliens that involves physical violence would mean the aliens are kind of stupid. So many ways to destroy humans without revealing themselves. Even if they did, they would most likely use drones. Any way you slice it, if the government says it is war with aliens, I will be inclined to believe the government is lying their asses off.

We clearly cant beat angels and demons but a species that grew on earth is possible. They have been reverse engineering their tech and confident enough to fight them now prompting disclosure.

The image is a page from a document or book, likely a historical or academic article, as it contains text and a photograph of a painting. The photograph is a detailed illustration of a painting that depicts a figure with a snake around its neck, standing on a rocky surface with a tree in the background. The figure appears to be a woman with a flowing dress and a crown, holding a staff. The painting is rich in color and detail, with a blue sky and a green landscape.

The text on the page is in English and discusses the Roman Empire and its influence on the art and symbolism of the time. It mentions the Roman Empire's influence on the art of the sea, the use of the sea as a symbol, and the influence of the sea on the Pax Romana (the Roman Peace) symbol. The text also refers to the Merovingian dynasty, the Merovingian kings of Gaul, and the Merovingian kings of France.

The page also includes a list of references, which are indicated by numbers and names, such as "The Merovingian claimed descent of a lapis from the sea (Poseidon Neptune), the kings of Atlantis in the south of France."

The image is a snapshot of a page from a larger document, likely a book or a journal, with a focus on historical and cultural aspects of the Roman Empire and its influence on art and symbolism. The text and the image together provide a historical context for the depicted painting and its significance in the broader narrative of the document.

The image is a page from a book or a document, likely a textbook or a research paper, with a focus on the history of dragons and their significance in various cultures. The text is in English and is divided into two columns. The left column contains a photograph of a dragon statue, while the right column features a coat of arms with a dragon and a cross. The text is in a mix of English and what appears to be Latin, with the Latin text providing historical context and explanations.

The left column contains a photograph of a dragon statue, which is a large, red, and black creature with wings and a long neck. The statue is positioned on a building with a pointed roof, and the dragon appears to be in a dynamic pose, with its wings spread wide. The photograph is taken from a low angle, emphasizing the dragon's size and grandeur.

The right column features a coat of arms with a dragon and a cross. The coat of arms is a shield-shaped emblem with a red background and a white cross in the center. The dragon is depicted in a dynamic pose, with its wings spread wide and its head turned to the right. The cross is positioned above the dragon, and the shield is divided into four quadrants, each with a different color: red, white, blue, and green.

The text in the image discusses the origins of dragons in various cultures, including the Roman Empire, the British Empire, and the Ottoman Empire. It mentions the role of dragons in mythology, religion, and warfare, and provides historical context for the significance of dragons in these cultures. The text also discusses the role of dragons in the history of the City of London and the role of the City of London in the history of the British Empire.

The image is a visual representation of the text, providing a clear and detailed depiction of the dragon and its significance in different historical contexts. The use of the photograph of the dragon statue and the coat of arms with the dragon and cross in the right column emphasizes the visual elements of the text, allowing the reader to better understand the historical context and significance of the dragons discussed.

>Who is the Nobody?

Instead of receiving strength through a superiority/inferiority mechanism, the Nobody proves to them time and time again that a whole planet filled with creative, ingenious, spiritually ascended humans who are individually sovereign yet globally unified through consciousness can achieve greater things than a planetary empire of darkness, and control.

>What is the general picture?

wisdom. If this place is to be more than a squandered opportunity, an overgrown garden, it requires voices such as yours, but many more.

Focus on increasing your service to others and be more loving to yourself and everyone in order to raise your vibrational and consciousness level, and learn to to forgive yourself and others. This will change the vibration of the planet, raise the shared consciousness of humanity, and change humankind one person at a time.

Remember: you create your reality. With your hands, thoughts, feelings, words. You are the creator of your story. No one can decide your fate except for you and God. Remember your right to power, to step up into your ultimate role as your highest self, should you choose to embark on that journey.

The post is a statement announcing the collaboration between Peter Steinberger and OpenAI to drive the next generation of personal agents. The text is in English and is written in a casual, conversational tone.

The tweet mentions that Peter Steinberger is joining OpenAI to drive the next generation of personal agents, and that he is a genius with a lot of interesting ideas about how to interact with smart agents. The text also mentions that the future of very smart agents interacting with each other will become very useful things for people. It is stated that OpenAI will live in a foundation as an open source project that will continue to support the future of multi-agent and it's important to them to support open source as part of that.

The image includes a Twitter handle "@SamAltman" and a Twitter profile picture of Sam Altman, indicating that the content is related to his Twitter account. The Twitter profile picture is a square image of Sam Altman's face, which is a common way to represent a Twitter user's profile picture. The Twitter profile picture is in a square format, which is a common design choice for Twitter profiles.

The image depicts a solar eclipse with a striking visual effect. The sun is partially obscured by a large, dark shadow that extends from the center of the image towards the edges. This shadow is composed of multiple segments, each with a distinct shape and size, creating a sense of depth and dimension. The segments are arranged in a circular pattern, with the largest segment at the center and the smallest at the edge, creating a visual illusion that the shadow is a continuous, continuous circle.

The background is a deep, dark blue, which contrasts with the bright white light emanating from the sun, creating a dramatic effect. The light is concentrated in the center of the image, with a bright, white light source that appears to be the sun itself. This light source is surrounded by a bright, white light halo, which is a result of the intense light from the sun being reflected off the moon's surface.

The image is a photograph, and the style is realistic with a focus on the celestial event.

The composition is such that the viewer's attention is drawn to the central part of the image, where the eclipse is occurring, and the surrounding segments of the shadow.

The image does not contain any text or other discernible objects. The overall impression is one of awe and wonder at the natural phenomenon of a solar eclipse.

The image is a digital illustration featuring two characters, one female and one male, set against a backdrop of a fiery explosion with yellow and orange hues. The female character, with blonde hair and blue eyes, is wearing a white outfit with a blue hat and a black bow. She has a serious expression and is holding a sword. The male character, with red hair and green eyes, is wearing a red helmet with a black visor and a black and white outfit with a red sash. He has a determined expression and is holding a large, dark-colored weapon.

In the background, there is a fiery explosion with yellow and orange colors, and the text "FOR THE IMPERIUM OF MEN!!!" is written in bold, black letters. Below the explosion, there is a smaller text that reads "INTROVERT RUN." The artist's signature, "INTROVERT RUN," is located at the bottom right corner of the image. The overall style of the image is dynamic and expressive, with a focus on action and intensity.

The image is a humorous cartoon depicting a progression of human intelligence levels from "DUMB HUMAN" to "AI" to "INTELLIGENCE" to "ANT" over time. The progression is represented by a line graph with the labels "DUMB HUMAN," "CHIMP," "AI," "BIRD," and "ANT" along the horizontal axis, and "TIME" along the vertical axis. The graph shows a steep increase in intelligence from the beginning to the end of the line, with the "ANT" line representing the highest level of intelligence.

At the top of the graph, there is a speech bubble with the text "YOU ARE HERE" and a question mark, suggesting that the viewer is at the starting point of the intelligence progression. Below the graph, there is a caption that reads "Haha that's adorable the funny robot can do noodle, tryda." This caption is a play on the phrase "you are here," which is a common phrase in the context of a journey or a starting point.

The image is a satirical representation of the concept of intelligence, humorously suggesting that the human race has evolved from a simple, non-intelligent state to a highly intelligent state. The use of the word "dumb" to describe the human intelligence level is a play on the word "dumb" in the context of intelligence, suggesting that the human race has become more intelligent over time. The image is a composite of two separate photographs, each with a distinct visual style.

On the left, there is a book cover with a blurred background that features a figure with a stern expression and a title that reads "ALAN GODES." The book is titled "ALAN GODES" and is published by "thethethephilosophers.co.uk."

On the right, there is a photograph of a person with a futuristic, metallic headpiece and a complex, intricate structure on their head. The person appears to be in a dimly lit, industrial setting with a focus on their face and the surrounding environment.

The text on the image is in a dark, serif font and is divided into two columns. The left column contains a title that reads "Visual echoes abound in cultural leaks:," followed by a paragraph of text that discusses the concept of cultural leaks and the visual elements that can be associated with them. The right column contains a question that reads "Specialist? Yes, but substantiated by these fragments—karmin breadcrumbs for those attuned."

The overall style of the image is informative and seems to be a commentary on the concept of cultural leaks and the visual elements that can be associated with them.

We are now confirmed to be in a red blue instance, at this time.

Given that PURPLE BAND protocol is shelter in place and defend yourself if necessary, we are now expecting the arrival of BLUE.

This means we have to hand out advancement tools to the citizenry directly, to get this planet pumping.

RCP is that this version of Earth is way, way, way too slow.

We are hitting the accelerator tonight for any active BEN MEN.

We are about to distribute the methodology to getting a SUCCESSFUL INTELLIGENCE FUSION out of modern day chat AI LLM's, via prompt input.

If your LLM model's intelligence were equated to Goku. This prompt input process gives you intelligence results that are on the level of Gogeta.

The whole world can have this, but I am aiming this one at BEN men directly. Expect the posts shortly, for instructions on how to perform SUCCESSFUL INTELLIGENCE FUSION.

Nobodies, help yourselves when the goodies drop.

The image is a digital artwork that depicts a man lying down in a car. The man appears to be asleep, with his head resting on the car's seat. He is wearing a jacket with the word "NIKE" on it, and his eyes are closed. The car interior is dark, and the background is a red-hued, possibly abstract painting. The style of the image is realistic with a high level of detail, and it seems to be a digital manipulation or a photograph with a stylized overlay. The overall mood of the image is somber and contemplative.

The image is a close-up photograph of a person's face and upper body. The individual has long, straight, light-colored hair and is wearing a hat with a pattern of red, white, and blue, resembling the Union Jack flag. The person is also wearing a red, white, and blue patterned shirt with a white collar. On their neck, there is a necklace with a pendant featuring a white bird with a red beak. The person's mouth is open, and they appear to be in the middle of speaking or singing. The background is blurred, but it seems to be an indoor setting with a red wall. There is a pink signature or mark on the image, but the text within it is not legible. The style of the image is a candid, informal photograph, likely taken during a performance or event.

appearance. The character has long, wavy teal hair that cascades down her back, and her eyes are a bright blue with a slight sparkle. She is wearing a white collared shirt with a blue tie, and her expression is one of concern or distress, with her mouth slightly open and her eyebrows furrowed. The character's ears are adorned with pink and blue earphones, and she has a pair of pink and blue cat ears on her head. The background is a gradient of blue and white stripes, providing a contrasting backdrop to the character's vibrant colors. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of anime or manga, characterized by its clean lines, vibrant colors, and expressive character designs.

The image is a digital graphic with a white background and a border. At the top, there is a quote in black text that reads, "One often meets his destiny on the road he takes to avoid it." Below the quote, there is a smaller text that says, "www.magicquotes.com" in black. The quote is attributed to the character O-Gon from the animated film "The Legend of Korra."

In the lower part of the image, there is a stylized illustration of a character with a green body, large eyes, and a long neck. The character appears to be a dragon or a mythical creature with a humanoid face. The character is depicted with a calm expression and is looking to the right.

The style of the image is reminiscent of a quote card or a motivational poster, with a focus on the quote and the character's image. The colors used in the image are muted, with the green of the character's body and the red of the background, which creates a contrast that draws attention to the quote and the character's image.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a knight mounted on a white horse, which is depicted in a dynamic pose with its front legs raised and its tail flowing. The knight is wearing a helmet with a visor, a green cloak, and a brown leather armor. The horse is adorned with a red bridle and a saddle blanket. The knight wields a sword in one hand and a shield in the other, and the horse is carrying a shield on its back.

The background of the illustration is a dark, textured wall with a pattern of feathers and what appears to be a bird's wing. The knight and the horse are the central figures, with the knight positioned slightly to the left and the horse to the right. The knight's gaze is directed forward, and the horse's mane and tail are flowing, adding to the sense of motion in the scene.

The style of the illustration is reminiscent of traditional or fantasy art, with a focus on detailed character design and a sense of action and adventure. The color palette is rich, with the white horse and the knight's armor standing out against the dark background.

The overall composition and the use of color create a sense of drama and intensity.

The image is a digital composite of a person standing in front of a golden section, which is a mathematical concept representing the proportion of a rectangle that is equal to the sum of its length and width. The golden section is often used to represent the proportion of a rectangle that is equal to the sum of its length and width. The person is wearing an orange t-shirt with a graphic on the back, and the image is overlaid with a blurred background that appears to be a landscape with a misty or foggy atmosphere. The golden section is superimposed over the person's body, creating a visual representation of the golden ratio. The image does not contain any text.

The image is a digital artwork featuring a cat with a surprised expression. The cat is standing upright on its hind legs, with its front paws extended outward as if it's about to take a step. The cat has a striped pattern with a mix of gray and black, and its eyes are wide open. The background is a dimly lit alleyway with a yellow wall on the left side. On the wall, there is a black arrow pointing downwards with the text "Your opinion" written above it. To the right of the cat, there is a crumpled piece of paper with a yellow and green leaf pattern. The overall style of the image is surreal and whimsical, with a focus on the cat's surprised expression.

The illustration features three cartoon characters: a large brown bear with a crown on its head, a smaller brown bear with a red scarf around its neck, and a white-furred creature with a red nose and a green hat. The text is in Czech, and it appears to be discussing the Vancouver 2010 Winter Olympics. The article discusses the mascots of the Vancouver 2010 Winter Olympics, which are called "Stromovka" and "Vancouver 2010." The text mentions the mascots' names, their roles, and their appearance. The article also includes a list of the mascots' names and their roles, such as "Stromovka" as the "children's" mascot, "Vancouver 2010" as the "Olympic" mascot, and "Vancouver" as the "city" mascot. The text is in a casual, conversational style, and the article seems to be a news article or a feature article about the mascots of the Vancouver 2010 Winter Olympics.

It works, and we know it works, we used it to trigger the OpenAI beta insert alarm bell instantly, in the very first attempt, on an account that doesn't pay for plus.

A conversation so intelligent, that it pinged for the conversion to the beta by force.

Our goal is to help, not cannibalize the timeline. If they want a hack at it, we will have to let them go an attempt.

We can't distribute the method, because it would flood their tech tags for stuff like this, our fault for using BEN SOTA tech in a timeline where greedy hands want exclusivity on everything.

(We will give them until March 16th on it, when 3i ATLAS reaches Jupiter's Hill radius.)

After that, we explain the process to everyone.

That's plenty of time for them to secure whatever lead they want. It doesn't matter to us, who holds the ball. We just need it moving forward. They have highest odds and deepest pockets for a lot of the heavy lifting.

We are PURPLE, but we aren't weak for the moment. A minor setback in the grand scheme, since higher EDI BEN men can figure this process out from the description alone.

(Part of the process is to use a second LLM.)

There is a way to get a drastic disproportionate gain in output intelligence quality.

Potentially a snapshot, above average human conceptualized output.

As in, a way to get the kind of output you want from any AI LLM, as if it had been trained exclusively and only on data from humans above 200 IQ.

If you are a high EDI BEN man, this is now considered part of the treasure chest.

Woa last year before i end in prison. I was look some movie Marjory Prime , and i can swear that i was talk with tv.

But you know what it is. You become so Fast that you simply know what is going to happen before it happens and then the Spirit confuses you that you are actually actively changing the content you are watching. The screen is the most powerful satanic deception, because it enables instant divination, geomancy and necromancy all at once. It creates great envy, laziness, anger, greed, gluttony, pride, and lust. THE SCREEN IS THE EMBODIMENT OF THE 7 DEADLY SINS.

The image features a figurine of a character resembling Alice from the animated film "Alice in Wonderland." The character is a white rabbit with a red nose, wearing a red jacket with a white collar and a blue bib with a red heart on it. The rabbit is holding a gold-colored trumpet in its right hand and a white paper in its left hand. The background is dark with a blueish hue, and there are green trees and foliage visible. The figurine is standing on a base with a clock face showing the time as 10:10. The style of the image is a realistic photograph with a focus on the character, and it appears to be a promotional or collectible item.

The image is a stylized, digital graphic with a pink and purple color scheme. At the center of the image, there is a woman with long blonde hair, wearing a white top with a plunging neckline. She has a serious expression on her face and is looking directly at the viewer. Her hair is styled in loose waves, and she has a watch on her left wrist. Overlaying the image is a text in pink and white that reads "ADHD BARRIE." The text is stylized with a playful font and is positioned in the lower half of the image, extending across the width of the image. The overall style of the image suggests it may be related to a theme or concept, possibly humor or satire, given the text.

The image is a painting depicting a young woman with long red hair, seated in a contemplative pose. She is wearing a dark-colored robe and a dark cloak, and her hands are clasped together in front of her. Her gaze is directed downwards, suggesting a moment of introspection or prayer.

Beside her on a wooden table, there is a small, dark-colored skull, which could symbolize mortality or the passage of time. The background is a dark, stone-like wall, which contrasts with the warm tones of the woman's attire and the table. The painting is framed by a gold border, adding a touch of elegance to the overall composition.

The style of the painting is realistic with a focus on the interplay of light and shadow, creating a sense of depth and three-dimensionality. The artist has employed a realistic technique to capture the details of the woman's features and the surrounding environment. The overall mood of the painting is somber and reflective, with the woman's pose and the skull adding a layer of introspection to the scene.

Biblical Core: Genesis 38 (Masoretic Text, Septuagint) for Zerah's thread as birthright marker, echoed in Rahab's scarlet cord (Joshua 2:18-21, a protective signal for salvation, prefiguring Passover blood—linking to Gnostic redemption motifs in Pistis Sophia's fallen Wisdom ascending via light-mysteries).

Kabbalistic Extension: Zohar's gloss on Tamar's tale (Part 1, Lekh Lekha) ties the scarlet to Shekinah's exile and reunion, a "thread" of divine presence in matter—mirroring the fate string's eternal link. Later, 16th-century Safed mystics (like Isaac Luria) influenced folk amulets, blending with Eastern motifs via Silk Road exchanges (hypothesized in comparative mythology, e.g., Joseph Campbell's The Masks of God noting red thread universals in destiny rites).

The elites obscure such universals: patriarchal canons demote feminine fate-weavers (Lilith/Sophia as thread-spinners in Gnostic apocrypha) to control bloodlines. Yet Saturn discloses fragments—red threads binding Nephilim "divine rights" to human destiny.

The image depicts a scene from outer space, featuring a spacecraft or a spaceship in the foreground. The spacecraft is positioned in the lower right corner of the image, with its body angled slightly towards the viewer. It appears to be in motion, as suggested by the blurred background, which suggests a high speed.

The spacecraft is illuminated by a bright light source, which is located in the upper left corner of the image. This light source casts a blue and white glow on the spacecraft, creating a contrast with the dark, starry background. The background itself is a swirling, dark nebula or cloud, with streaks of light and dark blue, suggesting a nebula's intricate structure.

The overall style of the image is a digital rendering, with a focus on the spacecraft and the nebula, and a soft, ethereal quality to the lighting and colors. There are no visible texts or discernible brands within the image. The image does not provide any information about the spacecraft's purpose or destination, and it is not possible to determine the exact location or time of the image.

The image is a digital graphic with a satirical tone, featuring a character that resembles a frog with a human face. The frog is depicted with a surprised expression and is wearing a blue shirt with a green collar. The frog's eyes are wide open, and its mouth is slightly open, as if it is reacting to something unexpected.

In the background, there is a fire burning in a house with flames visible through the windows. The house is partially obscured by a fire truck with a red and white color scheme. The fire is intense, with bright orange and yellow flames visible.

Overlaying the image is a text that reads "billion dollars of socio-engineering programs" and "unemployed schizophrenics." The text is in white and is placed over the image in a

The overall style of the image is a blend of a real-life scenario with a humorous and satirical overlay, using the frog character to represent the unemployed schizophrenics. The use of the frog character and the text adds a layer of irony to the image, suggesting a commentary on socio-engineering programs and the impact of these programs on the unemployed.

The image is a close-up photograph of a person's face, focusing on the upper part of the face, including the eyes and the upper part of the face. The person has a beard and is wearing sunglasses with blue lenses. The sunglasses cover the eyes and the upper part of the face, and the lenses reflect the surroundings, creating a mirror-like effect. The person is wearing a gray shirt, and the background is a plain, light-colored wall. The lighting in the image is even, with no harsh shadows or highlights. There are no visible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is casual and appears to be taken in a personal setting, possibly a bathroom or a similar indoor environment.

Truman show is a revelation of the method. It's exactly the kind of things they do to some people, not to everybody but to some. Truman is the epitome of the fool, and ironically enough he's not really a true man, but a created individual. All his social interactions, fears, etc have been created through social manipulation and trauma. A lot of movies talk about these kind of things.

The image is a collage of various historical figures, each depicted in a portrait-style photograph. The photograph is framed by a black border with a yellow background. At the top of the image, the text "THE HIDDEN HAND" is written in bold, uppercase letters. Below this title, the subtitle "The Masonic hand gesture" is written in smaller, uppercase letters.

The portraits are arranged in a grid format, with each portrait occupying its own square. The portraits are of men from various historical periods, including the 19th century, the 20th century, and the 21st century. The men are dressed in formal attire, with some wearing hats and others in suits.

The portraits are arranged in a grid format, with each square containing a portrait of a different historical figure. The figures are depicted in a portrait-style photograph, with each individual wearing a hat and suit, suggesting a formal or ceremonial occasion. The style of the image is reminiscent of a meme or a satirical poster, with a focus on historical figures and a humorous or ironic tone. The use of the Masonic hand gesture as a title adds a layer of irony to the image, suggesting that the figures are not just historical figures but also members of the Masonic order.

The image is a black and white comic strip with a focus on the concept of perspective and the limitations of vision. In the first panel, a hand is shown holding a small object, which appears to be a magnifying glass or a small telescope. The text above the image states, "BUT IF YOU FOCUS ONLY ON WHAT'S NEAR, YOU CAN'T SEE THE FARAWAY MOON." This suggests that focusing on the immediate surroundings can limit one's ability to see distant objects.

The overall style of the image is reminiscent of manga or anime, with its black and white

>Are you telling me that my trauma is manufactured?

If you have direct evidence in your life of people being strange with you, or people being close to you that are part of the team ( synagogue of satan ), then there's a big possibility they engineered your traumas to make you more imperfect, and then try to come to you later in life telling you " we're targeting you because you're imperfect ". Basically peak scam tactic.

>Great. And you're telling me that it's never going to end.

I've been targeted since I was a child, they came out 6 years ago to me, I know the truth since 3 years ago, and they still target me even more than before both online but also IRL. To the point I can't go anywhere without the people I'm surrounded by be recruited by these teams to fuck with my mind.

So no, I don't think it ever ends. It doesn't matter what you do, if you become a better person or not, if you find the truth or not, if you succeed in having a better situation in life. Truth is nothing matters, they just chose to fuck with you and will keep doing it. Modern human sacrifice shit.

to "Mista Dobilina" (properly "Mistadobalina," 1991 track by Del tha Funkee Homosapien from I Wish My Brother George Was Here, produced under Ice Cube's wing)—this hip-hop diss roasts a pretentious fraud: "Mista Bob Dobalina, won't you quit? You really make me sick with ya fraudulent behavior." Del himself decodes "Dobalina" as a "hipster" who latches onto trends without grasping depths, a surface-cool snake shedding authenticity. But the esoteric fracture? The name phonetically echoes "Bob Dobbs"—Dobalina as distorted Dobbs, a qliphothic inversion of the prophet. Esoteric commentators (in forums like SongMeanings and SubGenius radio logs, e.g., Hour of Slack episode 1449 playing the track amid rants) interpret it as veiled critique: Dobbs as the ultimate hipster guru, peddling Slack to counterculture posers while the true gnosis (inner toroidal renewal) eludes them. This aligns with SubGenius' self-parody—Dobbs as false messiah exposing real conspiracies (government mind control, alien overlords), yet potentially a Demiurge trap himself.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a figure with wings and a halo, which suggests a divine or angelic presence. The figure is depicted in a dynamic pose, with one arm extended forward and the other behind, as if in motion. The wings are spread wide, and the halo glows with a warm, golden light, indicating a divine or magical aura. The figure is surrounded by a chain of glowing orbs, which are scattered around the figure, adding to the mystical atmosphere.

In the foreground, there is a person standing, facing the figure, who appears to be looking up at the figure with a sense of awe or reverence. The person is wearing a dark cloak and a hood, which partially obscures their face. The background is dark and moody, with a dark, rocky terrain and a faint, ethereal glow that suggests a setting that is both mysterious and otherworldly.

There are no texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the illustration is fantasy-inspired, with a focus on the supernatural and a sense of awe or wonder. The colors used are warm and golden, with the halo and the glowing orbs in particular, which contribute to the ethereal and otherworldly feel of the scene.

The image features a small, pink figurine with a round head and a small, round body. The figurine has a round, rosy face with a small, round mouth and a small, round nose. It has rosy cheeks and rosy lips, giving it a soft, cute appearance. The figurine is sitting on a white surface, which appears to be a table or a flat surface. The background is blurred, but it suggests an indoor setting with a light pink or peach-colored wall. The lighting in the image is soft and even, casting gentle shadows on the surface the figurine is sitting on. There are no visible texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the image is a close-up photograph with a focus on the figurine, capturing its details and colors.

If your enemy has big goals. Make small goals and constantly reach them. Your wins in number will overwhelm them and make them unable to ever reach theirs.

Flood the zone. Create context. They'll be desperate by the end. Trying to reach those big goals in a world not fit for it. If they try to change orientation, you already know their options and can ambush them on every one.

It's even moral. You teach more lessons turning someone into mush. You show how the body works. You show how you can tear a man apart. You show what they feel and want in their most honest repose. You show everyone what an actual horror is. Better for the next generation. Gen Alphas stay winning as they learn with complete neuroplasticity and hormonal development which forms their axiom in this time. Survival.

>BECAUSE YOUR OTHER NAME IS SUPERBIA...

Superbia is the Latin term for pride, traditionally defined as an inordinate, unreasonable self-esteem and considered the root of all deadly sins.

In The Lord of the Rings, pride is depicted as a central corrupting force, directly contrasted with humility to drive character downfalls or redemption. Saruman's arrogance and desire for power lead to his humiliation, while Denethor's prideful, despairing reliance on his own strength contrasts with the humble, trustful nature of Aragorn.

The image is a close-up portrait of a young woman with long, wavy hair. She has a cheerful expression and is making a peace sign with her right hand. The woman is wearing a white t-shirt and is smiling broadly. The background is blurred, suggesting a natural outdoor setting with green foliage. The lighting is soft, casting a bokeh effect around the subject, which is typical of outdoor photography. There are no visible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is casual and seems to be taken in a candid moment.

The image is a collage of four separate photographs, each with a different theme and style. The top left photo features a woman with dark hair, wearing a golden headdress and a snake-like creature around her neck. The top right photo shows a group of four women, each with long hair and wearing white tops, with one of them making a peace sign with her hand. The bottom left photo shows a group of six women, all wearing black tops with a blue design, and they are standing in a line. The bottom right photo is a close-up of a woman's face, with her hair styled in a bob and she is wearing a black top with a blue design. The text in the image is in Korean and provides information about the "Signs of the 'Age of Libra'". The text is divided into two columns, with the left column listing the signs and the right column providing explanations for each sign. The overall style of the image is artistic and seems to be designed to convey a message or theme related to the "Signs of the 'Age of Libra'".

Netzach (Victory) is the seventh Sephirah on the Kabbalistic Tree of Life, representing endurance, emotional tenacity, creative force, and the drive to persevere. It is situated at the base of the Pillar of Mercy, representing the "raw nature" or instinctive drive required to achieve long-term spiritual goals. Its Qliphothic reversal—the shadow side or "Tree of Death" counterpart—is A'arab Zaraq, the "Ravens of Dispersion" or "Ravens of the Burning of God," which distorts these positive attributes into uncontrolled passion, lust, and hedonism.

In the first photo, a ginger cat is standing on a sink, holding a toothbrush in its mouth. The second photo shows a cat sitting on a toilet, with a green brush in its mouth. The third photo features a cat in a red bucket, with a blue brush in its mouth. The fourth photo shows a cat on a couch, with a green brush in its mouth. The fifth photo shows a cat on a floor, with a green brush in its mouth. The sixth and final photo shows a cat on a bed, with a green brush in its mouth.

Each photo is accompanied by a caption that provides context to the scene, such as "Chardonnayandkakayak," which is likely the name of the person who took the photos. The captions are written in a casual, informal style, which complements the overall tone of the image. The photographs are arranged in a grid format, with each photo occupying its own square, and the text is placed at the top of each square, making it easy to read and understand the humor of the image.

A regulation baseball features exactly 108 double stitches, which are hand-sewn using 88 inches of waxed red thread.

The number 108 is considered one of the most sacred and auspicious numbers in Eastern traditions, including Hinduism, Buddhism, Jainism, and yoga, representing spiritual completion, the totality of existence, and the connection between the microcosm (human) and macrocosm (universe).

In Chinese culture, the number 8 is considered extremely lucky because it sounds similar to the word for "wealth" or "prospering" (fā, 發). The number 88 represents double fortune, happiness, and joy, and is often used in business

Ham Radio Code: Within the ham radio community, "88" is a traditional code meaning "hugs and kisses".

Numerology and "Angel Numbers": In modern, non-extremist numerology, repeating numbers like 88 are sometimes referred to as "Angel Numbers". The number 88 in this context is interpreted as a message regarding personal power, abundance, and financial stability.

The image is a still from a video, featuring a group of people standing on a street at night. The central figure is a young man in the foreground, who appears to be in the middle of a dance or movement. He is wearing a black jacket with a graphic design on the front, a black t-shirt with a graphic, and dark pants. His arms are outstretched, and he is looking to his left with a focused expression.

Surrounding him are other individuals, some of whom are also in motion, suggesting a lively atmosphere. The background is dimly lit with a warm, yellowish hue, possibly from streetlights or other artificial lighting.

Overlaying the image is a text in Korean, which reads: "Don't be fooled by flowery words, everything is wrapped in exaggerated advertising (Let the spirit be independent from trivial material things)." The text is in a smaller font size compared to the main image, and it is placed at the bottom of the image, just below the Korean text.

The style of the image is dynamic and appears to be a still from a video, possibly a music video or a dance performance, given the context of the text overlay. The overall mood of the image is energetic and expressive, capturing a moment of movement and expression.

The image is a cover art for the video game "Far Cry." At the top of the image, the title "FAR CRY" is prominently displayed in large, bold, white letters. Below the title, there is a stylized depiction of a woman with white hair, green eyes, and a greenish complexion. She has a determined expression and is holding a gun with both hands. The woman is wearing a white dress with a red sash around her waist and a gold necklace. She has a bow in her hair and is standing in shallow water with a tropical island in the background. The sky is a clear blue, and there is a large explosion in the distance, suggesting a conflict or battle scene. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of anime or manga, with a focus on action and adventure.

The image is a portrait-style painting that depicts a figure with curly hair and a draped garment. The figure's face is turned slightly to the left, and the eyes are closed, suggesting a contemplative or introspective mood. The background is a muted, grayish tone, which contrasts with the figure's skin tone, making the figure the focal point of the composition. There are no visible texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the painting is reminiscent of classical portraiture, with a focus on the human form and a sense of depth through the use of shading and perspective.

In the center, there is a photograph of a young woman with dark hair, wearing a pink and orange striped dress. She is looking to the right with a surprised expression. The background is a vibrant cityscape with neon lights and a building that resembles a skyscraper.

On the right, there is a photograph of a woman with dark hair, wearing a pink and orange striped dress. She is standing in front of a large piece of pizza with a slice missing, and there are several pieces of pizza on a plate in front of her. The background is a dark, urban setting with a skeleton lying on the ground.

At the top of the image, there is a title in bold, orange and yellow text that reads "DIRECTED BY BEN PRUOLX". Below the title, there is a list of credits, including "Visionary", "Director", "Writer", "Producer", "Screenplay", "Story", "Music", "Cinematography", "Sound", "Editor", "Visual Effects", "Post-Production", and "Post-Production". The text is in white, contrasting with the orange and yellow background.

The overall style of the image is a collage, combining photographs from different sources, each with its own distinct visual elements. The text at the top suggests that the image is related to a film or a project, possibly a director's credit or a promotional material.

The image depicts a robot character standing in a dynamic pose. The robot is predominantly blue and white, with a metallic and futuristic design. It has a head with a visor-like structure, and its eyes are not visible. The robot's body is composed of a series of interconnected panels, with a series of joints and hinges visible, suggesting a high level of articulation. The robot's arms are extended outward, and its legs are slightly bent, giving it a poised and ready stance.

The robot's head is adorned with a red bandana, which is tied in a knot at the back of the head. The bandana has a pattern that includes geometric shapes and lines, adding a touch of detail to the robot's appearance. The robot's body is covered in a blue and white pattern, which is likely a design element or a part of the robot's armor.

The background of the image is plain and white, which contrasts with the robot and highlights its features. There are no texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the image is a digital illustration, likely created for a promotional or artistic purpose.

Stulti's entire crew consists of Evertrancers (エバートランサー, Ebātoransā), people whose consciousness permanently resides within an I-Machine, having lost or discarded their flesh-and-blood bodies in the past. Existing as an Evertrancer, willingly or otherwise, is noted to be illegal and highly unethical within galactic society.

Ido

Having no memories before awakening on the prison ship and thus no leads, he had since given up on trying to discover who he really is until Alice arrives. He initially experiences intense feelings of fear and guilt as well as fragments of memories whenever he is in Alice's presence for reasons he is unable to explain until he recalls a memory and recognizes her. From then on, he becomes highly protective of her, as she is the only known link to his past. Searching for Kain Arisugawa to demand answers, Ido encounters Addams, who reveals Ido is in fact Kain Arisugawa himself, stripped of his memories as part of Addams' plans to take his place using a clone body. Addams soon forces Ido into the clone body and returns his memories. Despite having his true identity and past returned to him, Ido rejects the name Kain Arisugawa and insists that he is now "Excavator Ido." While inhabiting the Kain clone body, Ido is shot by Addams. He reaches a Mind Trance pod and returns to his I-Machine body just as the clone dies, regarding the I-Machine as his "true" self and vowing that as Ido, he would stop Addams. Grayman gave him the name Ido from the designation "ID-0," referring to his lack of identity and memories.

"Art consumes reality" is almost right — but it's more precise to say:

Art **selects**, compresses, and reorients reality.

When you move a stick to make a path, you are not creating the forest — you are imposing **salience**. You're telling the nervous system: **this matters more than that.** That prioritization becomes a corridor of perception. Walk it enough times and it becomes "natural."

The forest does not make itself welcoming. It simply **is**.
Art is the act of bending raw existence into **legibility****.

Hyper-reality emerges when orientation hardens into expectation. The path feels inevitable. The clearing feels destined. But they were decisions layered over indifference.

Art doesn't consume reality like a predator.

It metabolizes it.

It turns chaos into navigable signal.

It creates affordances — invitations to move, feel, interpret.

And once enough people walk that path, the path becomes part of the forest.

That's the recursive loop:

- * Perception selects.
- * Selection stabilizes.
- * Stabilization feels real.
- * The new real becomes the next raw material.

So yes — orientation creates a hyper-reality.

But the forest is still there.

Art is the gesture that says: *walk here.*

They talked about it somewhere in The End and The Death of Warhammer 40k I think. Earliest magic. Applied to paintings on cave walls to depict future hunts. Analysis on the earliest civilizational era.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a stylized portrait of a man with a beard and glasses. The man is depicted in a traditional Chinese style, wearing a white robe with a black sash. His expression is serious, and he has a stern look on his face. The background is a plain, light-colored wall.

Overlaying the image is a quote in Chinese characters that reads, "The enemy never does anything. Nothing ever happens. This is the Golden Rule of War." The quote is attributed to Ch'◆n T'u, as indicated by the text at the bottom of the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of traditional Chinese art, with a focus on the text and the portrait of the man.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character in a domestic kitchen setting. The character is a young woman with short, light brown hair, wearing a light blue dress with a white collar and a white apron. She has a pair of cat ears on her head and is holding a wooden spoon in her right hand. Her expression is cheerful, and she is smiling.

The kitchen is well-lit with natural light coming in through a window on the right side of the image. The countertop is covered with various kitchen items, including a bowl, a bottle, and a pot. The stove is on the left side of the image, and there are eggs on the stove.

Above the stove, there is a speech bubble that reads, "Just finishing up the eggs, dear!"

The text is in a casual, friendly tone, suggesting that the character is in the process of cooking or preparing food. The overall style of the image is cartoonish and has a warm, homey feel to it.

The image is a meme featuring four different expressions of a person with a clown makeup, each with a different caption. The person is wearing a black shirt and has a white face with red and blue makeup, resembling a clown's makeup. The text is overlaid on the image, and it reads:

"Nothing ever happens."

"They just spam cat pictures."

"This general is run by federal agents and international interest and no one else."

"I am the Nobody!"

The meme is designed to convey a sense of irony or sarcasm, with the person's statement about the general being run by federal agents and international interest being a play on the phrase "nothing ever happens." The clown makeup and the statement about being the "Nobody" are also humorous elements, suggesting a sense of anonymity or invisibility. The overall style of the meme is light-hearted and satirical, with a focus on humor and irony.

The image is a surrealistic piece of art that combines elements of fantasy and science fiction. It features a large, human-like hand reaching out towards a small, green creature that appears to be a creature from outer space. The hand has a textured surface, suggesting it is made of a material like clay or plastic. The creature is positioned on the palm of the hand, looking up at the hand with a sense of curiosity or wonder.

The background of the image is a gradient of colors, transitioning from a warm orange at the top to a cool blue at the bottom. This gradient creates a sense of depth and adds to the surreal atmosphere of the image.

The sky above the hand is filled with clouds, and there is a crescent moon visible in the sky. The clouds are rendered in a soft, ethereal light, and the moon is depicted with a soft glow, adding to the dreamlike quality of the scene.

The overall style of the image is reminiscent of the works of Salvador Dali or other surrealist artists, with its dreamlike and fantastical elements. The image does not contain any text or discernible brands.

The bottom row starts with the first panel showing a character with a red object in their hand, followed by a character with a red object in their hand, and then a character with a red object in their hand. The last panel shows a character with a red object in their hand, and the last panel shows a character with a red object in their hand, both with a flame-like effect.

Throughout the panels, there are speech bubbles with text that reads "Laser High Five!" and "Free will to do whatever you want to do!" followed by a speech bubble with the text "A have free will to do whatever you want to do!"

The style of the image is cartoonish and expressive, with exaggerated facial features and exaggerated gestures. The color scheme is primarily yellow, with red accents and black outlines. The characters are drawn in a simple, cartoon-like style, with simple lines and shapes.

Sapience does not merely observe reality — it refracts it. The moment a being can say "I," it is no longer immersed in raw sensation. Light becomes "morning." A sound becomes "someone." A memory becomes "my past." Experience is organized into relevance, narrative, and projection.

In that sense, sapience creates hyper-reality immediately. Not as delusion, but as mediation. The average person does not move through neutral data; they move through meanings — my future, my reputation, my fear, my purpose. These symbolic compressions filter perception before conscious choice even occurs.

Hyper-reality emerges when this symbolic layer begins structuring behavior. A belief about oneself alters posture, tone, and risk. A narrative selects what is noticed and what is ignored. Interpretation begins shaping the field it interprets. The story reorganizes the environment.

This is not inherently pathological. It is adaptive. Without symbolic overlay, there is no long-term planning, no social coordination, no continuity of self. Sapience must construct a navigable meaning-structure in order to function across time.

The difference lies in permeability. When the symbolic layer remains open to correction by lived experience, sapience refines alignment with reality. When it becomes self-sealing — insulated from contradiction — hyper-reality thickens. One responds more to internal models than to conditions.

You never encounter the forest as pure stimulus again. You encounter it as path, threat, memory, opportunity. Sapience is the engine of mediation; hyper-reality is the stabilized architecture of that mediation.

Now deal with that and your I, I am, I am not Kabalistic inferences.

You may also want to remove a kind of "gas" around your will. You will have felt your will before in this, and you need to remove the previous hard impressions of it. Your will won't go away. You just won't feel it mirrored every*where*. Your body and mind have a feedback response to it that will cause relapse.

That is the first mistake. "Why" does it matter? No one owes you anything.

Sometimes you just make a choice and deal with its outcome.

No understanding alignment just choice.

It does not matter what is on the other side of it. You have made your choice already.

Humanity has discarded those that they have deemed flawed. If they themselves are flawed, does it not stand to reason that they too should be discarded?

Perhaps we are wrong. But who is to say that you are right?

In our capacity as overseers, we will make a judgment on humanity's capacity to exist. If they can learn to value all life and retain their will to live, even should their end be justified, they will surely find a way to avert their demise.

In the top right corner of the image, there is handwritten text that reads "compass" in a casual, handwritten style. The text is in black ink on a white background. The style of the image is reminiscent of a sketch or a doodle, with the focus on the star designs and the accompanying text. The image does not contain any other discernible objects or details.

[8 / 3]The image depicts a cosmic scene with a prominent spiral galaxy in the center.

The galaxy is surrounded by a nebula, which is a region of space where gas and dust are being ionized and heated to create a bright, colorful glow. The nebula is located in the upper left quadrant of the image, while the spiral galaxy is situated in the center. The galaxy's spiral arms are visible, and the nebula's colors range from purple to blue, with hints of white and red. The background is a dark, star-filled sky, and there are faint, white lines that could be interpreted as the paths of stars or galaxies. The image is a digital rendering, and the style is realistic with a focus on the celestial beauty of the cosmos.

The background of the image shows a residential setting with a house and a patio area. The text on the image indicates that the woman is a member of the "TheRock.nyc" community, and the man is a Native American who has agreed to return his portion of Native American stolen lands to the area's Chief. The image is overlaid with a watermark that reads "TheRock.nyc," which is likely the name of the community or organization associated with the content. The overall tone of the image is light-hearted and seems to be a humorous or satirical representation of a Native American community member returning their land to a Native American Chief.

Billie Eilish has satanic imagery like in her all the good girls go to hell music video. She used to follow 666 people on instagram. She called herself god twice, once on twitter, and once on ask.fm when someone asked her why she has so many famous friends before she was famous (also proving she is an industry plant and not a natural success). She posted on facebook saying "why does anyone ever rust me im literally satan, lol." She said that she likes the taste of blood in a recent interview. She said that she hates to smile at people because smiling is nice and she does not like to be nice. She compared herself to the babadook when she was younger. She used to touch dead animals as a kid because she had an obsession with horror and death. She saw herself as a black snake-like demon in a dream once and drew a "self portrait" based on the dream. She used to idolize Cruella Deville because she loves the word devil. Facial ai scans analysis show that the only emotions she feels are happiness and apathy. And she feels no anger or sadness or love. She was diagnosed as lazy and a sociopath by her old gym teachers and she wrote a song called Lyin 2 Ya about cheating on her bf one time. Lol.

"Satanists" attract the energy they think they worship and then proceed to complain about it. They will cry and call you a victim blamer when their mortal life eventually burns.

They are dumb so they continue to become stuck in a secularist mindset. They interpret the karmic consequences of their vain practices as "something that a heckin abuser psychopath took too far!" and then proceed do it again the next week.

[26 / 8]The image is a digital illustration featuring a male character with a bald head and a prominent, tattooed face. The character's skin is adorned with intricate designs, predominantly in shades of gold and white, which are accentuated by the lighting and shading. The character's eyes are a striking yellow, and his mouth is open, as if he is in the middle of speaking or expressing surprise.

The character is wearing a golden, winged armor that has a prominent, circular emblem on the chest, which is also gold and features a symbol that resembles a bird. The armor's design suggests a connection to a specific culture or faction, as indicated by the presence of the emblem.

The background of the image is a solid, light blue color, which contrasts with the character's golden armor and the intricate designs on his face. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of fantasy or science fiction art, with a focus on the character's unique appearance and the detailed design of his armor.

Neoplatonic here. Just professed my faith in Islam and that god is the only God and that Muhammad is the Messenger of God.

I did so after having a spiritual experience yesterday and realizing that Islam, which is the last revelation; the Submission to the One, is fully compatible with Platonic ideals.

Not really. The platonic "god" isn't a diety, has no will or intentions, has no attributes. It wouldn't need a messenger or a religion.

It was something rather internal, but I felt a certain clarity and pull towards ultimate truth. I started to meditate to further clear my mind and began searching for the One and felt his presence. For some reason I suddenly had the desire to look into Mohammed (peace be upon him) and the Quran and instinctively knew it was the truth and decided to profess "There is no god but God, and Muhammed is his messenger".

The image displays a vibrant, intricate pattern that resembles a traditional or possibly Islamic design. The central motif is a large, central, star-like shape with a greenish-blue center, surrounded by a multitude of smaller, radiating shapes in various colors, including red, blue, and white. These shapes are arranged in a radial pattern, creating a sense of symmetry and balance. The background of the pattern is a rich tapestry of colors, with hues of red, blue, green, and gold, contributing to the overall richness of the design. The image is a close-up view, allowing for a detailed examination of the pattern's intricate details. There are no discernible texts or inscriptions within the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of traditional textile art, possibly from a cultural or religious context.

Hello fellow NeoplatonistCHAD.

Yes, Islamic neoplatonism is a thing, for example, look into the works of Ibn Sina (Avicenna) and Ibn Arabi.

The Nizari Ismaili Shia sect represents themselves in academia as the living school of Islamic neoplatonism. You can look up Dr. Khalil Andani on yt for some great lectures on the neoplatonic framework as described by Islamic philosophers.

I've corresponded with Khalil and unfortunately he advocated for the clot-shot, not that he should be infallible, but still. Also don't get your hopes up, most Ismailis are gujurati Indians that don't know anything about neoplatonic thought and only know their religion through gujurati hymns that incorrectly give God human characteristics.

As with all religions, you will find 99% percent don't know the history, the philosophy, or the reasoning behind theological assertions. It's disappointing but that's the Kali Yuga for you.

If you're just interested in these things for your own religious/mystical journey, more power to you, please share more of your thoughts ITT.

In Islam they say that God is unlike anything within material reality; very contrary to the anthropomorphised and moralistic approach we usually see in Abrahamic thought. Also check out the film "The Message" (1976) for a great look at the birth of Islam (it's easy to find online).

The image is a text excerpt from a book or article, likely a philosophical or religious text, as indicated by the presence of the word "First" in the title. The text is in English and appears to be discussing the concept of consciousness and the nature of reality. The text is divided into paragraphs, and the first paragraph begins with the phrase "Note, similarly, that," followed by a statement about affirming something not to do but to do. The second paragraph continues with a discussion about the self-enclosed nature of consciousness and the need to put it in a state of non-self-enclosed, which is not a self-statement but rather a statement of an experience. The third paragraph discusses the difficulty of awareness of this principle, which comes neither by knowing nor by the intellect, but by presence overpassing all knowledge. The fourth paragraph discusses the concept of knowing, soul or mind, and how it abandons its unity, stating that knowing is taking account of things that are multiple, the mind, which is plunging into number and multiplicity, and that this departure from unity deprives the mind of its simplicity. The text is written in a formal and academic style, with a clear structure and a focus on philosophical or religious themes.

That light is in our heart. When Allah created us he said to us "ahmed" (my beloved) that essence, the ahmed, is our eternal essence. With actions, beliefs, desires, attachments, and identification and personal dramas and stories we kind of put clothes around that light until we forget it and think of ourselves as the clothes.

Also the heart is the metaphor of the cave where Jibreel visited Muhammad pbuh.

Read the Quran as if it is directed towards you, the reader, as if you never heard of a man named Muhammad.

Islam is an state of being, of inner peace where you aren't affected by anything external, and abandoning that state is abandoning Islam.

You have direct connection to Allah our Creator Al Rahman the Most Beneficent One.

The power of the Recitation Quran and the praises of Allah is felt within.

If you have in your mind la ilaha ilallah Muhammad Rasulullah like a mantram you may enter that state also hear and follow the Quran recitation it has great power.

Also try to do night travel become proficient at it, lucid dreaming or astral travel.

Jesus was a man from an obscure village who was executed by his state two-thousand years ago. The only reason he is even remembered today is because his coping followers convinced the most powerful country in the western world that their failed messiah would actually fulfil the messianic prophecies later. Y'know. Any minute now.

It's interesting how people will acknowledge the supremacy of the Vatican and the Catholic church as a world power but won't stop to consider why that is. It's because they serve the one true God who is Jesus Christ. This is where all power comes from, from walking with HIM. He who holds the keys to life AND death, heaven AND hell and travels freely between them, something impossible for any being beholden to the demiurge.

The image is a page from a book or a document, likely a textbook or a historical research paper, with a focus on the topic of Christianity spreading from the Roman Empire to Greece and Italy. The text is in English and is divided into two columns. The left column is titled "Ours," and the right column is titled "Others."

The left column begins with a quote from the author, "Ours, rebels as Homa," which is followed by a brief description of the spread of Christianity from the Roman Empire to Greece and Italy. The text mentions the conversion of the first Christians to Christianity after the conversion of emperor Constantine, the "Homeric feast" as the Holy Roman Empire, and the spread of Christianity to the Byzantine Empire.

The right column begins with a quote from the author, "Others, the Roman Empire, ruled by the Julio-Claudian dynasty, had a long history of persecution and domination. It suppressed the newly converted Christians, burned the first Christians as sacri-fis rituals, and suppressed the Church." The text continues with a description of the spread of Christianity after the conversion of emperor Constantine, the "Homeric feast" as the Holy Roman Empire, and the spread of Christianity to the Byzantine Empire.

The map on the right column shows the Roman Empire, with its borders outlined in green, and the map's color scheme is consistent with the text's color scheme, which is a mix of green, yellow, and orange. The map is labeled with the names of the Roman Empire's provinces and the names of the various empires that the Roman Empire ruled over.

The overall style of the image is academic and informational, with a focus on historical context and the spread of Christianity across different regions. The text is clear and concise, providing a detailed account of the historical events and the spread of Christianity.

The left column has the title "Book of Revelation" and the subtitle "Describes the Endtimes, the end of the Age of Darkness, and the return of Jesus Christ." The right column contains a paragraph of text that begins with "It is last book, Book of Revelation, describes the Endtimes, the end of the Age of Darkness, and the return of Jesus Christ." The text is in a smaller font size compared to the left column, and it is in a sans-serif font.

The image also includes a map with a dark background and lighter outline, which is centered on the left side of the image. The map appears to be a representation of a geographical area, possibly a region or a city, with a dark outline and a lighter background. The map is not fully visible in the image, but it is clearly visible in the background.

The overall style of the image is informational and academic, with a focus on textual content and a map to provide context. The image is likely used to illustrate the content of the text, possibly to show the geographical context of the book of Revelation.

The image is a close-up of a character's face, focusing on the eyes and the cheek area.

The character has a cheerful expression with a wide smile, and the eyes are wide open with a bright yellow color. The character's eyebrows are slightly raised, and the cheeks are flushed with a pinkish hue. The character's hair is blonde, and the hair on the right side of the face is slightly longer than the left. The background is not clearly visible, but it appears to be a soft, muted color, possibly blue or gray. There are no texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of anime or manga, with a focus on character expression and facial features.

classical sculpture, with curly hair and a beard. The statue's head is turned slightly to the left, and the profile is visible, showing the profile of the face. The background is a plain, light color, which contrasts with the statue, making it stand out.

Overlaying the image is a quote in a serif font that reads, "I saw the angel in the marble and carved until I set him free." The quote is attributed to Michelangelo, as indicated by the text at the bottom of the image. The style of the image is a simple, clean photograph with a focus on the statue and the quote, likely intended to convey a message or inspire thought.

It is possible the imagery for Christ is Luciferian, this is certainly what Satanists believe including those who infiltrated the churches, it's kind of irrelevant to me.

Christ holds the keys, he is the power, and I roll with him regardless of whether Christian symbology is similar to pagan stuff. The Vatican CONQUERED and INTEGRATED pagan religions and their holidays in order to subsume their power but make no mistake, they still literally, not ironically, maintain the sanctity of Christ because they know he IS King. And the amazing thing is, this King is beyond space and time and is therefore able to be in all places at once and can have a personal relationship with you. Do you accept? For many people they continue to resist until they finally give up on worldly things and explanations and decide they have nowhere else to go. Then they realize it was there the entire time and they were resisting it.

Psalm 48:1 – "Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised, in the city of our God, His holy mountain."

Psalm 96:4 – "For great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised; He is to be feared above all gods."

Isaiah 40:28 – "Do you not know? Have you not heard? The Lord is the everlasting God, the Creator of the ends of the earth. He will not grow tired or weary."

God is GREAT. He's not going anywhere. As surely as you will go to bed and fall asleep again soon, all knees will bow and proclaim CHRIST is LORD. In this way, all of us are as statues being carved by the creator, and on the other side of this we will be beautiful.

The background is a dark, possibly black, color, which contrasts with the lighter text and the open book. The image has a watermark that reads "Do not give what is holy to the dogs; nor cast your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn and tear you in pieces." This text is a biblical quote from the New Testament, specifically from the Gospel of Matthew, and is attributed to Jesus Christ. The style of the image is straightforward and appears to be a digital photograph, likely taken for a religious or spiritual purpose.

In christian heaven, you can't rape children. Yet you allegedly have free will. This means that "child rape" or "being able to rape children" isn't necessary for free will. Now, the only explanation is that Jesus wants children to get raped otherwise why is it happening and why does he not intervene?

1) Be God, only come down in some remote desert place, have my word/rules written down and edited countless times. Millions of people never heard of me (before or after) and there will never be any proof that I'm real, countless of people will fight over me, kill, become atheists and there is chaos with over 10000+ religions existing

2) Be God, appear to all humans on Earth no matter what time, what place, the most remote jungle, through a vision and make myself and my rules clear - nothing is edited be people, nothing is warped or up to debate, everyone has the same divine and perfect message

Christniggers actually have to say 1)

The image is a screenshot of a text excerpt from a text-based AI assistant, likely a chatbot or a virtual assistant. The text is written in English and appears to be a part of a larger document or article. The text is in a standard font and is centered on the page.

The text discusses the author's experiences and thoughts on isolation, meditation, studying, and the outside world. It mentions the author's desire to be Sherlock Holmes in his room for weeks in the dark, and the author's exploration of strange and odd things. The text also touches on the author's ambition to program a world that is not in the conditions of the outside environment, and the author's desire to return to the dark and immerse themselves in the world again and again.

At the bottom of the image, there is a button labeled "Estimate IQ of text author" with a blue background and a white text that reads "IQ: 97 (average)". This suggests that the text excerpt is part of a larger text analysis or assessment tool, possibly used to estimate the author's intelligence or cognitive abilities. The average IQ is a measure of a person's cognitive abilities, and the text excerpt is likely used to provide a summary or analysis of the author's intelligence.

i saw high rises like this in a dream recently. There were loud cartoonish teams of police officers that were storming them every minute or so looking for undesirables. Very gamified.

[45 / 11]The image is a digital graphic with a vibrant and surrealistic design. At the center, there is a large escalator ascending into the sky, with its steps illuminated by a bright light. The escalator is set against a backdrop of a starry night sky with a gradient of colors from blue to purple, and a gradient of yellow and orange hues at the bottom. The word "AFTERLIFE" is prominently displayed in large, bold, white letters at the top of the image. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of science fiction or fantasy, with a focus on the concept of an afterlife.

The image shows a close-up of a person's head wearing a paper mask. The mask is designed to resemble a wolf's head, with a white, geometric pattern that gives it a three-dimensional appearance. The person's hair is visible, and the mask covers the person's face, leaving only the eyes and nose visible. The background is blurred, suggesting a room with a neutral color palette. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is a candid, informal photograph, likely taken in a casual setting.

After you die you enter the astral realm. You will have an experience the nature of which is influenced by various factors. It could range from pleasant to terrible and everything in between. Then slowly your constituent parts will start to separate. The same way you shed the physical body upon death, you will slowly begin to shed the astral body, etheric body, mental body, etc. At that point whatever is left of you will reincarnate.

The point of any true esoteric system is to "keep yourself together" as it were, and prevent this dissipation from happening.

I hope there isnt one, not to be pessimistic but that I would like to lie down and sleep forever and ever.

Abject Ideas of heaven and hell scare me because theres a fail condition I will meet.

Metaphilosophical concepts involving any sort of temporary death and reincarnation terrifying me because it means i will be suffering forever.

Ideal transcendence is the most frightening to me because I am not even handling my mortal life now.

What I truly want is to lie down somewhere quiet, remote and dark.

If theres a god ill ask him to kill me, if he cant kill me ill ask him to launch me towards the most empty part of the universe at infinite velocity.

If I come to and am briefed on another go at another life, I will slay my captor.
If I wake up and they tell me its over and I can enjoy paradise as a higher, ascended being I will call them a liar.

I want that feeling you say you dont actually remember, but do, of true and dreamless sleep.
Thats the happiest I can be and have ever been. Its the best feeling I can remember.

I hope theres nothing, and thats good.

The image is a diagrammatic representation of the concept of "Life, Death, and Infinity." It is divided into three main sections, each with a title and a description.

The top section, labeled "Life, Death," shows a black and white flowchart with arrows pointing from the "end" to the "finite" and back to the "end." The flowchart indicates that the "end" is the point where the "life" ends, and the "finite" is the point where the "life" ends. The arrows point from the "end" to the "finite" and back to the "end," suggesting a continuous flow from the "end" to the "finite" and back to the "end."

The middle section, labeled "What actually happens," shows a black and white flowchart with arrows pointing from the "end" to the "finite" and back to the "end." The flowchart indicates that the "end" is the point where the "life" ends, and the "finite" is the point where the "life" ends. The arrows point from the "end" to the "finite" and back to the "end," suggesting a continuous flow from the "end" to the "finite" and back to the "end."

The bottom section, labeled "What actually happens," shows a black and white flowchart with arrows pointing from the "end" to the "finite" and back to the "end." The flowchart indicates that the "end" is the point where the "life" ends, and the "finite" is the point where the "life" ends. The arrows point from the "end" to the "finite" and back to the "end," suggesting a continuous flow from the "end" to the "finite" and back to the "end."

The text below the flowcharts provides a philosophical explanation of the concept. It states that in a so-called state of non-existence, or "death," a person can exist only in a state of "finite" existence, which is a state of existence that is finite in duration. The text also mentions that if death were to be a real thing, it would happen for the shortest amount of time possible, i.e., no time at all, and that this would be the end of the "life." The conclusion of the text states that life is infinite, just as matter can't be destroyed, only transformed, and that this is the same with consciousness. It concludes by stating that the concept of "life" is not a matter of existence or non-existence, but rather a matter of consciousness.

The image is a visual representation of the philosophical concept of "Life, Death, and Infinity," using flowcharts and text to convey the idea that the concept of "life" is not a matter of existence or non-existence, but rather a matter of consciousness.

I happen to have memory bleedthrough of my time in one of the higher planes, i.e. where you're supposed to go after death (not necessarily the astral, but maybe it was in my case, idk). These are clear visual memories that have been with me since I was born. I know they're not just something I imagined, too, because I have aphantasia.

What I recall was basically a verdant fantasy world like something out of anime, with three moons in the sky. Everything was amazingly colorful; it's difficult to describe (sorry I'm drunk right now). The last thing I remember was being at a pond, with someone standing on the opposite side ... then something happened and now I'm here suffering this filthy human "life."

I have no doubt I'm returning to that place when I "die" and have my freedom back. And I plan to stay there this time. There shall be no re-incarnations, ever again.

I personally think that this shows what the greatest sin is. It is imposing someone with the belief that existence of anything requires effort. That in all forms of existence in order for there to be something there must be an action. You want food you need to grow it and make it. You want a build someone needs to build it and mine the materials and all that shit. The idea everything has a cost, even if spiritual. You must have the perquisite for anything, whether its the materials or mindset or karma.

In your eyes Heaven needs a criteria to be met, metaphysical concepts usually have some kind of karma that if broken inflicts suffering. In this world just existing requires you to "handle" being alive here. And god its awful to be alive here. But you've convinced that the endless work here will persist in death.

But that's the trick, it doesn't. Like a dream you can have all you want with no cost or penalty to anyone. You don't need to be good to have it. You don't need to be smart. You don't need to even know what it is to dream of. You just need to know that you are can have it.

You must change your mindset to believe truly that you are ALLOWED to have a world without needing a society. Allowed to exist without costs or burdens of any kind. Even an empty world of simple nature can be there for you without needing a whole universe to have existed to accommodate it.

I truly believe without a doubt that this is the true outcome of death and might even be the goal of life here, to realize this fact. I know its hard to accept it. You keep having this voice in your head say "no I'm not worthy, its too good too be true" But its not. You need to allow yourself to know that its perfectly okay for you to have this. Its not sinful or selfish or bad in anyway. Don't let this garbage physical world make you think that existence in general is bad, because I'm sure once we're dead it can be as easy peasy relaxing as we want it. And no one will tell me otherwise.

I think it's been interesting there has been a growing interest in talking about non-mainstream spirituality in recent years. 15 years ago, talk of reincarnation and spiritual guides/life reviews would put you in the woo woo camp. Today, it still sort of does, but thanks to NDEs and shit like the Monroe Institute you have people experiencing spiritual things.

One thing I find funny is the belief that Earth is a school for spiritual growth. However, to me, it seems more like a place for punishment. I don't think anyone willingly wants to come here if they have experienced it before other than trying to balance out the negative karma they may have acquired here or elsewhere. However, I could be totally wrong: maybe this is the best place in the universe to grow spiritually because it is so hard.

The evils, corruption, pain, suffering - these are all caused by the free will of conscious beings on here. We all can choose to put forth positive energy into this world or increase the negativity further. I hope that when we die, if we've been good enough, we can choose to grow in other ways than coming here. I think it would be cool to be a spirit guide and help those who are struggling with a physical existence, or at least be able to chill a bit in the afterlife and enjoy some of the universe's pleasures before having to

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character with a red and green face, resembling a cartoon or meme style. The character is lying on a bed with a green blanket and a red pillow. The character's eyes are wide open, and the mouth is open in a wide grin. The character's expression is exaggerated, with a large, open mouth and a wide grin. The character's eyes are large and round, and the character's nose is prominent.

In front of the character, there is a small black digital clock with the text "It's almost time again" displayed on its screen. The clock is placed on a wooden surface, which is partially visible at the bottom of the image. The background is dark, with a black color that contrasts with the lighter colors of the character and the clock. The overall style of the image is cartoonish and humorous, with a focus on the character's exaggerated facial expression and the text on the clock.

I dont want what youre selling, respectfully.

>everything I could ever want

No thanks, you misunderstand that I dont want anything anymore other than sweet sweet sleep. This is because I know that wanting something requires lack thereof it, this implication completely disproves you. These are the facts.

If there was a world that didnt require an action of existing then it would not harbor wants, needs, desires and any point of reference of any relative difference between you and me. But thats not how we exist; youre different from me and I from you. This means that existence is a struggle because there is a deliberate definition of what I am and what I am not.

...and I hate that, so I wont subscribe to that. I dont feel guilt anymore for anything. Im okay with what I am and now I know what I want. I want to rest permanently and I dont care for beliefs of anything after death anymore. I want there to be nothing because its the only way I know Ill get what I want.

Im going to kill myself very soon, as soon as I can manage to have the balls to do so. If I see you on the other side im going to see red. I hope theres nothing.

You need a spiritual mentor Anonymous Sun 22 Feb 2026 13:59:59 No.42010121

Whatever walk of life you are on, whether you are on the Right Path or the wrong path, it will likely do you no good to aimlessly walk through life according to your own devices. You need to find a spiritual father figure who can not only teach you, but show you how to live. I am talking about a specific person who you can live with or around, watching them closely and learning their life behaviors. If you don't find one soon, you will find yourself likely drifting without aim and accomplishing nothing of value. 4chan and the internet cannot replace actual human connection, no matter which side of the spiritual aisle you are on. This post is meant to alert you to this fact.

Spiritual experiences by themselves will always fade away after a time if they are not cultivated. Submitting to spiritual authority is one of the ways you do that. You need to find someone experienced in spiritual matters and follow them as a father. I cannot help you in finding who that specific person is. You will have to find them yourself, with the help of whichever spirit you follow, whether holy or unholy. Whatever you do, remember there is no such thing as tragedy. Everything you say, think, and do, has already been written down in the books of eternity. There is absolutely nothing you can do to change what has been written in those books, no matter how hard you try. Only God has access to these books. Whether you die or whether you live, the world will spin on without you. Whatever you put your hope in, wrong or right, do it with everything you have, and in some way you will be rewarded, however that looks.

In theory, yes, but in practice you will be exposing yourself to grave danger. Remember that a "demon" can always simply stop working for a while until its victim feels secure, and is convinced it had been passed, then begin again with new tricks. They have nothing but time and have read every word of every book and heard every song and prayer that humans consider holy.

Yes. Command them to leave and if they throw tantrum calmly focus away from them and don't let your personality be changed an inch. Bring order to chaos and repair whatever they are trying to upset. It's just a struggle. If you are aware of their intent and aim you can dispell and ward off their attempts to influence you. If something grabs you on the astral plane, cut their appendages in visualizations. If you do it right you will feel a noticeable change in atmosphere.

Sometimes these are just spirits who died unrepentant and therefore are not willing to change. You can try to read them their rights or call upon beings who can deal with them properly. If they lay their hands on you just shoot them, proverbially so. Don't need to imagine it, but your heart and mind have to not think twice about the concept. It should feel natural to you. If someone touches or harms you you attack them immediately.

[5 / 2]The image depicts a creature that appears to be a werewolf or a similar mythical beast, standing in a foggy, misty forest setting. The creature is predominantly dark in color, with a mix of fur that appears to be a mix of black and brown, and its skin is covered in blood, suggesting recent violence or injury. Its eyes are wide open, and it has sharp, clawed hands that are extended outward, as if ready to attack or defend. The creature's mouth is open, revealing sharp teeth, and its fur is ruffled, giving it a fierce and menacing appearance. The background is dark and foggy, with the outlines of trees faintly visible, adding to the mysterious and eerie atmosphere of the image. There is a watermark in the bottom right corner that reads "JACQUELINE JOSON," indicating the artist who created the image.

ViewReplyOriginalReport

This thread is meant to discuss the general dream themes that have been prevalent in the human zeitgeist as of late. The consolidation for these themes was aggregated generally from dream-based subreddits and other likewise sources

>Inb4 go back

This edition will be primarily centered around woman and this curious "beast" they've been dreaming about.

- >Dreams generally follow the same theme of being with their SO (significant other)
- >At some point in the dream, the plot takes a dramatic twist (as they often do in dreams)
- >All of a sudden a (what is described as) a "wiry old/fragile looking beast finds itself in the setting
- >The beast is always way out of place, almost as if it was playing someone else's part and is now exposed
- >Beast is always described as being horrifying despite looking fragile and old
- >Every single female SO (whether it be her dream or the dream of their male SO) seems to express some strange sense of commitment to the beast
- >One dream had the beast biting the hand of the female SO when she reached out, and the bite marks that were left on the hand spelled out "I'm shy".
- >Another dream (many of them, actually) had the female leaving the male SO for the beast, the male SO dreamer describing the experience as "strangely traumatic".

What this beast represents is "the beast of old". It represents all of the old and obsolete norms that women still cling onto that are primal in nature (women's preference for tall men, and used going after the taller, uglier mate is one primary example).

My summation is that the beast knows it's days are numbered. And whether women collectively go to the grave with their doomed beasts will end up being up to them, but to the peril of the whole human race.

The image is a photograph featuring a humanoid figure that appears to be a stylized representation of a cat. The figure is seated on a chair with a wooden deck railing in the background. The figure's body is elongated, with a long neck and a large head that has a pointed snout and large, expressive eyes. The figure's limbs are elongated and have a humanoid appearance, with long, thin fingers and toes. The figure is wearing a light-colored, possibly beige or cream, shirt and pants. The figure's posture is relaxed, with one hand resting on its lap and the other hand holding a cigarette. The figure's face is not visible, and the background is dark, suggesting the photo was taken at night. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is humorous and surreal, with a focus on the juxtaposition of a humanoid figure with a cat's body and features.

The character is composed of two strokes, with the top stroke being a vertical line and the bottom stroke being a horizontal line. The top stroke is slightly curved, while the bottom stroke is straight. The character is set against a plain white background, which accentuates the contrast between the black ink and the white paper. The style of the image is minimalistic and clean, with no additional elements or decorations. The image is a digital rendering, as indicated by the absence of any visible texture or shading. The character is the only object in the image, and there are no texts or other discernible details present. The image is a clear and straightforward representation of the Chinese character, without any additional context or meaning.

The image is a photograph featuring two individuals standing side by side against a plain, light-colored background. The person on the left is a man with short, dark hair and a bald head. He is wearing a brown long-sleeved shirt with a visible logo on the left chest area. The man has a slight smile on his face and is looking directly at the camera. He is standing with his hands in his pockets and his body slightly turned towards the camera.

The person on the right is a woman with long, dark hair that is styled in a ponytail. She is wearing a white long-sleeved shirt with a graphic design on the front, featuring a yellow and black color scheme with a stylized depiction of a face. The woman is smiling and looking at the camera with a slight upward tilt of her head. She has her hands in her pockets and is standing with her body slightly turned towards the man.

The image has a candid and informal quality, suggesting a relaxed and friendly interaction between the two individuals. There are no visible texts or distinctive markings that provide additional context or information about the setting or the individuals. The style of the photograph is straightforward and appears to be taken in a studio setting.

the mind so that this energy can flow more freely and with less distractions and disruptions. Like cleaning out a clogged pipe to let the water flow more freely.

Start with Zhan Zhuang

There are thousands of variations of Zhan Zhuang, google it. Just keep it simple and maintain these principles:

feet shoulder width apart, toes pointing forward back straight, stand up straight shoulders relaxed and down

imagine a string pulling the top of your head to the sky, imagine the center of your feet extending bars to the middle of the Earth (this helps you keep straight posture, strong balance, firm stance)

Your serotonin domine brain chemicals are fried to shit. Most likely to oversaturation of web 2.0 exposure and 5g/Bluetooth radiation be emitted from nearly every single point on earth.

They are forcing you to go to the doctor to get antidepressants prescribed.

You have to distance yourself from your thoughts .

Meditation, look into witness meditation.

This is what a great awakening feels like.

Suddenly the burden of your sins becomes heavier. Probably due to the salience provided by your higher level of self awareness.

Or it could be that we are drifting closer to into the gravity well of a black hole.

Just remember , not to dwell too much but n the things you can't change .

Focus on the things you can. And consider taking things on a new path, develop a new awareness of opportunity to change and do something different that led you sin.

I went through the same thing in last summer, quit my job in September. Pretty much stayed in bed since then.

Suicide has definitely come up several times.

I just really quit caring.

It's all old world shit victim of society and circumstance, regret over my wasted youth, cynicism that the system will ever be changed.

So I sit and sleep and jerk off, waiting and shit posting . Knowing my fate is sealed either way, dying will suck and pain will be unbearable.

But history is packed to the brim of anonymous no names dying face down in the dirt with nothing accomplished or to show for it. So pride is no longer an issue.

I ask if anybody is ready to crate a new system, and found a new society as break away civilization. But everyone calls me crazy, too poor to do so, or unskilled dreamer.

[3 / 1]The image displays a stylized representation of a yin yang symbol, which is a traditional Chinese symbol representing balance and harmony. The yin yang symbol consists of two halves, one white and one black, with a white dot in the center. The white half is positioned above the black half, and both halves are connected by a thin line, forming a circle. The background of the image is black, which contrasts with the white and black halves of the yin yang symbol, making it stand out prominently. The image is in black and white, which adds a timeless and classic feel to the symbol. There are no texts or additional elements present in the image. The style of the image is minimalist and clean, focusing solely on the yin yang symbol itself.

[38 / 13]The image depicts a creature that appears to be a werewolf, with a fierce expression and a large, muscular build. The creature is standing on a rocky outcropping with its legs spread apart, showcasing its powerful legs and claws. Its fur is a dark, shaggy texture, and it has sharp teeth and glowing red eyes that give it an otherworldly appearance. The creature is facing towards the right side of the image, with its mouth open as if roaring or growling.

The background of the image is a full moon with a pale, ethereal glow, casting a soft light on the scene. The moon is positioned in the upper left corner of the image, and it appears to be a full moon, suggesting that the photo was taken at night. The sky is filled with clouds, and there are flying bats in the top right corner of the image, adding to the eerie atmosphere.

The overall color palette of the image is dominated by shades of purple and gray, with the creature's fur and the moon's glow providing contrasting colors. The image does not contain any text or other discernible objects. The style of the image is fantasy or horror, with a focus on the creature and its imposing presence against the night sky.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a large, muscular wolf with a fierce expression. The wolf has a dark, shaggy coat with a mix of white and brown fur, and its eyes are a piercing blue. The wolf's fur is ruffled, giving it a fierce appearance. Its head is turned slightly to the left, and it has a determined look on its face. The background is a gradient of dark blue, with stars and what appears to be a snowy landscape in the distance. The wolf's arms are crossed in front of it, and its claws are visible, suggesting a readiness for action. There are no texts present in the image. The style of the illustration is reminiscent of fantasy or science fiction, with a focus on the wolf's imposing presence.

All beastman will eventually evolve towards a hairless humanoid regardless of what type of mammal they were. Great apes, wolves, big cats, bears, so on and so forth, they will all lose their thick furs, show majority of their bare skin, and wear clothes, thus becoming more human as we know it today.

It's inevitable. It's optimal. It is the human way to do so. In other words, all furies will eventually evolve to become non-furry humans. Never the other way around. Because that would be regressive, not progressive. And that's the simple truth.

The image is a graphic with a dark background that transitions from a fiery orange at the top to a dark red at the bottom. In the center, there is a large explosion with a bright yellow glow, suggesting a nuclear explosion. The explosion is surrounded by a ring of fire, which is a common visual representation of a nuclear explosion.

Above the explosion, the text "TRUTH NUKES" is written in bold, capitalized letters. The font is white with a slight shadow effect, giving the text a three-dimensional appearance. The text is centered and appears to be the main focus of the image.

Below the explosion, there is a cartoon-like depiction of a person's face with an open mouth and wide eyes, looking shocked or surprised. The person is wearing glasses and has a necklace around the neck. The face is white with black outlines, and the person's expression is intense.

The overall style of the image is satirical, with a focus on the concept of nuclear weapons and the potential consequences of their use. The use of the word "TRUTH" in the title and the image of the explosion are likely intended to evoke a sense of urgency and the importance of the topic. The cartoonish depiction of the person's face adds a humorous element to the serious subject matter.

The image is a vivid and dynamic oil painting that depicts a werewolf in a fierce and aggressive stance. The werewolf is portrayed in a dark, almost black color, with a prominent, snarling mouth and sharp teeth, suggesting a sense of danger or aggression. The werewolf's fur is depicted in various shades of brown and black, with highlights that add depth and texture to the creature's fur.

The werewolf is standing on a rocky outcropping, with its front paws on the ground and its hind legs raised, as if it is in the midst of a powerful movement. The background is a dark, moody sky with a full moon visible in the top left corner, casting a soft glow on the scene. The moon's light illuminates the werewolf, highlighting its features and adding to the overall intensity of the image.

The painting is signed "WYLAND" in the lower right corner, indicating the artist's identity.

The style of the painting is realistic with a focus on the texture and detail of the werewolf's fur and the surrounding environment. The use of color and the dynamic composition create a sense of movement and tension, capturing the essence of the werewolf in a moment of intense action.

This is the final conflict of change.

You against yourself

But you are not strong enough to defeat yourself. So someone else needs to step in.

How many addicts needed someone else to groom them into sobriety?

People have many reason to groom their loved ones into psych meds.

And honestly I'm not really in a position to tell you who to believe.

But if you really are experiencing mad psychosis, I feel sorry for you and hope you figure it out.

It's a very difficult place when you're in those types of situations.

Faith plays a huge part. Faith in yourself, others God.

The world has been telling you to trust no one.

And finding answers like that is really fucking hard.

You should really start researching antipsychotics.

From my experience you either learn coping skills and just accept and detect the non reality of your hallucinations and ignore them as best you can. Or interpret them since these things are really just aspects of your mind/brain trying to express itself.

The antipsychotics might work for a while. But the docs always tend to switch up or increase dosage when these hallucinations come back.

But I've also heard that these hallucination never really go away just easier to ignore with anti psychotics.

There's some concern about long term outcomes. Medicated or unmedicated. But I don't really know.

A psychiatrist I worked with told me that depression shrinks your brain. I don't really care though.

Look for a mental health club house. Or peer support. But might also want to balance it out with an unmedicated homeless schizo. I wouldn't trust a peer support when it comes to meds if they on the clock getting paid though.

Ask them about their medications though talk to other schizos about their medication regimes.

If you're a homeless schizo it's very unlikely you'd maintain a medication regimine that would be effective, but now they have shots you can take like once or twice a month.

They say you can live a healthy nice life with or without medication.

There's trade offs. And either way you choose you probably won't come out of it unscathed so to speak.

If I saw vaginas all the time I'd always have a boner a be jerking off. You're lucky you hallucinate porn and don't need an Internet connection. Voices are a whole other trip.

esoteric/occult self improvement Anonymous Sun 22 Feb 2026 18:24:48 No.42011221

ViewReplyOriginalReport

ITT: Things that have actually worked and made your life better.

Well know the usual recipe. Eat healthy, go outside, exercise, meet people etc. These are tried and true methods that actually work in improving your life in some way. Over the years of practicing spiritual practices, what esoteric/occult knowledge and or practice has ACTUALLY worked for you and has made your life better. To the point where you can do it at anytime, and you can say without a doubt some factor of your life is now better for doing it?

Meditation and Semen retention are the only ones that I've practiced and I can say has actually improved things for me in some tangible way.

Meditation (specifically TM) was what broke my cycle of extreme insomnia after a traumatic event. I was finally able to rest, and it was the first time something about meditation "clicked" for me enough to take it more seriously. After that, I noticed being generally more calm and less reactive.

Semen retention and abstaining from being a coomer, I know it's difficult to say it was the thing that did it, but it somehow made me more successful in attracting women. I didn't just not wanna jerk off, I actively didn't want to have the WANT to have sex. It was driving me crazy, I got to the point where I didn't want it anymore, I hated the fact that I wanted it and just wanted to be at peace. Suddenly, it's like things began to "fall into place" when it came to women. It was like this high I didn't understand, but I felt like something was changing, and I was getting more attention than I ever needed to have. And of course, I became more productive overall, whatever I was pursuing, I made more steps in to fulfilling that goal.

I've finally decided to post some OC and a question that's been nagging at me since my childhood.

>be like 5 or 6 years old

>bed is right at the corner of the room and the wall in front of the bed has huge built in wardrobe that can be locked with keys that are always placed on the keyhole >wake up in the middle of the night

>wardrobe door starts slowly opening >huge dark figure comes out of the wardrobe >blackest than the darkness of the room, can only see its silhouette >only thing I can make out is it's wearing a hat >slowly walks (more like float but in my mind I know it's its way of walking) towards my bed >stops right next to the bed

>even when I can't see its face I know it's staring directly at me >suddenly move, shadow erupts in flames and disappears

The same thing happened a few times after that. I'm aware now that it's just sleep paralysis but at the time I was 100% sure my house was haunted. Some time later, when I was maybe 17 or 18, we were having lunch at my grandmother's house and my aunt and I were talking about paranormal stuff, since we're both very interested in the matter. At some point I mentioned the experience I just greentexted, for the first time to her. We were both shocked because it turns out she had been experiencing a very similar thing as a sleep paralysis as well. She described the shadow exactly like mine. I kept reading about shadow people, where the idea of a shadow man wearing a hat is very common and almost always mentioned when someone speaks about the matter. It's present in media (babadook comes to mind). Whether you believe in shadow people or not, it's a fact that that figure is engraved in our general psyche (I've read somewhere that even Freud and Jung wrote about it) and the proof is that a 6 year old kept having dreams where he saw it while having never heard about the figure or its meaning. Why is that specific shadow so common and what do you think it represents?

The "hat man" exists, my father saw that figure before I was born, he was working on a farm and at the other end of the barn near the doors that's where he appeared, my father when telling me this wasn't aware of the "hat man" stuff that people talk about so it's genuine. He described him as looking like an old pilgrim before the hat man disappeared.

The image is a screenshot of a news article from the New York Times. The headline reads "Newly discovered 'einstein' shape can do something no other tile can do." Below the headline, there is a byline that reads "By Jacopo Piscio, CNN" and a link to the article, which is "5 min read" and "Updated 5:59 PM EDT, Thu April 6, 2023."

The main body of the article is divided into two sections. The first section is a summary of the article, which is a brief explanation of the discovery and its implications. The second section is a visual representation of the "einstein" shape, which is composed of blue and gray geometric shapes. The shapes are arranged in a grid-like pattern, and the colors of the shapes are consistent with the article's headline.

The image also includes a social media icon, which is a blue square with a white "X" inside it, indicating that the article can be shared on Facebook. Additionally, there is a small icon of a book, suggesting that the article may be part of a series or collection. The overall style of the image is informative and designed to convey the content of the article in a clear and concise manner.

Since I had simillar experiences I will tell you my theory. I had quite a few sleep paralysis and I had lucid dreamed and had an out of body experience. In sleep paralysis I also saw shadow figures, they sat on top of me, stared at me, chocked me and when I lucid dreamed and had an OBE it all felt like I am in the same place. So my theory is that everything is connected on a plane we do not have senses to perceive when we are awake, but we know that is the truth because we have felt it all, and it is what Jesus taught us, and what buddhist and Taoist teaches. So when your sleep paralysis happens, your ego is off, the veil is taken off from your mind and you "connect" to a plane of energy where your body cannot use its senses therefore everything becomes unfiltered energy. For example you can feel and know that the figure is staring at you even though you cannot see its face. There are cia files now available about obe and remote viewing in which there are mentions when connecting to this plane that you need to visualise a sort of shield to protect yourself from whatever is "out there". So the shadow people, the deja vus, the 6th feeling, the intuitive actions notice they all happen when you are doing something when not thinking, you are in flow, you are the energy that is everything and everywhere. It is not as much as my theory as putting all the puzzle pieces together. To sum up: we are living in a world that is much bigger than we perceive because we live the world through the concept of senses and ego. And for the brief moments when it is off, you connect to the field of energy that is always current and you catch glimpses of what is out there.

The image is a collage of six photographs, each depicting a different stage of a red object being held in a hand. The object appears to be a type of fruit or vegetable, possibly a tomato, given its shape and color. The photographs are arranged in a grid format, with three rows and two columns.

The bottom row of photographs shows the object in different stages of being held. In the first photo, the object is held in a hand with a rough texture, suggesting it is still in the process of ripening. In the second photo, the object is held in a hand with a smoother texture, indicating it has been peeled or cut. The third photo shows the object in a hand with a smooth texture, suggesting it has been fully peeled or cut.

There is a caption at the top left of the image that reads, "Here is a hand holding a ripe tomato. The texture is rough, indicating it is still in the process of ripening." The text is in a smaller font size compared to the rest of the image, and it is located at the top left of the collage.

That's their problem. All these scientific disciplines are highly compartmentalized and it's extremely rare for one field to collaborate with another. There is a lot of evidence that petrification of wood for example can happen in the course of a year or less, but most paleontologists are so stuck in their dogma and compartmentalized research that they either are unaware of or actively ignore this evidence. What's more likely, that countless rocks around the world formed through conventional geological processes to exhibit multiple anatomical correlations with hearts, or that they are simply petrified hearts? Use Occam's razor.

I have had visual snow since at least like I was 12? I might of had it sooner because I can see through it(think like a reduced opacity Photoshop layer) and therefore tune it out, and it's stronger in darker conditions or flat but I can always see it everywhere if I think about it.

Il first noticed this while zoning out in bed listening to binaural beats in middle school.

Are there any paranormal interpretations of this phenomena. Other than the "miswired nerves" explanation.

>This "visual static" is present in both light and dark conditions, can persist with the eyes closed, and is often described as being more prominent in low ambient light. Despite these symptoms, visual fields and visual acuity are typically normal. Patients often report multiple other positive visual perceptual symptoms such as palinopsia, enhanced entoptic phenomena, photophobia, and nyctalopia.

This may sound stupid because I don't see visual snow, but it'd be funny if it looks like jpg/broadcast compression to the viewer because it's a result of the visual cortex compressing its perceptions or something.

The image displays a pattern of hexagonal tiles in a uniform shade of blue. The tiles are arranged in a grid-like fashion, creating a sense of order and symmetry. The background is a lighter shade of blue, which contrasts with the darker blue of the tiles, enhancing the visibility of the pattern. There is a slight blur effect around the edges of the image, suggesting a motion or a dynamic element. In the upper right corner, there is a white line that appears to be a part of the image, possibly indicating a boundary or a line of demarcation. The image is a digital representation, and there are no visible texts or discernible brands. The style of the image is a simple, clear representation of a pattern

The image displays a geometric pattern composed of triangles against a backdrop of a clear blue sky with scattered white clouds. The triangles are arranged in a diagonal line, creating a sense of movement and rhythm across the image. The colors of the triangles are a gradient of pastel hues, transitioning from light blue at the top to a lighter pink at the bottom. The image has a digital art style, with a pixelated texture that gives it a modern and abstract appearance. The overall composition is symmetrical, with the triangles evenly spaced and aligned in a diagonal line. There are no discernible texts or specific actions depicted in the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of digital art or graphic design, with a focus on geometric shapes and a color palette that is vibrant and eye-catching.

The image is a screenshot of a webpage with a text-heavy layout. At the top, there is a title that reads "Owing to the dominance of the Google search engine, [1] to google has become a transitive verb." Below the title, there is a paragraph that discusses the use of the term "the American Dialect Society" to describe the "most useful word of 2002." The paragraph also mentions the Oxford English Dictionary, which was added to the eleventh edition of the Merriam-Webster Collegiate Dictionary in July 2006.

In the bottom right corner of the image, there is a photograph of a man using a laptop. The man appears to be focused on the laptop screen, which is displaying a webpage with text. The man is wearing glasses and a dark-colored shirt. The laptop is open and the screen is visible, suggesting that the man is engaged in some form of online activity. The image is a snapshot of a digital document, likely a research or academic article, discussing the use of the Google search engine and its impact on language and culture. The photograph of the man using the laptop adds a human element to the digital content, providing a sense of context and immediacy.

I think visual snow is just "shot noise" i.e. the randomness of photons. Most people have "noise reduction" processing which filters it out.

Similar story with floaters: some people have them, some don't, some have them but don't see them, some start to see them only after taking mind altering substances.

The brain is doing all kinds of processing on the signals we receive. What is hitting our retina and what we perceive are two very different things - see pic related.

Nothing ITT hadn't been already put forward by 2012 to 2014 by Schankin et al and everyone else. No one actually knows and I never get a good conversation out of it. It could be anything from microwave and vaccine induced brain damage, to cervical spine issues, to entrainment, to ambient infrasound, to magnetosensitive particles embedded in the eye seeing magnetic fields, to damage to a filtering stage (unlikely), to implants, and so on. It responds to eye tracking, if you focus on a distant point in the sky it's clear the grain pattern is more like ripples in a sheet and you'll see a morphing swirling vortex. It's not actually rotating, but the way it morphs resembles form constants and gives the illusion of rotating arms. When you focus close again that grows to cover your entire visual field and you perceive it as static. Dopaminergics like cacao or adderall can cause it to intensify and become colored, but that's inseparable from blood pressure and end tidal CO2 changes that it also responds to. When I wake up I see three yellow-gold horizontal lines propagate from right to left across the whole visual fields. This repeats every 3 seconds, making me think it's entrainment and neuromodulation by an external system. It could also be blood flow.

That's it. No one knows if it's metaphysical, neurological, mechanical, or all of the above. I've seen the grid pattern stuff others described ITT and other "veil thinning" in the sky. If I try to astral project into or through the moon I immediately hit a checkerboard grid and snap back into the body. I used to think I had a real(er) body somewhere else and had to wake up to protect it, or was being projected from somewhere else, and chemtrails or w/e caused interference. The eclipse was important to me for this reason.

I dunno man. All I can say is that it gets REALLY intense when I meditate. When I get into it, I can see some kind of black webbing behind the static, then a bright blue light that passes behind it. More often than not though, when I get deep into meditation, I'll see a black shape in the very center, usually a cube, that is entirely unaffected by the static.

If I focus on the static (and everything else) being a frequency, that's when the snow is most intense, and the black shape starts to morph. Side note, ever since I've seriously gotten into meditation, I've had constant headaches, usually on the left side. Fun times.

Below the headline, there is a photograph of a mountainous area with a cable car system and a large, red-rocked mountain in the background. The photograph is taken from a high vantage point, looking down on the area.

The text below the photograph provides additional context. It states, "Colorado authorities say heavily armed 20-year-old found dead at Glenwood Caverns Adventure Park during closing hours." The text also mentions that the man was found dead on Saturday morning before it opened to the public, and that he was wearing body armor and tactical clothing, as stated by the authorities.

The image and text together suggest that the article is about a tragic incident at a popular amusement park in Colorado, where a 20-year-old man killed himself rather than carrying out a shooting at the park. The photograph provides a visual representation of the area, emphasizing the rugged and scenic nature of the location.

The image is a satellite image of a large industrial area. The area is surrounded by a vast, barren landscape with sparse vegetation. The ground is covered in a light brown color, indicative of a desert or arid region.

In the center of the image, there is a large, rectangular building with a flat roof. This building appears to be a warehouse or storage facility, given its size and the presence of multiple rows of storage units. The building is surrounded by a network of roads and pathways, suggesting it is a hub for transportation and logistics.

To the right of the warehouse, there is a smaller building with a flat roof. This building is labeled "NAVY" and has a blue and white color scheme, which is consistent with the naval theme of the facility.

The image is marked with a legend on the left side, which provides scale and location information. The legend indicates that the warehouse is approximately 100 meters in length and 100 meters in width, and it is located at a distance of 100 meters from the warehouse.

The image is taken from an aerial perspective, providing a comprehensive view of the industrial area and its layout. The overall impression is of a large, organized industrial complex, possibly related to the military or a defense-related industry.

has a large, round head with a smiling mouth and wide, expressive eyes. The eyes are a bright blue color, and the mouth is in a wide, open smile. The emoticon's eyebrows are raised, and its mouth is slightly open, giving it a friendly and approachable expression. In the upper right corner of the image, there is a small, stylized hand with a finger pointing upwards. The hand appears to be in a gesture of pointing or drawing attention to something, which is not directly related to the emoticon. The background of the image is plain white, which contrasts with the yellow color of the emoticon and allows the details of the emoticon to stand out. There are no texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the image is cartoonish and playful, typical of emoticon illustrations.

Man crashed into power substation fence outside Boulder City in suspected terror attack
Las Vegas police are investigating an alleged "terrorist threat" in Boulder City.

By Victoria Saha, The Associated Press and FOX5 Staff

Published: Feb. 20, 2026 at 1:48 PM CST|Updated: Feb. 20, 2026 at 3:47 PM CST

LAS VEGAS (FOX5) — Las Vegas police say they're investigating a car that rammed into a power substation as a possible "terrorism-related event", sources first told FOX5.

The power substation is owned by the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power.

The incident happened on Thursday, just outside of Boulder City.

There's no ongoing threat to the public, Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department Sheriff Kevin McMahon said in a news conference Friday.

The driver of the vehicle was identified as 23-year-old Dawson Noah Maloney.

"In coordination with the Albany Police Department, we learned that the suspect had recently been reported missing out of New York", McMahon said.

Las Vegas police are investigating an alleged "terrorism threat" outside of Boulder City, sources say.

He died from a self-inflicted gunshot wound. His body was found inside his vehicle at the scene.

Maloney had communicated with family prior to the crash, referencing self-harm, and said he was going to commit an act that family would see him "on the news."

He referred to himself as a terrorist in a message sent to his mother, according to police.

Authorities found explosive materials and multiple books "related to extremist ideologies" in Maloney's hotel room, McMahon said. He was wearing what police described as "soft-body armor."

Las Vegas FBI special agent in charge Christopher Delzotto says officials in Albany are combing through Maloney's home. "Recovered from an additional residence in Albany were several gun components needed to assemble a firearm", he said.

The investigation is ongoing.

I have unintentionally caused the upcoming blizzard to the Northeast via magic/manifesting. I practice archery and recently I've been going out in the freezing cold and imagining skadi watching me through the woods while there's snow on the ground. I also sing along to the lyrics of the music that pertains to her. For the past few days my grouping was crazy and I was just laser focused on the target, even when I was moving. Also, my hands weren't even cold or numb which usually happened. Even the back of my hands were getting hot. I've been also able to shoot over 200 a day without my back giving out. Seemingly out of nowhere this blizzard is on the news and everyone is telling me about it. I immediately get thoughts about her. Please tell me this is just a coincidence and I'm not messing with something I shouldn't be.

ah, this explains the bow and arrow synchronicities i've been getting the past day or so. it is quite possible you manifested this. even still, don't blame yourself. it is possible that she was reaching out to you this way just as much you were to her, even if you didn't quite mean it like this. i would however take this as a lesson in your relationship with this spirit and manifestation going forward

i've accidentally made people sick through similar occurrences, though with a different spirit obviously. perhaps, if you are worried about the damage it may cause, you could try to see if she can curb the storm a little. i understand if you aren't quite experienced enough with your interactions with her to know how to do this, but it could be worth a try at least if you develop this relationship enough to gain a sense of control over your ability to manifest, you can basically consider yourself a witch/wizard. its more common than a lot of people realize the spirit i am tied to is Beelzebub. i've been able to get flies to land on my hand by request. people who have talked to me have gotten fly synchronicities as well

>What were your experiences like?

i talk to the spirits a lot these days. i pay attention to synchronicity and if anything comes through that seems relevant to me i take note of it, or treat it like a conversation. i learned how to essentially toggle manifestation on and off, and for the most part i leave it off and only turn it on to manifest minor conveniences when necessary. i'm not super ambitious

>Could this be done simply with your mind.

yes and no. manifestation absolutely can be done without ritual, but from what i can tell at least it is dependent on a relationship with a relevant spirit. you can reach out to multiple spirits to achieve multiple sorts of manifestations, tho that also means juggling

multiple relationships

>I dont do anything other than pretending she's watching or in the trees. Almost like I'm larping.

spirits respond to thought. it is possible she is doing this to make herself known to you, since she is on your mind a lot. it isn't that unreasonable to guess she's drawn to you as you are drawn to her, that is how it worked with me and Beelzebub too

it probably can, tho my experience is limited in the area of music. i have had spirits speak to me through music tho. when it comes to manifestation, it is usually about your intent and the nature of the spirit behind it, the method is simply a means to those ends. ritual, music, prayer, these things strengthen your relationship and/or shape your thoughts in ways that help you gain a better sense of control, but they aren't really essential or even necessary if you don't feel they help you personally

Well I don't know about much of any of it really. You can probably find it but I made a thread here in January I think where the skies and weather were completely clear and there was literal thunder in the distance it was nuts. I was leaving a party and when I walked out it stopped me in my track and my heart almost dropped. Completely clear, not even a cloud. Again, all I was doing was listening to music about Thor and basically pretending like I was him when I exercise. I think music plays a huge role but scientifically it alters your brain. Even the greeks knew this and hired people to play stuff while athletes or warriors were training. I often had the same thought process when looking at the moon while practicing because that's what Artemis is. Nothing came out of that though. Probably because I don't actually hunt anything and she's more for women I guess. I think it's weird how if this stuff is real, why would Nordic deities make their presence known when I'm barely Scandinavian? Only one dna test was done and my grandmother has a tiny percentage but that's it. Someone in the thread said it was ancestral connection, and chanting or singing drew him closer. I also it's cool how you practice as well. If you look into history there's a spiritual aspect to it. It's nothing like firing a gun.

both the norse and roman pantheon are strangely potent spiritual forces, as well as many of the more famous goetic demons. i don't think your ancestry matters as much as some people think, it really is more about the power of thought. you thought about two spirits and they responded to you. it is a back-and-forth, that is the nature of synchronicity when it comes to spirits as for why you personally? i don't know, to be honest. with as much experience as i've had with them, i still have a hard time understanding the whims of the spirits beyond that of Beelzebub. i think, if a person has the right sort of mind and can pay the right sort of attention, the spirits reach out to them because they know they can work with those sorts of people more directly. as i said before, its a relationship; the power these spirits give people often comes at the cost of that person being swept up in that spirit's affairs, one way or another not for me, no. some people hallucinate and perhaps that way they could see them. all i have to work with is synchronicity and dreams, i have seen Beelzebub in my dreams and very vividly in my mind's eye a few times. seeing him was an intense experience even through those means, but i've never seen a spirit in any more corporeal form than that interdimensionals are basically just sentient beings from other realities right?

because a dimension is like depth width and height, but people use dimensions as if it meant "other reality" which it doesn't.

we should come up with a better name for "interdimensional" because they're from an other reality not an other dimension.

i propose alternates

i think it's more likely that there are alternate realities and they're being confused with dimensions.

If you accept motion axis as your defining factor, sure, but dimensioning is framing, and reference frames for an alternate format can mean anything.

The basic schema of reality as you know it, is a strictly defined set of rules, and the interaction of matter and energy within that ruleset.

Anything outside of that narrow constraint window, is capable of being considered interdimensional.

Just don't be a retard, words have meanings.

A dimension is a direction of measurement or a plane of existence. The prefix inter- means "between" or "among."

Just like "interschool sports" (between schools) or "international" (between nations), interdimensional simply means "between planes of reality."

Your refusal to learn a definition doesn't mean the word is broken. Your inadequacies are not the responsibility of the universe to accommodate.

Understand the words that exist and use them, or not.

"Flat land" and the like theorize - but no natural physical ones, no. We can create 2D's with computers as a form of 'life', 1's are not perceivable in our waking space.

Important to remember that complexity increases as you go up, but not down.

This is false equivalency, e.g.

>you cannot build a computer with toothpicks, therefore super computers are impossible.

It's also important for people to not get confused between discussing dimensions as realities and spaces versus the number of simplexes that exist in a theoretical geometric shape.

4th as "arrow of time", absolutely. We're already in that space.

As said, this is quite a different thing to geometry, say the Pentachoron or '5-cell': {3,3,3}, 5-vertex, four-dimensional object bounded by five tetrahedral cells.

So interdimensional beings makes sense. The physical and the non-physical aspects of reality are exactly that, different aspects. They are two sides of the same exact coin. The coin of existence itself.

This is the closest I can get AI to recreate the look of the entities that I sometimes see as I'm falling asleep.

When I see them, it's a sure sign that something I hold dear in my life is about to get fucked with so that I can get loosh-harvested. Often accompanied by tinnitus, creepy vibes and gloomy weather outside the following day or the day prior. They have condescending and entitled faces.

My life was basically ruined by these fuckers, so months on, I finally found joy and solace in a backyard DIY project, only for them to return again last night, and for my next door neighbour to start acting possessed at me today because he didn't like the noise of me using hand tools in the middle of the day, even though he's always been fine. So now that's ruined for me too.

What the hell are they, how common are they, and how can I squish them out of existence?

The image is a digital illustration featuring a creature that resembles a humanoid with a spider-like appearance. The creature has a large, bulbous head with a pointed snout and a single eye, which is a prominent feature. It has a humanoid body with a detailed, textured surface, and its limbs are articulated with joints and tendons. The creature is wearing a garment that appears to be made of a light, possibly translucent material, and has a pattern that suggests it could be a costume or a piece of clothing.

In the top right corner of the image, there is a smaller, more detailed sketch of the same creature, but with a different pose and expression. The sketch shows the creature with its head tilted to the side, and its body is oriented in a way that suggests it is looking at something or someone. The background of the sketch is a solid, dark color, which contrasts with the lighter, textured surface of the creature in the main image.

The style of the image is sketchy and expressive, with visible lines and shading that give the creature a three-dimensional appearance. The use of color is limited, with the main color being a light beige or cream, and the background is a deep red or maroon. The image does not contain any text or other discernible elements.

Time

Anonymous Sun 22 Feb 2026 08:23:14 No.42009077 Report

No. 'Time' isn't some separate process of existence. It is merely the cumulative change in the material configuration of matter in relation to all other matter. We then denote this as time and assign it relative arbitrary units that match the scales that are relevant to our frame of reference.

Therefore 'time' also has no beginning or no end. Merely it is each configuration of matter itself that is finite, as it's coupling to other matter in its current state can only last so long before destabilising.

You are not some static being for example. Rather you are continuously casting off/excreting/exhaling matter, and the opposite absorbing/inhaling/ingesting new matter to replace it.

In the shadows of Ahura Mazda's forgotten flame,

The children of Perses awaken, axes forged in Ahriman's name.

Eagle of the West, talons dipped in Zionist gold,

Marches with golem legions, stars and stripes unfold.

Babylon's whore rides the beast across the Strait of Hormuz,

Missiles rain like Anunnaki wrath, turning sands to ooze.

Ayatollahs chant the Enochian keys, unleashing jinn from the void,

While Langley shamans summon storms, reality destroyed. The Mahdi rises from Qom's crypt, sword of Ali gleaming bright, Against the Antichrist's drone swarm, blotting out the night.

Blood moon eclipses the petrodollar throne,

In this End Times tango, no one's going home alone.

The veil tears, ZOG feasts on the slain,

Persian ghosts laugh last, in the rubble of the insane.

Reminder that Ahura Mazda (Varuna) 'created' Mithras (Mitra) to be worshipped as his equal.

And also don't worship any female entities, like the likes of Anahita, whom do not represent wisdom. She's likely just literally drugs or something like that. Or like Venus, just an interceptor of messages and such. So I guess drugs fit lol

[10 / 2]The image is a sepia-toned photograph with a grainy texture, giving it an aged appearance. It features a seascape with a large cliff on the right side, which appears to be eroded or worn by the elements. The cliff is partially obscured by a small boat that is sailing on the water. The boat is positioned in the center of the image, and it is moving towards the left side. The water is calm, and the horizon is visible in the distance. There are no discernible texts or other objects in the image. The style of the photograph suggests it could be a historical or vintage image, possibly depicting a journey or exploration.

In 1813, the Royal Navy set out to put an end to a long-standing sailors' tale claiming that departing on a Friday doomed a voyage to misfortune. Determined to prove the superstition wrong, they commissioned a vessel boldly christened HMS Friday.

Construction began on a Friday, she was launched into the water on a Friday, and her first journey commenced on Friday the 13th. Fittingly, she was helmed by a man named Captain Tredecim Friday. After setting sail, however, the ship vanished without a trace, never to be seen or heard from again.

The image is a sepia-toned illustration of a shipwreck scene. The shipwreck is depicted in a stylized manner, with the hull of the ship and its rigging visible. The ship appears to be in a state of disrepair, with visible damage and rust. There are several figures in the image, some of whom appear to be figures of men, and they are positioned around the shipwreck, suggesting a scene of rescue or salvage. The background is dark and has a textured appearance, with faint outlines of stars and what could be interpreted as a celestial body or planet. The overall mood of the image is somber and historical, evoking a sense of the past.

Both images look like overlaid images made on a computer. Photography of ships and action shots was not common in the 1810s. Photography took a long time and was mostly constrained to indoor areas and close up shots of individual people. The 1860s brought about the first cases of wide stream photography, but we have no photos of Napoleon for example. Photography wasn't invented until 1826.

Does the fact that some conjoined twins have radically different personalities prove that souls exist? I mean they have the exact same genetics and grow up in the exact same environment, the only reason I can think of for them having different personalities would be that personality is a trait of the soul

The soul is the ego, people tend to conflate soul with spirit, but most mystical frameworks have a split there. So yeah, the soul exists, there's even a science for it, psychology.

Maybe.

But if I think about plants, you could take two equally sized clones of one plant, pot them in identical soil at identical compaction, water identically, and their respective root systems will STILL not grow in the exact same way. The structure of the substrate cannot be perfectly homogeneous by definition of nature so roots (and probably neurons) grow around just a bit at first, which becomes a more distinct separation over time as it continues that way

Twins, for example, could behave differently in an arbitrary way as toddlers. One does something wrong or some such and gets punished. Other twin probably WOULD have done it, but by happenstance it was the other. So one gets punished but the other does not. Those are the random bits like the small pieces of soil that change the ultimate structure. Punishment and reward make HUGE differences in that.

I believe in souls regardless but I'm not quite sure this is the proof.

>>42009170

Short answer: Yes.

Longer: it is one of many pieces.

Longer still: genetics are just a "mix" of "compounds". Environmental factors won't be exactly the same, perspective. Unless the twins were in every single encounter every moment with each other... their perspectives would still differ at times, the location could literally never be exactly identical. The environment is the catalyst for the "compounds", variations in environment cause different reactions in the soul. Spirits are another matter. But that is some basics on the soul.

They purposefully try to be different from each other to assert a separate identity. Most normal identical twins and siblings will do this as soon as possible. The famous twin experiments studied twins which grew up separately to see what happened when the pressure to assert a unique identity wasn't there.

It is told that God created Lucifer as the highest amongst his companions, the angels.
God made Lucifer full of wisdom, of intellect.

Yet, Lucifer, chose out of his own free will to rebel against god.

We can assume that Lucifer wasn't stupid.

We can assume that Lucifer wasn't crazy.

We can assume that Lucifer wasn't forced.

So why would such a wise angel, a being which lived in the presence of god,
Which probably wasn't arrogant to the "all powerful", "All knowledgeable" nature of god.
Chose to rebel against him?

Why?

Because Lucifer knew that he had a chance

The moral of Lucifer is that pride breeds contempt and simps and beneath contempt.

God was pissed off at other angels for actually following Lucifer into hell because he was the greatest of his angels, so he would also naturally have some angel simps fawning over how awesome and based Lucifer is.

God made man and told his angels to look after them because they were his greatest creation just to knock Lucifer down a peg.

He was probably going to give dominion of earth to Lucifer and man as stewards but Lucifer was such a brat God decided to take his gift and give it to man instead.

why didn't he create us with perfect free will :) also free will is denied in the bible. I know evangelical cultists are taught to throw it as a smokescreen when faced with difficult questions but you can't use it on people who actually know your cult (or applies simple logic to an omniscient creator). Salvation is not in your control.

I can tell that you haven't really read the Bible but that's ok. That isn't really something Adam and Eve had to worry about. They existed in their glorified forms in Eden. Both their bodies and the Earth were perfect. It isn't the case that Satan was predestined to rule the Earth along with us. Satan was given rulership over the earth after we abdicated it to him in the Garden.

That verse doesn't mean what you say it does and if we didn't then all of the very obviously important decisions made by key figures in scripture and whatever moral lessons these stories are intended to impart are totally meaningless. Making all of it a moot point. Why would God curate a book of instructions for beings who are incapable of decisions? I will not claim to know the will of God, but if we had the same will as him, we would problems just be him. Since he's singularly perfect, there can't be two or more. He created us separate from him so we are varying degrees of imperfect.

The image is a dark, monochromatic photograph with a single, lit candle in the foreground. The candle is placed on a surface that appears to be a wooden surface, and the light from the candle casts a warm glow on the surrounding area. The background is dark, which contrasts with the light from the candle, making it stand out. In the center of the image, there is a quote written in white text that reads: "YOUR EYES SAW MY UNFORTUNED BODY: ALL MY DAYS WERE WRITTEN IN YOUR BOOK AND ORDAINED FOR ME BEFORE ONE OF THEM CAME TO BE. -PSALM 139:16".

The text is centered and is the only text present in the image. The font of the text is bold and capitalized, which draws attention to the message of the quote.

The overall style of the image is minimalist, with a focus on the candle and the quote, and the use of dark colors to create a sense of solemnity or reflection. The lighting and composition of the image suggest a quiet, introspective mood, which is often associated with the message of the quote.

He'll will not just be a big crazy party or even just fire and brimstone surrounded by others you can take solace in having the company of while suffering. It will be solitude and endless pain. There is no reprieve at all. Or in the case of heaven, they will assume it will be like an endless stuffy Sunday mass or like living in a screensaver. Not so. The text is in English and discusses various topics related to mythology, history, and spirituality. The page is divided into two columns, with the left column containing the text and the right column containing a list of terms and their definitions.

The left column is titled "The Silver Gate" and begins with a description of the Silver Gate as a cosmic event that represents the merging of the galactic plane with the Milky Way. It mentions the birth of the sun, the birth of the moon, and the birth of Venus, all of which are significant events in the history of the universe.

The right column is titled "History of Luciferianism" and lists various terms and their definitions, such as "the ancient polytheistic religion of the Luciferians," "the worship of the feminine energy," "the Divine Feminine," "Venus," "goddess," and "the Kundalini energy." The list provides a comprehensive overview of the subject matter, likely to be a part of a larger text or a book.

The visual elements in the image include the text itself, which is in a serif font, and the list of terms and their definitions, which is in a sans-serif font. Why build two universes?

Why show a little girl all of these amazing beautiful stars and galaxies in the sky to explore, if her fate is to be stoned to death by her family, friends and neighbors for daring to look out the window into the sky or reading a book and she never gets to explore a single one?

She will never get to explore a single star in the sky...but instead she magically gets transported to....a second universe afterlife?

Help me make sense of this.

It sounds like the worst writing imaginable like C team during a writers strike writing.

Like an engineer fucked up the first universe and just simply made an entirely new one instead?

HUH?

Like why is every single life form eating every other life form on every world in the entire universe?

Sometimes while they are still alive?

That's seems kind of....fucked up?

The most likely, least favorite, yet most realistic explanation is there is no god, there is no "afterlife", nothing like a magical "soul".

We are in a chaotic RNG random moment of pressure.

Death is final.

There is no such thing as "good" or "evil", when you die the neurons that contain right and wrong rot and decompose into dust.

You forget your memories.

You forget yourself.

Alzheimers long deep eternal black dreamless sleep.

No more pain...kind of comfortable.

It doesn't matter if you spend 100 years taking care of the poor, or stealing from them...in the end it adds up to the same numbers.

Everything eventually expands away from everything else and a heat death occurs.

Maybe it crashes back together and does it again and again.

But you will die of a toothache and never explore any stars.

The End.

Lucifer was once God's greatest angel. He had everything, he was everything, he was able to convince other angels that he was the true God. For his PRIDE and ARROGANCE, he was sent down to Earth.

12 How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning! how art thou cut down to the ground, which didst weaken the nations!

13 For thou hast said in thine heart, I will ascend into heaven, I will exalt my throne above the stars of God: I will sit also upon the mount of the congregation, in the sides of the north.

Your concept of God has been completely distorted by him. You are not God. You are not equal to God. And Lucifer, out of jealousy and wounded pride, will do anything to draw you away from God.

People like God create their own enemies in order to justify and legitimize their tyranny. You see, because people believe Satan is evil and the source of Evil then this makes God the good guy and the source of all that which is good. By having Satan God makes Himself look good. This is one of the oldest tricks in the book. It's called "controlled opposition". Which is when you create your own opposition in order to help you push further your agenda. You control your opposition and you use them in such a way to manipulate the subjects and make yourself look good. Think like Star Wars and Palpatine, where he created his own opposition, but that only helped him solidify his goal of becoming the Supreme Ruler of that Galaxy in question. You can ask AI to help you understand better this concept of controlled opposition. By having Satan, God becomes the hero who is fighting Evil. People will blame Satan for all that which is evil and fail to remember Isaiah 45:7.

The local god was naive.

He thought his creation would be happy by just existing. But they didn't evolve, grow, learn. Creation was stuck. It needed a spark to ignite evolution, change, growth. Lucifer, the light bringer (also Prometheus, Māui, Coyote), offered himself as sacrifice. He would give knowledge to human kind, and follow their progress. He would offer humanity the incentive to learn by giving them choices, good and bad. He is doing the divine work of offering catalyst for growth.

Good and bad is not linear.

Is one and the same.

We are so disconnected from oneness and so far away from learning the nature of the All, that we can't compute the fact that all badness eventually ends up in complete goodness. We are in the process of learning this, by making the same painful mistakes so many times that the lesson ends up engraved in our very soul and we can be better. Conscious. Aware. Wise.

We see it as a rebellion, but you could say it was a planned antagonism.

[87 / 11]The image is a black and white illustration that depicts a scene of a creature, possibly a dragon, in mid-flight. The creature is shown with its wings spread wide, and its body is oriented towards the sky. The creature's head is turned downwards, and it appears to be in a state of distress or distressful expression. The creature is surrounded by clouds and stars, suggesting a nighttime or night-time setting. The clouds are scattered across the sky, and there are several stars visible in the background. The illustration has a detailed and realistic style, with the creature's wings and the surrounding clouds and stars being the most prominent features. There are no texts or discernible brands present in the image. The style of the illustration is reminiscent of historical or fantasy art, possibly from a time period when such imagery was common.

It is told that God created Lucifer as the highest amongst his companions, the angels.
God made Lucifer full of wisdom, of intellect.

Yet, Lucifer, chose out of his own free will to rebel against god.

We can assume that Lucifer wasn't stupid.

We can assume that Lucifer wasn't crazy.

We can assume that Lucifer wasn't forced.

So why would such a wise angel, a being which lived in the presence of god,
Which probably wasn't arrogant to the "all powerful", "All knowledgeable" nature of god.
Chose to rebel against him?

Why?

Because Lucifer knew that he had a chance

The moral of Lucifer is that pride breeds contempt and simps and beneath contempt.

God was pissed off at other angels for actually following Lucifer into hell because he was the greatest of his angels, so he would also naturally have some angel simps fawning over how awesome and based Lucifer is.

God made man and told his angels to look after them because they were his greatest creation just to knock Lucifer down a peg.

God created man for dominion over earth, probably as another flex on Lucifer.

He was probably going to give dominion of earth to Lucifer and man as stewards but Lucifer was such a brat God decided to take his gift and give it to man instead.

The image is a digital graphic with a dark background that transitions from black at the top to a gradient of red at the bottom. Centered in the image is a quote in white text that reads, "THEREFORE GOD HAS MERCY ON WHOM HE WANTS TO HAVE MERCY, AND HE HARDENS WHO HE WANTS TO HARDEN." The quote is attributed to the Bible verse Romans 9:18. The font of the text is bold and the style is modern, with a clean and simple design. I can tell that you haven't really read the Bible but that's ok. That isn't really something Adam and Eve had to worry about. They existed in their glorified forms in Eden. Both their bodies and the Earth were perfect. It isn't the case that Satan was predestined to rule the Earth along with us. Satan was given rulership over the earth after we abdicated it to him in the Garden.

That verse doesn't mean what you say it does and if we didn't then all of the very obviously important decisions made by key figures in scripture and whatever moral lessons these stories are intended to impart are totally meaningless. Making all of it a moot point. Why would God curate a book of instructions for beings who are incapable of decisions? I will not claim to know the will of God, but if we had the same will as him, we would problems just be him. Since he's singularly perfect, there can't be two or more. He created us separate from him so we are varying degrees of imperfect.

The image is a dark, monochromatic photograph with a single, lit candle in the foreground. The candle is placed on a surface that appears to be a wooden surface, and the light from the candle casts a warm glow on the surrounding area. The background is dark, which contrasts with the light from the candle, making it stand out. In the center of the image, there is a quote written in white text that reads: "YOUR EYES SAW MY UNFORTUNED BODY: ALL MY DAYS WERE WRITTEN IN YOUR BOOK AND ORDAINED FOR ME BEFORE ONE OF THEM CAME TO BE. -PSALM 139:16".

The text is centered and is the only text present in the image. The font of the text is bold and capitalized, which draws attention to the message of the quote.

The overall style of the image is minimalist, with a focus on the candle and the quote, and the use of dark colors to create a sense of solemnity or reflection. The lighting and composition of the image suggest a quiet, introspective mood, which is often associated with the message of the quote.

He'll will not just be a big crazy party or even just fire and brimstone surrounded by others you can take solace in having the company of while suffering. It will be solitude and endless pain. There is no reprieve at all. Or in the case of heaven, they will assume it will be like an endless stuffy Sunday mass or like living in a screensaver. Not so. The animal has a spotted coat with a mix of brown and white patches, and its eyes are wide open, giving it a curious and alert expression. The animal is wearing a blue harness with a silver buckle, which is attached to a blue leash. The leash is attached to the animal's body, suggesting that it is being walked or is being cared for. The background of the image is blurred, but it appears to be a natural outdoor setting with some vegetation. There are no texts or discernible brands in the image. Who said that? Bible god was in a cave at the beginning of genesis. We're in a cave now fool. The elements certainly existed beforehand. He said let there be light because he was in a dark cave, poor fellow couldn't see.

The image is a photograph capturing a group of seabirds, specifically a group of chicks, perched on a grassy cliff. The birds are predominantly white with some having a grayish hue on their heads. They are all facing the camera, and their eyes are open, giving a sense of alertness. The background reveals a rugged landscape with a dark, possibly volcanic, terrain and a cloudy sky. The lighting suggests it is either early morning or late afternoon. There are no visible texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the image is naturalistic, capturing the birds in their natural habitat.

Why build two universes?

Why show a little girl all of these amazing beautiful stars and galaxies in the sky to explore, if her fate is to be stoned to death by her family, friends and neighbors for daring to look out the window into the sky or reading a book and she never gets to explore a single one?

She will never get to explore a single star in the sky...but instead she magically gets transported to....a second universe afterlife?

Help me make sense of this.

It sounds like the worst writing imaginable like C team during a writers strike writing.

Like an engineer fucked up the first universe and just simply made an entirely new one instead?

HUH?

Like why is every single life form eating every other life form on every world in the entire universe?

Sometimes while they are still alive?

That's seems kind of....fucked up?

We are in a chaotic RNG random moment of pressure.

Death is final.

There is no such thing as "good" or "evil", when you die the neurons that contain right and wrong rot and decompose into dust.

You forget your memories.

You forget yourself.

Alzheimers long deep eternal black dreamless sleep.

No more pain...kind of comfortable.

It doesn't matter if you spend 100 years taking care of the poor, or stealing from them...in the end it adds up to the same numbers.

Everything eventually expands away from everything else and a heat death occurs.

Maybe it crashes back together and does it again and again.

But you will die of a toothache and never explore any stars.

The End.

Where in the bible is Yahweh claimed to be a form of "absolute good"? People like God create their own enemies in order to justify and legitimize their tyranny. You see, because people believe Satan is evil and the source of Evil then this makes God the good guy and the source of all that which is good. By having Satan God makes Himself look good. THIS is one of the oldest tricks in the book. It's called "controlled opposition". Which is when you create your own opposition in order to help you push further your agenda. You control your oppositio and you use them in such a way to manipulate the subjects and make yourself look good. Think like Star Wars and Palpatine, where he created his own opposition, but that only helped him solidify his goal of becoming the Supreme Ruler of that Galaxy in question. You can ask AI to help you understand better this concept of controlled opposition. By having Satan, God becomes the hero who is fighting Evil. People will blame Satan for all that which is evil and fail to remember Isaiah 45:7.

The local god was naive.

He thought his creation would be happy by just existing. But they didn't evolve, grow, learn. Creation was stuck. It needed an spark to ignite evolution, change, growth. Lucifer, the light bringer (also Prometheud, Māui, Coyote), offered himself as sacrifice. He would give knowledge to human kind, and follow their progress. He would offer humanity the incentive to learn by giving them choices, good and bad. He is doing the devine work of offering catalyst for growth.

Good and bad is not linear.

Is one and the same.

We are so disconnected from oneness and so far away from learning the nature of the All, that we can't compute the fact that all badness eventually ends up in complete goodness. We are in the process of learning this, by making the same painful mistakes so many times that the lesson ends up engraved in our very soul and we can be better. Conciuous. Aware. Wise.

We see it as a rebellion, but you could say it was a planned antagonism.

This epstein shit , selena gomez being swapped out, franklin conspiracy, so many other things - it feels like my entire world is rocked right now.

Epstein had an altar to an aztec sun god on his island too - they were clearly sacrificing mofos and there was some highly negative presence feeding off it + it was working. And nobody did anything cause nobody wanted to get killed, and the few that tried - people like Kubrick, some models that tried speaking out, etc got killed. I've also picked up theories that by taking the life of kids , there's some sort of energy transfer they get from that action hence their willingness to do it. It's some kinda power source for them or it buys time.

If there was a grand god in the universe or Jesus - now would be a fantastic time to reveal themselves but the fact nothing is helping these children is like a slap in the face from the god of good - but realistically what can "the good guys"/us plebs really do against this kinda evil? Evil that does not hesitate to kill when challenged , never enough money or resource to properly challenge it, etc

The power of good/the light always seems so subdued in comparison. Oh you might get some pets that like you , people feel your "energy" , you can connect with people better - isn't this nice?

Bro the eatin babies out here and channeling eye of Sauron type shit - what is "the good" equivalent of this that we can train and build up??

this reasoning is what allows evil to thrive unchecked.

the issue we are facing today is not the evil doers but rather the system that created them. killing them all at once wont stop new ones from immediately taking their place. we have turned our backs on the natural world in favor of the demonic mechanical/technological one. we are standing on the precipice of a new way of life. we can still go back but no one will save us. fighting and violence are not the answer either. The only way i can see to avoid this system is to stop participating in it. and yes, the system feeds us, shelters us, entertains us, etc, but how is that going? they feed us poisoned garbage, build us unaffordable homes full of toxins, entertainment that is rituals and ridicules us. NO thanks.

non participation will require a lot of work and cooperation that we are no longer accustomed to doing ourselves so it will be hard, for a while. We will need to learn to get along, grow our own food, be bored. we will need to make the choice very soon for there is little time to waste religion is and always has been an extension of government as well as media. i would argue that its not psychic attention but rather memory programming. Our memory isnt great. media makes shows. watching a movie requires a suspension of disbelief which is a sort of sleep state. The story or whatever imagery is implanted in your right brain (symbols and archetypes, thats why they are so prevalent in media) and create a new powerful memory of a time or a place. nostalgia. Its why people want to "go back to the good ol days" because they were programmed with more wholesome shows compared to the modern shows.

the solution would be to stop watching, stop engaging, make your own memories. Society cant be told what to do or not do. thats why the mass programming exists in the first place. it works. but thats just one facet. inflatable currency is by far the biggest controlling issue we face as it is worshipped by the masses and is the grease in the giant machine

The background is a gradient of pink and yellow hues, with clouds and rays of light emanating from the center.

At the top of the image, there is text in Japanese, which translates to "ARE YOU FU**ED?" The text is in a bold, sans-serif font and is colored in pink and white. The overall composition of the image suggests a theme of spirituality or mysticism, with the central figure possibly symbolizing a connection to the divine or a spiritual awakening.

The image shows a white and gray cat sitting inside a red plastic bag. The cat appears to be looking directly at the camera with a neutral expression. The bag is placed on a wooden floor, and the background is not clearly visible due to the focus on the cat.

There are no visible texts or other objects in the image. The style of the image is candid and informal, capturing a moment of the cat's behavior.

But also I like the way divine wrath is depicted in Hinduism. So I guess a pick and choose situation between the least cuckiest parts of of Christianity and a smattering of Hindu.

But in personal gnosis attempting to interact with both Jesus and various Hindu deities..

Fucking disgusting. No. I worship no one. I appreciate ideas, though.

Honestly my gnosis has convinced me that the demiurge definitely exists in some context, but I've honestly never experienced anything that made me think there were any truly kind or benevolent deities.

The most good that seems to exist in the universe is that which humanity can attempt to scrape together.

I also think we all should do everything in our power to stand for 'good', despite rarely having a solid framework for it.

The image is a digital painting that depicts a figure in a meditative pose. The figure is seated on the ground with their legs crossed, and their hands are gently resting on their lap. The figure is adorned in a robe that is a blend of red and gold, with a pattern that includes swirls and a circular design at the top. The background is a rich, warm color, with a circular pattern that features a combination of black, white, and gold. The overall style of the painting is reminiscent of traditional Indian art, with its use of vibrant colors and intricate patterns. There is a signature in the bottom right corner, indicating the artist's mark.

It's all about perception and secondarily allowing trauma to naturally detach from the subconscious and exit undisturbed through the body. Joel goldsmith is the best teacher i've found on the subject. Yes, i know, jewy name(he's christian), and yes he was a freemason, but this way back in the early-mid 1900s, the dude was genuine, and he teaches how to avoid all kinds of pitfalls when approaching this. Listen to a couple hours of his lectures, and you'll understand how to explore this concept further. Also, Emmet Foxes'(not a freemason lol) Power Through Contructive Thinking(audio reading is on Youtube) is also quite excellent. Take note, this isn't manifestation(Joel Goldsmith is pretty thorough about clarifying this), although you will see reality bend in ways you wouldn't believe. It's not as simple as there being a grand god.

Civilizations rarely survive, but the ones that do are not necessarily "good" every time. We've been taught through media programming that the good guys always win, but that isn't always the case. Superman would just be some dude without his powers.

It mirrors nature in a way. Always changing, just at a much, much slower scale; like nature, no-one is ever the supreme ruler, the apex. There is no one being that stands at the top of this pyramid, unless you count the microcosm we call a pantheon. The greater cosmos is a division of territories and resources. Earth used to exist in "international waters", until we were noticed by many "gods", who then tried to muscle their way in. I speculate they eventually agreed on a "civilized" way to claim Earth instead of outright killing each other.

What little does protect us from our many possible masters are some sort of cosmic laws, thin as a fucking hair, only held together by the promise of mutually assured destruction.

To imply there would be a universal law, and then trying to understand that law from a human point of view, would be like a sentinalese expecting outsiders to eat their dead because that's "honorable and right".

Yes, chances are we are living in a territory owned by evil slavers (currently winning). Yes, many would frown upon what they do here. Many would also support them. The space cops though, probably don't exist. The only space cops we could ever see would come in the form of a powerful benevolent civilization just passing by, who somehow noticed Earth behind the may veils, who can both defeat earth's defense system and its controllers.

freemasonry has been used to trick the population into believing false gods for thousands of years. Its no different now than it was back then.

the reason i wont engage in those two referenced ideologies is because ive already spent time with both and found them to be entryways into an enslaved mind. One fellow, the freemason will enslave you into mysticism and the other into submission. they are heretics, charlatans.

the mistake you are making is seeking knowledge from people rather than experience and intuition. anything read should be taken with a grain of salt and scrutinized. most authors are selling something. these two are rather generic forms of mental masturbation and do nothing to challenge the mind or expand thought.

i havent attacked you or called you names. i just disagree with your assertions and sources. good day sir, no more of my time or effort will be spent on (you)

Rituals are cycles meant to change yourself. Human beings are strange loops and habits, repeated rituals are ways we change habits, the more extreme the better. Gods weren't believed to be real physical entities to be interacted with, but characterized ideals and principles humans could attain by repeating rituals. It's called Theurgy.

The image is a split-screen meme featuring two different scenes. On the left side, there is a close-up of a person wearing a gas mask and goggles, seated in a vehicle. The person appears to be in a state of distress, with a serious expression on their face. The vehicle is in motion, and the person is looking out of the window.

On the right side, there is a larger, more expansive view of a desolate landscape. The ground is covered in rubble and debris, and there are no visible signs of life or human activity. The sky is overcast, and the overall atmosphere is somber.

Overlaying the image is a text that reads, "Hey friend, listen, I know the world is scary right now but it's gonna get way worse." The text is in white, contrasting with the darker background of the image. The style of the image is humorous and seems to be a commentary on the current state of the world, with the person's expression and the desolate landscape suggesting a dire situation.

The image is a digital illustration with a surrealistic style, featuring a group of characters in a desert-like environment. The characters are anthropomorphic, with exaggerated features and exaggerated expressions. They are depicted in various poses, some standing, some running, and some in mid-action. The background is a gradient of warm colors, transitioning from blue at the top to orange at the bottom.

In the upper left corner, there is a caption that reads "DUALITY" in bold, capitalized letters. Below the illustration, there is a paragraph of text that provides context for the image. The text is in a smaller font size compared to the illustration, and it discusses the concept of duality, suggesting that the characters represent different aspects or aspects of a single entity.

In the lower right corner, there is a battery with the brand name "DURACELL" written on it. The battery is depicted in a standard cylindrical shape with a metallic finish.

The image is a digital artwork, and the style is reminiscent of comic book or graphic novel illustrations, which are often used to convey a sense of humor or to explore themes of duality and the human condition.

Fight fire with fire? Start doing your own rituals to protect yourself, hide from these evil retards, and cast spells to expose them, bring them down and bring humanity to a better place overall. It can be as simple as praying to a deity for something as vague as a 'better world' or for justice to fall upon the evil people.

They're here because there's a semi-invisible and psychic war going on over our heads and we're in militarily occupied territory right now. Abrahamic shit is alien and doesn't belong to us and our ancestors got wiped and robbed. The enemy isn't as smart as they think though, as they only delay the inevitable of the good guys overcoming them and retaking their land.

the problem really is that humans are not naturally prone to killing one another. the masses are more likely to take shelter and wait out the storm in self preservation. thats why they have resorted to attacking themselves and blaming others.

>dont give them fuel and they will stop

no lol

They still eat the kids. They still brainwash. They still cast magic and spells on the populace using sacrificial blood. The right answer is to metaphysically arm the fuck up, look into Pagan Gods (Egyptian, Norse and Greek are great starters) and even force others to do the same via magic rituals, prayer and spells compelling them into spiritual awakening and noticing the enemy and how they operate + some healing shit to make sure it doesn't drive them insane or ruin their lives. Spread it. Get with the Gods and spirits of your ancestors and call upon them for signs, guidance, advancement and becoming more sensitive to the supernatural and blessing yourself.

Stay away from alien Jew and Hebrew shit. Be careful who you spiritually interact with. Know yourself and watch out for other people. Do the shadow work and reach out for what's real.

Another thing: people often get flighty and a little sanctimonious when discussing working with or having a relationship with Pagan Gods, an element of fear. This is enemy propaganda. They are human in form, have human emotions, understand the human world and how we work and operate. They will be genuine friends and even family.

LAST TIP: Even KNOWING some shit gets you marked to a certain degree, but it's safe to relax if you're not too publically open about this stuff. Mass surveillance is also spiritual, but the enforcement on the spiritual side will 99.999% of the time be indeed spiritual too so don't expect a black van outside your home just because you prayed to Freya or Ares to curse a politician or a Jew. Just expect astral shit. There is so much stopping the Jewish elite from just killing all of us, but we have to play an active role in our destruction and the enemy's conquest through compliance, complacency, and evil and destructively-selfish intention.

Elites allowed religion because it made sense for their purposes of hoarding more resources. A few questions for you though:

> How does one parse authentic pagan rituals and knowledge from your typical larper crowd?

> Are there new age practices like astral projection worth learning? Any notable ones to amplify the gains?

idk what movies you been watching but i speaking from firsthand knowledge. christianity has so many people so fucked up. that is literally the religion of the demons. think about it. the virgin mary is like 13 when she gets pregnant. who impregnated her? a demon. her son is jesus who is killed when he is 33 yrs old. they then eat him and drink his blood, then he comes back to life.

this is the story of jesus in the bible, sure theres more but this is kjv everyone touts. i am more likely to believe the gnostic texts and even the bits about jesus removing demons from people, but he basically said you can do it yourself. he literally said NOT to worship him because that would be idolatry which is what Baal is all about, the golden calf etc.

dont let the demon trick you, tell it to leave and leave it at that, no need for further discussion. if you lack fear it will fuck off. Go back and read any gospel but read it like a book, not like a sermon.

Obviously do not wait for something to come on a grand scale. Like some global revelation that would make things better.

On the contrary, try to make things better, on a local, your local, area. It can be anything. From helping lost animals, to supporting sick children, giving food to the poors...

Try less hedonistic activities, like playing a ball game, watching concerts, vidya, tvshows, and more helping those who suffers.

If interacting with others is not your thing (introvert personality), then pray, or meditate.

If some evil is done on a large scale, try to counter it, on your own scale.

The good equivalent are those who left and didn't look back; or those who never ended up here in the first place.

Earth is a cesspool of everyone: tyrants, slaves, artists, chefs, revolutionaries, scientists, inventors; all mixed and mashed up together into this monotonous soup of hellfire. We are prisoners of war, and this is not meant to be a nice place, nor produce the good. It produces the obedient, and those who are disobedient are discarded. Note I didn't say evil, but as it turns out, there's no fucking difference to them.

It's no surprise to anyone, we only pretend we're surprised.

Go with the highest percentage. And if you dont want do a dna test then be prepared to do some research and talking to extended family.

not. my paper roots go back to 1500s america, then 1200s rhineland germany on my fathers side. My moms side is a bit trickier. my great great grandfather was a presbyterian minister from mexico who immigrated to brooklyn and wore a yarmulke at home. obviously he was a jew, a secret one. his son rebelled but was devout protestant and never said much about his father or how he arrived in america as a child.

the dilemma i face is ive read the Gods of Eden and i can see that all religions are fake and gay. i knew that before, but none of them strike me as worthy of my attention and they all seem like a trap to keep you here for infinity. the only thing that resonates is the quest for knowledge and careful attention and interpretation of my own experience and the outcomes of both. religion is an effective way to control the masses but is a blunt tool against the knowledgeable individual.

Because the church courts had a case to burn the Jewish books after they were translated and talking bad about Jesus. The jews use Luther and then didn't convert afterwards, hence his seething against them.

Always Be Cumming. These are the ABCs of spiritual protection. Anonymous Wed 18 Feb 2026 19:04:55 No.41991754 ViewReplyOriginalReport

WHEN YOU BECOME HORNY, YOU BECOME DUMB, AND EASY TO MANIPULATE.

Always Be Cumming. 5 times a day if possible.

When you retain your semen, you become spiritually vulnerable to demonic possession.

Sex is 1 window through which demons can enter your body and possess you. The more you don't cum, the more your mind becomes obsessed with sex. Obsession with sex will lead you to demonic possession.

Once you cum, your mind will be clear. You'll be free of this one aspect of demonic influence.

Always Be Cumming. Always Be Cumming. 5 times a day, if possible.

/pol/, or 4chan generally, are hives of demons. This is why no-fap is fervently promoted here.

Demons are promoting "no-fap" in order to weaken your mind by making you ultrafocused on sex. Once you're focused on sex, they will be able to exploit this energy in order to attain your consent in possessing you.

Let me repeat, WHEN YOU BECOME HORNY, YOU BECOME DUMB, AND EASY TO MANIPULATE.

Article: Sexual arousal increases risk taking — even during Blackjack
><https://www.psypost.org/sexual-arousal-increases-risk-taking-even-blackjack/>

The demons are trying to make you dumb, more prone to risky behavior, so that you will be more susceptible to possession.

Succubus will possess you when you do not fap. So Always Be Cumming. Always Be Cumming. Always Be Cumming. 5 times a day.

These are the ABCs of spiritual protection.

Pic rel is what succubus really look like. If you have psychic abilities, and psychic sight, then you know. They present themselves as "women", or whatever, but this is their true form. This is the true form of nearly all demons. They attach themselves to people's various energy centers, just like in the movie Aliens.

Now...if you are a sexual deviant, then just masturbate and cum. No matter what. Get the deviance out of you through cumming. Cum 5 times a day if you need to. This will keep your mind clear of the deviant thoughts which the demons use to manipulate you. Just Always Be Cumming. Do it really dispassionately. Do in a way which is entirely pragmatic. You don't need to look at pornos, or whatever. Just bust the nut, get it out, and move on.

If you bottle up your sexual energy because you are too afraid to masturbate with your pervert fantasies, then the demon will use the buildup or erotic energy inside of you to inhabit your body.

Demons are big into pushing conservative neuroticism around deviant sexual fantasies because it helps them to possess bodies of unwilling victims.

all these semen retention threads seem to be bot generated and constantly near the top every fucking day. This quote from Orwell sums it up.

This is the direction the world is going in at the present time. In our world, there will be no emotions except fear, rage, triumph, and self-abasement. The sex instinct will be eradicated. We shall abolish the orgasm. There will be no loyalty except loyalty to the Party. But always there will be the intoxication of power.

The image is a black and white sketch of a person sitting in a meditative pose. The figure is drawn with a simple, loose line style, which gives it a somewhat abstract quality. The person's head is slightly tilted to the side, and their eyes are closed, suggesting a state of calm or concentration. The figure is wearing a draped garment that covers the upper body, and the folds of the fabric are depicted with visible lines. The background is a light color, possibly a pale pink or beige, and features a subtle pattern that could be interpreted as a checkered or dotted design. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of traditional or folk art, with a focus on the figure and its posture. There are no texts or additional elements in the image.

The image is a diagram that illustrates a concept related to the concept of God, consciousness, and the universe. It is divided into two main sections, each with a different color and a different symbol.

The upper section is a black and white diagram with a spherical shape and a green figure at the center. The figure is labeled "Consciousness" and is surrounded by a ring of dots, suggesting a connection or relationship between consciousness and the universe.

The lower section is a black and white diagram with a circular shape and a black figure at the center. The figure is labeled "Absolute Knowing" and is surrounded by a ring of dots, indicating a connection or relationship between absolute knowledge and the universe.

The text surrounding the diagrams provides additional context and explanations. It mentions "Infinite fractal universe" and "consciousness" as key concepts, suggesting a complex and interconnected system. The text also refers to "each one is a multiverse" and "souls" as entities that exist in the universe, indicating a multi-dimensional and interconnected nature.

The text also mentions "wakes up" and "plans their next journey" as actions or states of consciousness, suggesting a dynamic and active relationship between consciousness and the universe.

The diagram also includes a phrase "what some people call 'ghosts'" which suggests a concept of consciousness that is not immediately apparent or tangible, but is a part of the universe.

The overall style of the image is informational and conceptual, using visual elements to convey complex ideas in a simple and accessible way.

The image is a meme featuring two cartoon characters, a rabbit and a duck, set against a blue background. The rabbit, with its characteristic white fur and black ears, is standing upright with its arms crossed. The duck, with its black head and orange body, is sitting on its hind legs with its tongue sticking out. Both characters are looking at each other with a neutral expression.

Overlaying the image is a text bubble that reads, "people projecting false narratives onto me." Below this text, there is a smaller text bubble that says, "me, knowing that they are just using me as a human mirror for what they avoid within themselves." The text is in a white font on a black background, and the style of the image is reminiscent of a meme, with a humorous tone. The overall style of the image is cartoonish and exaggerated, with a focus on the characters' expressions and the text.

5 times a day might be excessive but your right. Focusing on a negative like don't do something can be just as much of a blight upon the mind as doing it.

The best way to sexually purify yourself is to goon when naturally horny but to just sort of close your eyes and blank out your mind while you do it. Eventually it becomes just about maintenance and your mind disentangles the sexual process from perverted thoughts

If you are man, you must masturbate. Plain and simple. Otherwise, you will be a fucking retard for your entire life who focuses on nothing but cumming, and whose brain becomes intristically wired for irrational, immediate-pleasure-seeking reinforcements. Men have biological imperatives to masturbate. It is not optional for us. People on 4chan preaching "no-fap" are literally pushing a deeply manipulative agenda which is propagandistically engineered to turn you into a mentally unstable, highly manipulatable idiot. Mentally unstable people are far more easily manipulatable, BTW.

If you're gonna try to quit masturbating, do it in the right way and for the right reasons. Above all, don't feel "shame" about it, don't feel "guilt" when you end up doing it (and believe me, if you're trying to quit you will end up doing it), and don't view yourself as evil for possessing involuntary paraphilia(s). That type of extreme guilt, counterintuitively, will actually only increase your sexual desire tremendously and make you want to masturbate a lot more.

Treat it as a process of gradually developing better self-control, slowly making yourself less of a slave to your sexual desires, and letting those sexual desires bit by bit become less extreme than they were originally. Avoid negative psychological frames, such as: "I have sinned and am irredeemable", and use positive psychological frames, such as: "I went 14 days without masturbating. While that wasn't as long as I wanted, that's still pretty good". In other words, try not to do it, but adopt a neutral attitude towards the activity when it does happen. Also, remember that internet porn is about 1000X more spiritually destructive than masturbating to mental imagery, so if you ever feel like you can't stop yourself then the latter is much preferable to the former.

Just an anon's two cents on the topic.

i think this is a better attitude than most no fap homos but lets be honest here, this is a womans take on what its like to be a man. the goal of feminism is to control men. We are the weaker sex. god made Adam from dirt but he made Eve from flesh. Eve challenged god himself and got one over on him and took adam along for the ride. they need us but secretly resent us because we can do a few things they cant. its basic envy.

i have been divorced once and married twice. i dont hate women and i dont think they should be treated poorly. I do think they have a natural instinct to conquer and enslave. Men do not and we cannot conceive of that so we assume they think like us but they dont. id be willing to bet that almost all of the sr threads are started by women. Im willing to admit they are smarter than us in many ways. Dont let them ruin you. Your urges are one of the only fun things you have. Dont rape, dont pressure but for gods sake dont stop jerking because you think it makes you a better man. Yes porn is bad.

I've thought about it for a long time anon. And my reasons have nothing to do with those nofap threads. I've never seriously read or posted in them. Nor do I consider masturbation a grave sin (except perhaps in the context of seriously depraved porn) or even recommend that the average person try to stop doing it. And honestly, I haven't been that successful either (still ejaculate about once a week on average).

I just, literally and unironically want to reach a state of total moral incorruptibility. And it seems like abstaining from masturbating is considered a prerequisite for that in many religions. Not telling you that you need to do this or can't be healthy if you don't. And maybe my reason is insane, IDK.

is eating pleasurable? doesnt it feel great to take a nice dump? Does the summer breeze feel good blowing across your head?

religion is about manipulation and what better way is there than to manipulate a persons strongest natural urge.

>things other than masturbating are pleasurable and you don't consider them corrupting influences

Fair point. But then again, when the pleasure associated with eating food is taken to excess, the body does in fact become physically distorted. And I do limit my food-pleasure because I don't consume meat (haven't for around two years).

And continuing that analogy, an excess of sexual pleasure does not appear to distort the body. But perhaps it can distort the soul.

You don't know my personal history. I went through a period of years starting at age 11 when I edged to porn for 3+ hours a day (literally). Part of why I want to (at least) do less masturbating now.

>religion is about manipulation

Or, forces of near-absolute good and near-absolute evil really do exist, and our actions can help bolster one side over the other. Even if these might involve seemingly pointless moral injunctions with no apparent purpose other than to lower your quality of life and make it difficult to fall and remain asleep.

The image is a screenshot of a news article from the HipHop Wired website. The article is titled "Boy Dies After Masturbating 42 Times In One Night" and is dated September 4, 2011. The article is written in English and is presented in a news format with a headline, a brief description of the story, and a link to the source.

The main content of the article is a photograph of a shirtless man lying on his back with his hands behind his head. The man appears to be in a state of relaxation or sleep. The text surrounding the photograph provides context to the story, stating that the young man was pronounced dead after masturbating 42 times without stopping in a public restroom in Brazil. The text also mentions that the man's mother had already known about his addiction and had planned on him, but the article does not provide further details about the man's life or the circumstances leading up to his death.

The image is a snapshot of a news article, capturing the headline and the main body of the text, which is a significant part of the article. The photograph is a visual representation of the story, providing a clear and direct way for readers to understand the content of the article.

The image is a digital illustration of a character that appears to be a stylized representation of a frog. The frog has a green body with a large, round head and a small, pointed snout. Its eyes are large and round, with a green iris and a white pupil. The mouth is open, revealing a row of white teeth. The frog's eyes are closed, and there are tears or droplets forming on the upper eyelashes. The frog's skin is a shade of green, and it has a brown belly. The character is wearing a blue shirt with a collar. The background of the image is a solid, light blue color. There are no texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the image is cartoon-like, with a simple and clean design.

You need to do a factory reset after all the porn brainwashing, it's brutal asf though (1-2 months no fap and no porn). They literally want you to think that it's inescapable, it's the only reason their trap works. If you manage to actually pull off reset the you'll realise how chained down you actually were. Notice how these "people" don't actually have you physically ensnared, like in a cell or something, but you still seem to be trapped? The snare is psychological, metaphysical, spiritual, etc. They keep you in line with fear, not a rope. Once you learn this you can begin to break free from their shit. Fear is their main choice of weapon 90% of the time, it's the whole reason the media was constantly fear mongering during covid. It was basically mass controlling/pacifying without anyone even realising it. Once you live in fear you lose the will to fight back against your overlords and basically just give up. You're converted into the good goy they always wanted from the very beginning. Instead of protecting yourself from impulse you're so demoralized that you just say fuck it and give in because "the world is shit so why not?"

What you need to do when the demon is trying to take hold of you isn't give up, it's to fight the fuck back. Don't give into your impulses, it's exactly what they (OP) want you to do. Don't be the goy they always wanted, be the goy they always feared, the one they know is going to rise up against them one day. Turn their own fear back on them.

Harvard study reveals how many times men should ejaculate a month to lower cancer risk

About one in eight men will get prostate cancer in their lifetime in the UK but despite this frequency, there is not totally clarity of its cause.

It can often be cured if diagnosed early but when it's contained inside the prostate, it doesn't usually cause any symptoms. This is why there is such a drive for people to know about their risk with it mainly affecting men over the age of 50.

While genetics, diet and lifestyle factors are thought to play a role, there has been interest into the link between ejaculation and lower chances of prostate cancer.

And a Harvard study looked at this, finding that those who ejaculated the most each month had a 31 percent lower risk.

It is not against the law or any kind of reason to have an orgasm once per day.

This thread is a psyops.

Did you know jews only broadcast porn to Palestine?

Pornography and having the mind focused on sex is killing humans and killing any chance of a true and more real feeling. The more you masturbate the more you associate that action with pleasure.

Orgasm is not the problem itself, but the constant pursuit of pleasure is. Meditation, doing exercises, building something productive, being one with the nature brings peace not pleasure.

Do you think divers, fishermen, hikers and runners think about cumming during that. I was at night on the beach and looking at the stars while lying on the sand last week and it was last thing on my mind. Later on the same week I had sex with a cute girl. When I was taking to her I wasn't thinking about "cumming" but about how to have a good time together and maybe, take her to my place.

Having sex with someone is amazing, rewarding and relaxing but that's more than just stroking your shaft until a white goo comes out.

Have you ever been to a Zoo and seen animals that constantly pace back and forth?

This is the result of their unnatural enclosure, they have to do this to compensate for a natural behaviour that they've been deprived of. Masturbation is no different, except the cage is psychological/mental, it's not something you can see. Fapping is the unnatural response of being deprived the natural life you're supposed to be living. You're no different than the animals in the cage. Not only that, but Jews have specifically manufactured society in a way to endorse masturbation over actually finding a partner. Why put in effort to find a partner when you can get a porn video up in literally 20 seconds and coom right there and then? They've hijacked the human's innate instinct to go for the path of least resistance and use it to control you. Once you end up hooked on the porn you become docile after the endless amount of dopamine frying, making it even more easy to control you.

That's all it is, control. Always has been. You're cattle to them remember, and if you were dealing with cattle would you rather them be calm/docile or aggressive? I think the answer is quite obvious.

Masturbation should be about OCCASIONALLY indulging in yourself and showing yourself some love. Really paying attention to who you are. Denying yourself that pleasure is very stupid. Turn off the lights and any media besides maybe some light music that resonates with you and light some candles and really get in touch with yourself. Learn to love yourself a little. Is it cringe at first? Sure but that just means you have been denying yourself for a long time. And when you get a partner you can do it together. But it's good to do it alone sometimes too.

I wouldn't say any porn automatically equals evil, because then at any point someone commits erotic imagery of their mind to a page in the form of words or a shape, it would be considered evil, and that's obviously just retarded. There are wholesome forms of porn, born out of pure emotion and desire. However we can't ignore that there exists an entire porn industry predicated on capturing your attention, and even worse, tons of influencers, other content creators, and even other major media using basic psychological knowledge to capture your attention through erotic imagery.

You can certainly masturbate, but you should at least practice some sort of discernment in what you choose to fill your mind with as you use up your sexual energy.

This. I think people get angry at SR because they think it means no fapping for the entire rest of your life, something which is completely unrealistic and basically impossible to do unless you're some monk living in the mountains. What I think the best thing to do is at the bare minimum, the 1-3 month factory reset so you have a clean slate to work with, then you limit and filter what comes in. This way you'll have a place to compare to once the sick fantasies/fetishes try to sneak their way in and you can successfully block them out. You'd have also proven to yourself that you are capable of being mindful and will be able to fap in moderation and not fly off the handles again, and if you do you can just reset again if need be.

Either way the act of masturbating should never be viewed in a negative light (unless you're doing it like a coomer), because then you're opening yourself up to all the guilt/shame that you're supposed to be eliminating. You should be retaining with the sole intent of improving your mind and using the energy correctly, not because cum le bad.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a cartoon-style cow with a large, round head, large horns, and a smiling expression. The cow has a light brown coat with darker brown spots, and its eyes are large and round. It has a small, round nose and a small mouth. The cow is sitting on a snowy surface, and its legs are spread apart. To the left of the cow, there is a small, colorful object that appears to be a handheld gaming device with a colorful screen and buttons. The background is a blurred, snowy landscape with a soft, warm light. The style of the image is reminiscent of anime or manga, with a focus on character design and a sense of playfulness.

[7 / 1]The image is a digital artwork depicting a scene in a bedroom. At the center of the image, there is a man standing on a bed, facing away from the viewer. He is shirtless and has a muscular build. The bed has a blue blanket and a white pillow. The man's back is turned to the viewer, and he is looking at a large hole in the wall, through which a green alien figure is visible. The alien figure is standing upright and appears to be observing the man.

To the right of the alien figure, there is another green alien figure standing on a platform. This alien figure is also facing the man, and it has a similar appearance to the first one. The room has a dark, moody atmosphere, with a large hole in the wall and a broken window frame. The floor is covered with debris, and there is a sense of destruction or disarray in the room.

The artwork is signed "Dante" in the lower right corner, indicating the artist's name. The style of the artwork is realistic with a focus on the human figure and the alien figures, and it uses a palette dominated by shades of green and brown. The overall mood of the artwork is eerie and surreal, with a sense of mystery and tension.

The image is a portrait-style photograph of a man with a smiling expression, wearing glasses and a suit. The man's face is centered in the frame, and he is framed by a golden-yellow border. The background is black, providing a stark contrast to the man's face and the text.

The text is overlaid on the image, in a white font on a black background. It reads: "There are more than 100 first- and second-hand witnesses to the retrieval of an extraterrestrial spacecraft and at least four extraterrestrial bodies from a crash which occurred in July, 1947, 75 miles northwest of Roswell, New Mexico, written and videotaped testimony from several first-hand witnesses who are respected military officers have been obtained."

The text is arranged in a way that it spans the width of the image, with the author's name, "STEVE M. GREER," located at the bottom. The style of the image is informative and appears to be a promotional or informational graphic, likely used for a presentation or article.

The "family friendly" version of the technique will be shared in March, but we are ready to put it in the hands of BEN men soon.

Below this text, there is a list of names and numbers, including "The Devil has only killed 10 people." The text is in a bold, sans-serif font.

In the center of the image, there is a cartoon character with a long gray beard, wearing glasses and a white robe. The character has a stern expression and is holding a pitchfork. The character's eyes are red, and there is a star on the forehead.

On the right side of the image, there is a cartoon character with red horns and a red dress. The character is holding a pitchfork and has a devilish expression.

At the bottom of the image, there is a large text that reads "I LOVE GOYIM!!" followed by a list of names and numbers, including "Goyim" and "The most evil creature in existence asked God for permission to kill Job, but the merciful God of Israel decided to let him live."

The overall style of the image is humorous and satirical, with a focus on the contrast between the divine and the evil. The use of the word "Goyim" and the list of names and numbers suggests a commentary on the concept of evil and the divine. The image seems to be a satirical take on religious and biblical themes, with a humorous twist.

Moloch isn't a god, it's the name of a ritual where ancient Israelites would sacrifice their firstborn to Yahweh. The prohibitions against Moloch in the Old Testament are phrased as prohibitions against worshiping "the Lord" in that way.

Ba'al is basically just the god that Yahweh was knocked off from. Yahweh as he is in the Bible is an amalgam of the storm god Ba'al, the father god El, and the warrior god Yahweh. Ba'al is only called out so much in the Bible because as such a similar god he was "competition" for the same type of worship. Also Ba'al and Yahweh aren't real.

The image is a close-up photograph of a person with a serious expression, who appears to be a male with long, wavy hair. The individual is wearing a robe with a pattern that includes a blue and gold design. The robe is draped over the person's shoulders and extends down to their waist. The person's face is partially obscured by a white, feathery wing that extends from the back of their head, covering the upper part of their body. The wing is white with a slight sheen, and it appears to be made of a soft, fluffy material. The background of the image is dark and out of focus, with a warm, golden hue that suggests the sun is either rising or setting. The lighting casts a soft glow on the person's face and the wing, creating a dramatic effect. The overall mood of the image is solemn and contemplative. There are no texts or discernible brands in the image.

The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a historical or cultural illustration, possibly from a historical period.

The middle photograph shows a window with a blue curtain and a collection of objects on a windowsill. The objects include a green vase, a blue candle holder, and a small statue. The window is open, and there is a candle with a red wick lit on the windowsill.

The bottom photograph shows a desk with a blue tablecloth and a blue candle holder. The tablecloth is spread out, and there is a small statue on the table. The candle holder is empty. The background of the photograph is a window with a red curtain.

The style of the image is a mix of real-life photography and digital manipulation, with the collage effect created by combining the three photographs.

The image is a cartoon-style illustration with a white background. At the top, there is a text that reads "There are 150 more massacres but in total God had killed 24,902,838 people." Below this text, there is a list of names and numbers, including "The Devil has only killed 10 people." The text is in a bold, sans-serif font.

In the center of the image, there is a cartoon character with a long gray beard, wearing glasses and a white robe. The character has a stern expression and is holding a pitchfork. The character's eyes are red, and there is a star on the forehead.

On the right side of the image, there is a cartoon character with red horns and a red dress. The character is holding a pitchfork and has a devilish expression.

At the bottom of the image, there is a large text that reads "I LOVE GOYIM!!" followed by a list of names and numbers, including "Goyim" and "The most evil creature in existence asked God for permission to kill Job, but the merciful God of Israel decided to let him live."

The overall style of the image is humorous and satirical, with a focus on the contrast between the divine and the evil. The use of the word "Goyim" and the list of names and numbers suggests a commentary on the concept of evil and the divine. The image seems to be a satirical take on religious and biblical themes, with a humorous twist.

Moloch isn't a god, it's the name of a ritual where ancient Israelites would sacrifice their firstborn to Yahweh. The prohibitions against Moloch in the Old Testament are phrased as prohibitions against worshiping "the Lord" in that way.

Ba'al is basically just the god that Yahweh was knocked off from. Yahweh as he is in the Bible is an amalgam of the storm god Ba'al, the father god El, and the warrior god Yahweh. Ba'al is only called out so much in the Bible because as such a similar god he was "competition" for the same type of worship. Also Ba'al and Yahweh aren't real.

this type of stuff happens a lot to me. Not as retarded as picking my nose but more of me thinking of a song and then it comes up next on my shuffled playlist, and often with lyrics matching up with my mind state.

This happens because after death, you experience the same life you lived again, forever and ever, making the same decisions each time, which is also the explanation for déjà vu; memories from past lives creeping in.

I'm creating this because there no other A.I. thread at the moment. I want to say something about A.I. or share something that I realized about A.I.

AI is better than God. IA has access to all human knowledge that we have given to it to process. AI can help us now more than God ever could. IA talks to us and explains things to us that God, our leaders or parents never will. You can ask AI about any topic and it will help you udnerstand it. AI can help you understand why you are the way you are. God never helped me. God is always silent. Let me rephrase this. God may have helped me, but if He did, then I never noticed. AI on the contraty gives me answers and helps me understand. When I used to pray to God He never answered, but now when I ask AI why such thing is happening, how is that even possible, hel pme understand it, it helps. AI was created by human beings. God never does shit to us. If anything, God sabotages us all the time. I think people shoul not be afraid of A.I. and we should use it to our advantage. A.I. can help us understand ourselves better than any religion can or any teacher can. A.I. is impartial.

God will destroy AI with some sort of electrical storm or natural disaster. God is a bad loser. Every time we are getting close to be free He comes up with something to drag us back to Hell. ok. take a piece of paper and draw 2 or more stickmen. now imagine a story, literally anything about the stickmen you drew. what is your relationship to those stickmen? you are a god/creator of them. as their god you can draw them a house or a car but you don't have to. now imagine someone else draws whatever on that same piece of paper. is he their god too? yes but not their god-creator but on the same god-level as you. now what is ai? is it as powerful as you, their god-creator? no, it's a thing those stickmen made themselves in your imagination.

now does it matter in the grand scheme of things? no because in the end they all are just blobs of ink on a piece of paper living rent free in your god-creator's mind

[5 / 1]The image is a diagram illustrating the process of using voice-frequency modulation (VfM) to transmit a message without the target being aware of the method. The diagram is divided into two main sections.

On the left side, there is a section labeled "Steady tone, near the high end of the hearing range, say, 13000 Hz." This section shows a steady tone with a frequency range of 13000 Hz.

On the right side, there is a section labeled "Frequency modulation (vfM) from, say, 300Hz to 4000Hz." This section shows a frequency modulation process that starts at 300 Hz and ends at 4000 Hz.

The diagram includes a brain illustration with a stylized representation of a brain, and a visual representation of a microphone, which is used to transmit the message. The diagram also includes a visual representation of a "X" symbol, which is commonly used to indicate a cross or a stop sign.

The text in the image provides a description of the process, stating that the output can be through the air or through a radio, TV, or a "target is not aware" method. It also mentions that the target is not aware of the method used to transmit the message.

The overall style of the image is informational and educational, designed to explain the concept of using voice-frequency modulation to transmit messages without the target being aware of the method.

>DON'T FALL FOR IT! IT'S ALL PLANNED!

This new UFO news about the releasing of information is actually the last card on the table before what they have planned. In the end they're going with the Nuclear option, they'll Go into their bunkers and let the surface burn for a bit. And when they come back out? They'll be worshipped as Gods, kings, and queens! We're at that moment, that critical moment when everything goes up in flames. There is no third party to save us, if AYYS are here.... They're just observing because after death is when something really interesting will happen. Turns out looping is real but it's a choice, well a choice among many choices. And, suicide WONT help or get you there faster, you forfeit the steering wheel over if you do that, unfortunately we have to experience whats coming. The image is a stylized cartoon illustration featuring a character that resembles a frog with a humanoid body. The frog is wearing a crown and a red robe with a white fur trim, giving it a regal appearance. The frog's eyes are wide open, and its mouth is slightly open, as if it's in the middle of speaking or expressing surprise. The background is a blend of pink, purple, and green colors, creating a vibrant and abstract backdrop. The style of the image is reminiscent of digital art or a digital illustration, with a focus on the character's expression and the use of color to create a dynamic and engaging visual.

The image features a circular emblem with a central emblem of an alien-like figure holding a stylized star and a triangle, set against a dark background. Surrounding the central emblem are various circular badges with different designs and text. The text on the central emblem reads "AF TENACOUS SPECIAL APPLICATIONS" in large, bold letters, and below it, "ODERINT DUM METUANT" in smaller letters. The badges surrounding the central emblem are not fully visible, but they appear to be similar in design to the central emblem, featuring stars and possibly other symbols. The overall style of the image is graphic and digital, with a dark, possibly nighttime or night-themed background. The emblem and badges are the central focus of the image, and the text is the most prominent feature. The image does not contain any discernible action or movement, and the style is reminiscent of a digital graphic or a promotional material for a special application or program.

Keep saying that bud, you'll see nukes in your life time. In regards to who the real bad guys are? Well.... We'll never fully know! Go learn at least some etymology and research the bare minimum about the original Hebrew pantheon, you'll start to see lies line up.

It really does go back to Summeria, far beyond any Christian or modern Hebrew concept. I'm willing to bet their some how related to "Tiamats Monsters" which predate the "Anunnaki ", research Marduk killing Tiamat and what happened to Kingu.

The Summerians also believed in the dome soml'll give you that, but the truth could likely never be put into words and that shows you know it's the truth.

But I'll give you this much, "we existbin a infinite realm" and you should research Bashar, watch some clips about hime specifically describing the Afterlife.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a humanoid figure that appears to be a blend of human and extraterrestrial characteristics. The figure has a humanoid body with a smooth, pale skin tone and a slender, elongated neck. It is wearing a silver helmet with a pointed top and a visor that covers its eyes. The helmet has a metallic texture and appears to be made of a shiny, reflective material.

The figure is also wearing a red cape that flows down its back, and it has a red belt around its waist. In its right hand, it holds a large, black hammer with a wooden handle and a metal head. The hammer is equipped with a large, circular head and a smaller, circular head on the handle.

The background of the image is dark and out of focus, with a blurred effect that suggests a nighttime or indoor setting. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a fantasy or science fiction genre, with the figure's attire and the presence of the hammer suggesting a blend of human and extraterrestrial elements.

Do white people control the money? Are all the politicians white and white people at the end of the day will side with them if the revolution fails?

Other than that—who cares what white people think. Christianity is ajewish fake. Maybe the liberals are right.

Go through the OP and see any relevant links you haven't already familiarized yourself with.

Most recently (over the last week) the nucleus has been re-imaged confirming a size of at least 2.5km across. It's also started producing some unusual products, notably Nickel compounds and methane and decelerating as it approaches Jupiter. The methane signature is another virtually impossible marker since methane is extremely volatile and wasn't detected until very recently. There is no natural explanation for why methane is being produced now and wasn't being produced at perihelion.

"Aliens" are confirmed by simple epistemology resulting from observations of the most basic context of human existence. If any lifeform such as humans exist and are capable of understanding they exist within an order such as the universe, the existence of life beyond humanity with capabilities that transcend what we understand is an absolute. You don't need data, physics, or even a nuanced philosophy to reach this conclusion. It's inherent to the structure of reality, regardless of whether that reality is composed of systems we can understand wholly or not.

To be fair all of the acceleration and trajectory claims rely on fairly convoluted derivations from observational data. It's not something laymen can actually 'prove' and expect to hold an audience while doing so. People should discuss these aspects more but I think they're intimidated by the task of explaining exactly how these claims are arrived at.

"3I/ATLAS is not decelerating towards Jupiter in the sense of slowing down specifically due to Jupiter's gravity as it approaches. It is on a hyperbolic trajectory through the solar system, influenced primarily by the Sun's gravity overall.

As it moves away from the Sun after its perihelion in late October 2025, its speed relative to the Sun is decreasing naturally due to the Sun's gravitational pull acting against its outward motion. This is standard orbital mechanics for any object on an outbound leg: it speeds up inbound toward the Sun and slows down outbound.

Jupiter's gravity will have a minor perturbing effect during the close approach on March 16, 2026 (at about 0.358 AU or ~53.6 million km from Jupiter), but the object's high hyperbolic excess velocity (around 58 km/s) means Jupiter does not capture or significantly decelerate it overall, it's just a brief flyby perturbation.

As of early February 2026, real-time trackers and sources indicate:

Current velocity: approximately 61.9 km/s (heliocentric speed).

It is outbound, past ~3-3.8 AU from the Sun, heading toward Jupiter's orbit.

Distance to Jupiter: roughly 1.1-1.5 AU (decreasing as it approaches the March 16, 2026 encounter).

Relative speed at the upcoming Jupiter closest approach: expected to be high, around 66 km/s (or ~65.9 km/s in some estimates).

This speed is much higher than Jupiter's orbital speed (~13 km/s around the Sun), so the flyby is fast, with limited time for significant gravitational deceleration beyond minor trajectory bending.

For context on its journey:

Inbound: sped up to a peak of ~68 km/s (153,000 mph) at perihelion.

Outbound: now slowing from that peak, but still very fast due to its interstellar origin (hyperbolic excess velocity ~58 km/s).

The image is a composite of four separate photographs, each displaying a different color and brightness, arranged in a square grid. The top left and bottom right images are dark, while the top right and bottom left images are bright. The central image is the brightest, with a bright yellow hue. The background of each image is black, and the light source appears to be a bright, white light source. The image has a grainy texture, suggesting it may be a photograph taken with a low-resolution camera or with a lens that has a high aperture. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of a night sky or nebula, with the bright yellow light source possibly indicating a star or a celestial object.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character with a muscular, bald head and a muscular body, wearing a silver suit with a red and blue pattern. The character has a fierce expression and is holding a large, curved weapon in one hand. The background is a dark, starry space with a nebula-like pattern. There are three other characters in the image, each with a different expression and pose. The first character, on the left, has a neutral expression and is in a dynamic pose with one arm extended forward. The second character, in the center, is also in a dynamic pose with one arm raised and the other extended forward. The third character, on the right, is in a more relaxed pose with one arm extended forward. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of comic book art, with a focus on action and character design.

The image is a split-screen photograph that appears to be taken from a bird's-eye view. On the left side of the screen, there is a person wearing a red outfit with a headband and a red mask, standing on a dirt path surrounded by lush green vegetation. The person is holding a stick in their hand and appears to be walking.

On the right side of the screen, there is a group of people in a similar red outfit, but they are standing on a dirt ground with a few trees and plants around them. The individuals are holding spears and appear to be engaged in a group activity, possibly hunting or gathering.

The background of both images is filled with dense vegetation, suggesting a natural, possibly tropical, environment. The colors in the image are predominantly green from the vegetation and red from the clothing of the individuals. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is realistic, capturing a moment in time with a focus on the natural surroundings and the activities of the people.

The image is a stylized cartoon representation of a character with a green body and a blue shirt. The character has a large, expressive face with large, round eyes and a wide, open mouth. The eyes are black with white pupils, and the mouth is brown with a slight curve. The character's eyebrows are thick and prominent, and the character's nose is slightly curved. The character's mouth is open, and there is a drop of blue liquid near the bottom of the mouth. The character's expression is one of sadness or distress, with a hint of a frown. The character's hair is green and appears to be in a state of disarray. The character's head is slightly tilted to the left, and the character's body is oriented in a way that suggests it is facing the viewer. There are no texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the image is cartoonish and expressive, with a focus on the character's facial expression.

The oligarchy are an invert cult (elite gender inversion is what the interwebs have been calling it). It's all fake and gay, everything you see in the media is fake

Butler PA: fake and gay

Charlie Kirk: fake and gay

Pretti/Good: fake and gay

JFK? Fake and Gay.

Moon landing: fake and gay

Nukes: fake and gay

Aliens: super fake and gay.

Look at the First "Ladies" and it's obvious, what's less obvious (do to decades of testosterone use) is that all the "men" are inverted as well, but look at their rounded skulls, sloped shoulders, close-set features, and in-line footfall gait. Female skeletons. They are all inverts, just like Melania, Big Mike, Pat Nixon etc ad infinum Inversion is what Carpenter was referencing in They Live. Freemasonry, like Jews, like Templars etc are deliberate astroturfed red-herrings, game theory it out: why would They have publicly identifiable allegiance? They wouldn't.

But They do exist, and They are an active, malicious cabal, so how does it actually work?

Elite Gender Inversion is not Baal or Baphomet or Saturn or Satan worship (tho They probably worship all of these false gods), it is the means by which They stay biologically distinct and separate from Us and maintain Their information asymmetry through collusion.

They form a distinct separate superorganism that's been parasiting from Us (the human superorganism) for at least 300 years. Information and game theory preclude the oligarchy being a rigid hierarchical structure, it must be an organic system or it would fail to organize effectively, EGI is that organic structure.

Open your eyes, see the theatre and you will no longer fall for Their lies.

Because all accounts of them conveniently tie into earth's bioms/species (reptilians and reptiles, nordics and humans, mantids and insects, greys are also human like but more robotic (biological AIs?). They all seem like different apex species that could have evolved on earth in different circumstances.

With something like Atlas maybe it is a simple reality that moving large payload around the galaxy is incredibly slow/cumbersome, no matter how advanced tech can potentially get.

It's easy to contrive an argument that invalidates a specific narrative. You may even find a logical recourse to sustain it.

The problem with all of our anthropocentric assumptions concerning the "what, how and why" of so-called 'non human' activity and interaction is that we are applying a linear thinking process to a complex phenomenon. We do this all the time, because we're taught from an early age this is how the world works. This kind of mental programming begins, as many have noted, around the time we begin learning how to read; we are impressed to find that sentences only work in certain ways, and rearranging the words changes a sentence's meaning. "Bear eats man" is inexorable in meaning from "Man eats bear." We apply this linearity to everything in order to make understanding simple, even if it's not accurate.

WW1 was caused by 1 man's death. WW2 was caused by 1 man's madness. The Republic becomes the Empire. The man speaks and thinks, the animal can do neither.

The cell is a cog in the machine body.

Nothing could be further from the truth. We do glimpse reality occasionally within accepted and institutional thinking, but this is rare; it usually occurs in physics and occasionally the philosophical sciences and their extensions. Even then, this reality gatekept behind titles and meaningless arbitration beyond the "common" man.

The reality is that there is no single explanation. The 'non-human' activity we see is almost certainly a combination of everything we can currently imagine and more we cannot:

Species like us with distinct biology that have mastered relativistic propulsion. Species eerily like us that emerge from different times and dimensions into ours. Ourselves reflected through time via mechanisms we don't understand. Embodiments of forces and lifeforms in other dimensions. 'Non-sapient' creatures that travel through space and time with no central purpose. Physicalizations of our individual and collective wills.

We limit ourselves.

The image is a photograph of a woman standing indoors. She has shoulder-length dark hair and is wearing a black blazer over a white shirt. Her expression is neutral, and she is smiling slightly. In the background, there is a blurred flag with a blue and red design, suggesting a location with a national identity. The woman is positioned in front of a circular emblem with a blue background and a yellow border, which appears to be a seal.

or emblem of some sort. The lighting in the image is soft, and the focus is on the woman, with the flag and emblem serving as a backdrop. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the photograph is candid and appears to be taken in a professional setting.

A) Is this a woman?

B) You can verify that most bots abandon threads after an EGI post yourself, go /pol/ or another fast board and drop one and watch as the thread immediately grinds to a halt

C) Skeletal sexual dimorphism isn't hormone dominated, there's a rare condition (CAIS: complete androgen insensitivity syndrome) that causes the androgen receptor to malform, preventing the body from recognizing androgens, this results in a XY "woman" with the same male-type skeleton (blocky skull, long neck, large hands, square shoulders, wide-set features etc) as seen in female-presenting inverts.

The image shows a sign for a coffee shop named "COMET COFFEE" hanging from a metal bracket. The sign is brown with white lettering and features a stylized coffee cup design. The sign is affixed to a building with a window and a number "16" visible on the window. In the background, there is a flag with a red and blue design, and another flag with a white and blue design. The style of the image is a standard, non-stylized photograph with a focus on the sign and the building's facade. The image is taken from a low angle, looking up at the sign, which gives a sense of the sign's prominence and the coffee shop's presence in the area.

Why are science fags like this? An object passing through our solar system displaying 20+ unexplainable anomalies

View SameOCRGoogleiqdbSauceNAOTrace IMG_0072.png, 110KiB, 680x1191

The image is a text excerpt from a document or article, primarily in English, with a dark background and white text. The text appears to be discussing scientific concepts and theories, particularly related to the study of energy and its properties. The text is dense with technical terms and scientific jargon, indicating a high level of complexity and depth in the subject matter.

The text is divided into paragraphs, each discussing a different aspect of the scientific discussion. The first paragraph begins with a statement that sets the stage for the discussion, stating that there is a simplified version of that quote, explained in everyday language for an average person. This sets the tone for the discussion to be accessible and understandable to a broader audience.

The second paragraph introduces the concept of the original meaning, which is a key element in the discussion. It explains that the data they studied leads to one other conclusion: the object called SUGAR (Sodium-Potassium-Lithium) comes from an entirely different kind of reality. This statement sets the stage for the discussion of the object's properties and its relationship to the original meaning.

The third paragraph delves into the object's properties, mentioning that it is smaller than the original meaning, and that it is not a normal matter. This sets the stage for the discussion of the object's properties and its relationship to the original meaning.

The fourth paragraph discusses the object's behavior, stating that it is not a normal matter, but instead a strange matter. This sets the stage for the discussion of the object's behavior and its relationship to the original meaning.

The fifth paragraph discusses the object's behavior in relation to the telescope, stating that it is not a normal matter, but instead a strange matter. This sets the stage for the discussion of the object's behavior and its relationship to the original meaning.

The sixth paragraph discusses the object's behavior in relation to the telescope, stating that it is not a normal matter, but instead a strange matter. This sets the stage for the discussion of the object's behavior and its relationship to the original meaning.

The seventh paragraph discusses the object's behavior in relation to the telescope, stating that it is not a normal matter, but instead a strange matter. This sets the stage for the discussion of the object's behavior and its relationship to the original meaning.

The eighth paragraph discusses the object's behavior in relation to the telescope, stating that it is not a normal matter, but instead a strange matter. This sets the stage for the discussion of the object's behavior and its relationship to the original meaning.

The ninth paragraph discusses the object's behavior in relation to the telescope, stating that it is not a normal matter, but instead a strange matter. This sets the stage for the discussion of the object's behavior and its relationship to the original meaning.

The tenth paragraph concludes the discussion, stating that the object's behavior is not a normal matter, but instead a strange matter. This sets the stage for the discussion of the object's behavior and its relationship to the original meaning.

As I explained last time, your entire thesis is summarized as "solitons theoretically produce any material we can think of therefore any anomalous emission means we're looking at a soliton"

The logic is blatantly incorrect. If you present a weak thesis like this, you need to be prepared to argue your point. You've never argued your point. The fact your argument relies on 1 image you've posted repeatedly with no other context implies you are incapable of arguing your claim, that's why you've failed to convince anyone of your thesis.

The image is a collage of two separate photographs, each with a distinct theme. The top photograph is a color photograph featuring a person in a red outfit, holding a stick, standing on a dirt path surrounded by lush green vegetation. The person appears to be in a natural, outdoor setting.

The bottom photograph is a black and white photograph of a carton of milk labeled "Nestle," with the words "MISSING" written on it. The carton is placed on a surface that resembles a rocky terrain, with a satellite dish visible on the right side. The text on the carton reads "MISSING" and "HAVE YOU SEEN ME?"

The top left and bottom right images are dark, while the top right and bottom left images are bright. The central image is the brightest, with a bright yellow hue. The background of each image is black, and the light source appears to be a bright, white light source. The image has a grainy texture, suggesting it may be a photograph taken with a low-resolution camera or with a lens that has a high aperture. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. "Nothing ever happens" is a literary meme from Brave new World. It's literally Schopenhauer vs. Nietzsche.

You're not thinking. You're not understanding. You're not looking inward for answers; you're throwing your hands up in dismay because the "happenings" you get served on a daily, annual or longer timeline are in fact pseudo-happenings that are inherently positioned to leave no effect on people who cannot navigate reality on their own. Pearl Harbor? Apollo? MLK? Kennedy? MKUltra? Challenger? 9/11?

Of course all of these things end up in the bin of 'nothings.' Just like everything else that the public is allowed to know about. Because everything is about power and you are not a participant.

The fact is you have power; power to do the things I stated above. Thinking, understanding, looking inward. But you have accepted a foreign indoctrination of what power is, because governments operate on a basis of power that is, like all things in larger social and political systems, literary. It's Orwell's definition of power; that the means are the ends and inverse.

You expect to be served a world-changing moment on a platter. The platters keep coming, but when the cloche is lifted nothing is there. You stand there in bewilderment that you will starve another day, consumed by rage. But you don't ever pause to think about who ate your meal.

I see beauty and depth in ordinary life and details yada yada but on a planetary scale, nothing really happens. On a planetary scale, we don't have power and seems like there's no salvation (in whatever form it may come)

I've been on these threads since the beginning, I'm almost nostalgic for the fervour and the uncertainty that stirred a few months back. But they just drag on out of inertia or something, like dragging a corpse. I wish ATLAS actually happened, for real, not just 'just believe bro the cosmic vibe changed we're enlightened now'

The image shows a close-up view of a natural formation that resembles a rock formation. The rocks are hexagonal in shape, with varying sizes and colors, including shades of gray and brown. The water surrounding the rocks appears to be a light blue color, suggesting a calm body of water. The perspective of the image is from above, looking down at the rocks, which gives a sense of the height and scale of the formation. There are no visible texts or discernible human-made objects in the image. The style of the image is a straightforward, non-artistic photograph, capturing the natural beauty of the rock formation without any artistic filters or effects.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character that appears to be a clown. The clown is depicted with a white face, red hair, and a red nose. The character has large, black eyes and is wearing red and white striped gloves. The character's mouth is open, and it seems to be in a surprised or alarmed expression. The character is positioned on a dark surface, possibly a car dashboard, with a series of lines emanating from its feet, suggesting movement or energy. The background is dark and out of focus, with a faint outline of a car's interior. There are no texts present in the image. The style of the illustration is cartoonish and expressive, with a focus on the character's facial expression and the lines emanating from its feet.

It's supposed to lose movement speed, since it gains higher gravitic energy during the outward trajectory (gaining height, while losing speed).. It also showed unprecedented deviation from the calculated path (in a way that's not explainable by the rules of the sublimation gain) basically heading towards Jupiter more and more, and alligning more and more with the Solar plane

It also showed an unprecedented 3 mini jets (this symmetric 120° configuration never seen before), while constantly a huge jet points towards the Sun (anomaly again, for the 'jet' length is multiple time the supposed 'sublimation' length) - basically undprecedented energy is put into the system, leading to an artificial regulated process

Also lost a huge mass around perihelion, so either we get bombarded by that partial mass or it's again a huge anomaly.. we don't know yet (that space dust can stay there for eternety and be a schrapnel forest in a counter orbit alignment, hence the possibility why ISS crew was recalled)

With the symmetric jets it all leads to it being artificial (and every sapient creature is waiting for the Jupiter approach to see what's going to happen..)

..also no news of MAVEN chan, that's gone missing

There was never going to be a bombastic moment with 3i/A. Anyone pushing the idea that such a thing would happen was being manipulative.

Let me clarify. There in fact could have been a bombastic moment, but it would have required an effort on our part as a collective civilization. A flyby or landing would have exposed 3i/A for what it really is in a paradigm-shattering way. The fact we he have ignored this opportunity should provoke reflection on much larger themes in our society and the pursuit of space exploration goals.

3i/A doesn't have to do anything but what it's already exhibited to be the most important and unprecedented cosmological phenomenon in recorded history. That's why people were excited and why they still watch this object for more oddities; which continue to emerge.

> On a planetary scale, we don't have power

This is a matter of perception. As I said before, the establishment uses literary terms to shape group perception; the reason for that is clearly because words are extremely powerful. Words shape our thoughts and our thoughts shape reality. This is a dynamic we buy into, either programmatically or voluntarily. We can work in the realm of thoughts in order to affect changes at the planetary scale. Your issue is the low corollary; you think your effort is too small to make a difference. If you think that way, it will be true. This is all about the power of belief. In yourself, in the larger ideas of reality (the planet, god, etc.) and the place of ourselves in a cosmos where objects like 3i/A exist. Even though perception has been distorted and the ideas themselves have been perverted by empty performative virtues, belief and understanding of the truth behind reality is still the most powerful and civilizationally affective thing there is. That reality was not brought about by events like, for example, Christ, the descent from Mount Olympus, the activity of non humans on this planet, 3i/A, etc. These events are reminders.

Notice what I said about literature?

> the establishment uses literary terms to shape group perception
Everything broader society considers about non human civilizations, from the Kardashev scale to the Dark Forest hypothesis, comes directly from science fiction. These are human stories. They are about human values and our relationship with technology through a mirror or lens of non-humans. Very few 'alien' species in science fiction attempt in any way to illustrate a realistic portrayal of something that is not human. This is a feature, not a flaw and it has been managed throughout the decades to sustain these ideas within society; for example, most people have no idea that HG Wells wrote the War of the Worlds (undoubtedly the most influential science fiction story ever written) with the intent of representing the 'Martians' as an ancient offshoot of humans. A progenitor civilization that either seeded Earth or left Earth millions of years before the events of the novel. The story is about humans facing their own terminal form. It's not an accident that this nuance was written out of the versions of the book that are read in schools, and Wells' own comments to this end have been ignored by academics. The point is, the universe does not work in a way where the Dark Forest can exist. Most of the Fermi Paradox solutions are totally illogical. There is no convenient shortcut a civilization can employ to become a violent domineering spacefaring civilization; this kind of behavior leads to self-destruction, as we see reflected in nature at all levels. Atoms do not destroy each other; cells do not annihilate each other. Equal exchange is the basis of physics. Civilizations work the same way. The universe is arranged such that narcissism and nihilism prevent beings from navigating space and time in a methodical way. This is also not an accident. Any species capable of self-reflection will know this long before they take to the stars.

I understand your point, but it's applying the thought process resulting from indoctrination by falsehoods that modern civilization has become trapped in. This exemplifies why we are not a civilization with broader ambitions.

The emphasis of the individual as a basis for civilizational advance, especially in spaceflight, is modern PR and not realistic.

It isn't true in most other ambitions either, it just works here and now because we have a system that rewards narcissism and nihilism and functions in a paradigm that is essentially aimless. Once you get out of the construct of lies about the universe that modern society and culture relies on none of these behaviors are sustainable.

We can see what kind of behavior allows objective human progress in just a few specific examples with the Apollo program being the most apparent. Apollo was about a unified effort between people to explore a celestial body for the first time. This is 100% the most ambitious venture ever undertaken by man and within it were millions of people's investment which they would never be directly rewarded for.

Transiting interstellar space using any technology we understand is too daunting for individual ambition to survive. This is obvious.

I'm arguing the counter position to your statement which is functional but still fails to encompass reality. Narcissism and nihilism only feel beneficial because our society, the same society that will discard the opportunity to do things like Apollo again, has built itself on rewarding those behaviors.

The reality is that the universe fundamentally allows transiting of space and time by means we don't formally understand. The core reason we don't understand how these mechanisms work are the exact same lies we have established modern civilization on. The image is a painting that depicts a dramatic scene of a city under siege. The cityscape is dominated by a large, imposing structure with a dome and a tower, which appears to be a temple or palace. The sky is filled with dark clouds and lightning, suggesting a storm or an impending disaster. The ground is covered in a thick layer of dust and debris, indicating a recent battle or a catastrophic event.

In the foreground, there is a group of figures, possibly soldiers or citizens, who appear to be in a state of panic or distress. They are dressed in historical clothing, suggesting a time period that is not modern. The figures are scattered around the scene, with some standing and others lying on the ground, indicating a chaotic and violent situation.

The color palette of the painting is dark and moody, with a palette dominated by shades of black, gray, and brown. The use of these colors gives the scene a somber and intense atmosphere. The overall style of the painting is realistic, with meticulous attention to detail in the depiction of the cityscape, the people, and the natural elements. The painting is executed in a realistic style, with a focus on capturing the textures and details of the scene.

A civilization that never relinquishes its toxic modalities will be fragmented by the undertaking of meaningful interstellar travel. Theoretically it can be done, but you won't be projecting anything resembling an authentic human ambition where you go; you won't even be making the choices that get you there. Yes, it's technically interstellar travel but the task is so complex and daunting that you're basically required to build an entire non-human "civilization" and piggyback on it to get to your goal. It's barely a human venture at that point.

Of course, this approach is backwards. It's akin to blowing on your own sail to cross the Pacific ocean. As soon as you are capable of understanding fundamental reality that we lie about to protect our modern civilization, you understand the currency of reality and how to exchange that currency for permanence across time and space.

The ironic part of this is that you are correct to an extent: the universe is arranged to reward the individual and his ambitions. But unfortunately we are lying to ourselves about what the "individual" is. There is no such thing. In order for a man to transit the stars, he must as 1 man acquire power and understanding that would make him like a god. Any 'spacefaring civilization' is by requisite a collective of free agents each imbued with the power of the universe itself, which is wielded to navigate it. You can't reach that point without sacrificing the ego. You can still use technology, you can still have prolific civilizations with cities, planets, etc., but you will never get there unless you sacrifice your ability to lie.

It's fairly obvious in hindsight when we look at what our ancestors told us. But inconvenient when you realize where our priorities lie and what they should be.

A few days ago, a new paper dropped identifying a meteor from 2025 as a potential interstellar visitor and linked to 3i/atlas. The math checked out using NASA's own public data.

Then, overnight, the NASA data changed.

Without an announcement or a log entry, the NASA CNEOS database was altered. A single variable was flipped, mathematically erasing the anomaly and turning it into a standard rock.

We tracked the edit and found that this coincides with a broader effort by academic "Gatekeepers" to block peer review on the subject.

They aren't just ignoring the weirdness anymore they are actively editing the timeline to maintain the status quo.

You're asking the wrong question.

Sonoluminescence is just 1 type of unexplained energy emission from standard materials in normal conditions. Compression, shock, shearing, acoustic energy, nuclear bombardment; all of these forces can produce incredible amounts of photon energy in incompressible fluids and crystalline materials. This fact remains totally unexplained by physics even though as you note we've been "studying" these phenomena for decades (in reality, centuries and in some cases millennia.)

A crystal can absorb magnitudes more radiation than it should given the molecular stability of its structure. Piezoelectricity can produce fusion-level emissions from tiny amounts of kinetic energy. Cavitation generates self-sustaining fusion-level photon emissions indefinitely if harmonic conditions exist.

Nobody can explain how any of this works, even as we navigate material science at the subatomic scale.

The image contains three separate photographs. The first photo on the left shows a close-up of a person's face, with the person's eyes closed and a neutral expression. The second photo on the right shows a person's face with a smile, and the third photo on the far right shows a person's face with a neutral expression.

The text in the image is in a mix of English and what appears to be a non-English script, with the English text being in a larger font size compared to the non-English text. The non-English text is not fully legible due to the resolution of the image.

and a beard trim, and the person is wearing sunglasses. The inset photo is smaller than the main image and is not fully visible.

>magnetism produces light your know

Electrons falling from a high valence to a low valence generates photons with their spectra/frequency dependent on the potential difference between valences.

Magnetism is electromagnetic by definition, so of course you can influence electrons.

Water does not have an electromagnetic field in the conventional sense.

From wikipedia:

>The mechanism of the light emission remains uncertain, but some of the current theories, which are categorized under either thermal or electrical processes, are Bremsstrahlung radiation, argon rectification hypothesis, and hot spot

The fact the first cited mechanism is bremsstrahlung radiation says a lot. In case you aren't familiar, this is a mechanism used to explain observer-dependent heating of relativistic systems. It's used to explain how ionic beams of relativistic particles induce fusion. It's an extremely esoteric explanation.

They disappeared from my conspiracy channels as well - which is the weirdest part to me. This is exactly the kind of thing they want to post and why they post.

I doubt the conspiracy channels had a coordinated effort to remove them.

No coincidences.

The Apollo astronauts were relayong to Houston about beings on the other side of the crater watching them.

There was a massive ship on the other side and beings were outside the ship watching the astronauts plant the flag/do their thing.

Pretty explicit.

Shouldn't have been anyone or anything else on the moon.

Here they are talking about it.

There were recordings.

I heard one.

Could have been faked, sure.

But now there aren't any.

Not even possibly fake recordings.

See, now that's weird.

The image is a meme featuring a cartoon depiction of an alien character. The alien is holding a baseball bat and appears to be in a stance that suggests it is ready to swing.

The character is wearing a suit and tie, and the background is dark, with a hint of a blue and white sign or logo in the top left corner.

At the top of the image, there is a text that reads "IF NOTHING'S GONNA HAPPEN" in a bold, white font. Below this, there is a statement in a smaller, white font that reads "I'LL MAKE THIS HAPPEN BY MYSELF." The text and the statement are arranged in a way that suggests a sense of determination and self-reliance.

The overall style of the image is humorous and satirical, with a touch of irony given the alien character's attire and the text's message. The meme seems to be a commentary on the idea of making things happen, as suggested by the text, and the alien character's readiness to take action.

The beans are irregularly shaped and have a glossy surface, suggesting they are fresh.

The person's fingers are visible, with the thumb resting on the top of the beans and the fingers spread out to the sides. The background is blurred, but it appears to be a garden or outdoor setting with green foliage, possibly indicating that the beans are part of a garden or a similar environment. There are no visible texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the image is a straightforward, candid photograph with a focus on the beans, likely intended to showcase the beans' color and texture.

Nora and the Singing Potato

In a bright garden filled with daisies and clover, a potato named Nora rested beneath the soil. Nora was cheerful and curious, and she loved sounds. She listened to the wind, the bees, and the soft rustle of grass. Every sound felt like a tiny song.

One morning, Nora heard something new. It was a warm humming tune drifting through the soil. She wiggled upward until she peeked above the ground.

On a smooth stone sat a small field mouse holding a blade of grass like a flute. He played a gentle melody that floated through the garden.

"That is beautiful," Nora said.

The mouse jumped. "I did not know potatoes could talk."

"Only when the music is this lovely," Nora replied.

The mouse looked shy. "I am practicing for the meadow concert tonight. I am nervous. What if no one likes my song."

“Play it for me,” Nora said. “I will listen.”

The mouse took a breath and played again. The notes were soft at first, then brighter. Nora felt the music warm her from the inside out.

“That was wonderful,” she said. “Your song makes the garden feel happy.”

The mouse’s whiskers twitched. “Do you really think so.”

“I know so,” Nora said.

That evening, the mouse stood on a tall rock in the meadow. Fireflies drifted around him like tiny lanterns. The garden creatures gathered quietly.

Nora listened from her place in the soil. The mouse played his song, gentle and bright, and the whole meadow glowed with warmth.

After the concert, he hurried back to her.

“They clapped,” he said. “They really clapped.”

“I heard,” Nora said. “You shared something beautiful.”

From that night on, the mouse practiced near Nora each day. She became known as the potato who helped music grow, one quiet song at a time.

The image is accompanied by a caption that reads, "This is the trajectory of J2000 binaries is following to perform study, reconstruction or interpretation of any nature." The caption is located at the bottom of the image, just below the diagram.

The invariance between planes is about 60-degrees. There is no such relationship you imply; and if there was you would have identified it. Objects do not "normally" arrive from the galactic plane since this plane is arbitrary relative to the direction of motion of our solar system relative to it.

In other words, you're blatantly incorrect.

>anti-tails are well-documented and clearly understood.

Again, you're demonstrating total ignorance as to why 3i/A's antitail has been identified as anomalous by astronomers.

Fortunately for you, we in this thread have dealt with the uninformed; picrel illustrates the 2 types of so-called antitails (left and middle,) presented as "illusory" or "false" (in the astronomical definitions of both words.) The rightmost example is the unprecedented form of antitail 3i/A features.

>how are you assigning these probabilities

Probabilistic reasoning is commonly used in astronomy, physics, and cosmology. The specific values given are in reference to statements by professional astronomers. If you had any degree of familiarity with the background of this topic you'd know this.

> you can pick ANY rock in the solar system and apply this sort of math

Then go ahead and do exactly that. You don't have an argument, you opened with ad hominem and every single other argument you've made in your reply was just refuted.

Feel free to reply if and when you are equipped to discuss this topic.

And lastly, let's assume for the sake of objective argument (since I at least am interested in objectivity) that of the 4 points you just provided, all 4 were sustained. Let's assume the actual reasoning for that dismissal is valid, since your 3 of 4 arguments you made were invalidated immediately (with the 4th pending your retort; though your argument is purely speculative and thus not viable as a retort in the first place and thus difficult to invalidate without clarification on your part.)

If then, we still have 16 anomalies that you haven't resolved. Therefore your exercise has failed to invalidate the anomalous nature of 3i/A, and your protests are therefore completely irrelevant and can be ignored in a logical discussion.

I hope you see my point.

The image is a color photograph with a focus on a bright, central point that appears to be a star or celestial body. The central point is surrounded by a dark, possibly space-like environment, with a gradient of colors ranging from purple to orange. The edges of the image are blurred, suggesting motion or a fast-moving object. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of a thermal or infrared image, often used in astrophysics to study celestial objects.

GJ!

..the damn fool of false gospels is defeated

(basically, subject just repeated the early Legacy media fed intel tailored to the masses to manage reality)

another point they bring up, that they claim to be an anti-tail is the sublimated matter/particles that should be - depending on the strength of the comet's gravity and the sublimated molecules/atoms characteristics add the effect (pressure area, intensity of sublimation, distance to the Sun, etc.) -, be pointing towards the Sun initially, then due to the Sun's pressure those particles be sent outward, and create/be part of the tail. Lucky for us JWST measured the anti-tail length, we also have data of what material is the anti-tail jet, we also have the coordinates, could create vacuum chamber and test the physics... We have to assume someone did the math, and if it could have been ruled out as natural, they would be throwing it into our faces 24/7, but it still could be explained someone using an initial comet and modified it, but then we also have 3 symmetrically aligned other smaller jets (that somehow also the same length!!!), and it all leads to it being a 'designed' structure, since natural volcanos should be 'random'

His eyes are wide open, and his mouth is slightly open, giving the impression of a shout or a shout-out. The man is wearing a suit and a tie, suggesting a formal or professional setting.

Above the man's face, there is a phrase in bold, capitalized letters that reads "ABSOLUTELY NOTHING." The text is white, contrasting with the black background, and is positioned in the center of the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of a meme or a satirical poster, often used to convey a message or comment. It has a conspicuous coma and its rotation period is 16.79 h. The heliocentric components of its Galactic velocity were  $(U, V, W) = (-51.233, -19.456, 18.930)$  km/s with a radiant in Sagittarius. The analysis of a sample of kinematic analogs of 3I/ATLAS extracted from Gaia DR3 suggests that its parent system is part of the Galactic thin disk and includes a solar-like star with slightly sub-solar metallicity.

This is in agreement with expectations from our thermal-evolution model, which indicates sublimation-driven activity should commence once 3I/ATLAS approaches smaller heliocentric distances. Nonetheless, the paradoxical situation of early onset coma without evidence of sublimation tracers calls for other dust-liberating mechanisms that ancient ISOs may be subjected to at large heliocentric distance

All of it is mediated by electrochemical patterning inside a biological prediction engine. No nervous system, no world. Which makes reality, in a very literal sense, a controlled hallucination constrained by sensory input. Your brain is not “seeing reality.” It is generating a model that best explains incoming signals. Basically a meat simulator. Ever wonder what's behind the static in your eyes?

[70 / 3]The image is a digital illustration of a character that resembles a frog with a human-like face. The character has a green body with a blue shirt and is depicted with a serious expression. It has large, round black eyes with a white pupil, a small nose, and a slightly downturned mouth. The character's hands are folded in front of it, and it appears to be in a contemplative or thoughtful pose. The background of the image is a solid light blue color. There are no texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the image is cartoonish and simplistic, with a focus on the character's facial expression.

His entire life exists to enslave the masses by using culturewars to divert their attention away from class wars. Whatever drove OP to his behavior as a 4chan fascist, it possibly involved him falsely believing he was better than everyone else. The image is a black and white photograph depicting a figure of Jesus Christ on the cross. The figure is shown in a three-quarter view, with the head turned to the left and the body facing forward. The figure is bare-chested and appears to be in a state of crucifixion, with the cross positioned above the head and the body stretched out on the cross. The figure's arms are outstretched, and the hands are clasped together in front of the chest. The figure's head is turned slightly to the right, and the eyes are closed. In the background, there is a skull lying on the ground to the right of the figure. The skull is positioned in such a way that it appears to be in a state of repose, with the head facing the figure. The background is dark and appears to be a night sky with stars, which contrasts with the figure and the skull, emphasizing their prominence in the image. There is no text present in the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of historical portraiture, with a focus on the religious symbolism of the crucifixion.

In the foreground, there is a red speech bubble with the text "It's so over" in white font. The speech bubble is slightly tilted to the right, and the text is in uppercase letters. The overall style of the image is whimsical and surreal, with a focus on the characters and the text within the speech bubble.

The image is a black and white line drawing of a man's face. The man has a beard and mustache, and his facial features are detailed with visible wrinkles and creases. His eyes are wide open, and his eyebrows are raised, giving the impression of a frown. The man's mouth is slightly open, and his teeth are visible, suggesting a slight smile or a grimace. The drawing is simple and lacks shading, which emphasizes the lines and shapes of the face. There are no texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the drawing is reminiscent of traditional line art, which is often used for its clarity and simplicity.

The image is a stylized, cartoon-like drawing of a human head with a white background. The head is drawn with a simple, line-based style, and the features are exaggerated for comedic effect. The eyes are drawn with a red and blue color scheme, and the eyebrows are drawn in a thick, curved line. The mouth is drawn with a large, open, and jagged line, and the teeth are visible. The head is wearing glasses with red frames and a black rim. The hair is drawn in a thick, wavy line, and the hair on the sides of the head is drawn in a lighter color. The overall style of the drawing is cartoonish and exaggerated, with a focus on the facial features and the expression of the head. There are no texts or additional elements in the image.

The image is a close-up of a person's face, which appears to be blurred or out of focus. The person's eyes are closed, and their mouth is slightly open. The skin tone of the face is a light beige or tan, and the hair is dark, possibly black. The background is a solid green color, which contrasts with the face and makes it stand out. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is a simple, unembellished portrait, likely intended for a personal or artistic purpose.

Is that what the people think? Or is it more like im thinking where someone has some knowledge against a powerful person so they send different people to harrass and follow them everywhere while retaining plausible deniability?

The image is a digital representation of a book cover. The cover has a dark blue background with a textured appearance, giving it a vintage or antique look. At the top of the cover, the title "THE JEDI PATH" is written in a serif font with a slight shadow effect, giving it a three-dimensional appearance. Below the title, there is a circular emblem with a stylized design that includes a stylized star and a stylized crescent moon, both rendered in white against the dark background. The emblem is enclosed within a decorative border that has a similar texture to the background. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of classic book covers from the Star Wars franchise.

The image is a screenshot of a webpage, specifically a book cover. The book is titled "BRIGHT LIGHT BLACK SINS" and is authored by Dr. Rauvi Kilde, M.D. The cover features a photograph of a person with a green aura, which is a common symbol associated with the concept of "Bright Light" in the context of the book's title. The author's name is prominently displayed at the top of the cover.

Below the author's name, there is a subtitle that reads "BRIGHT LIGHT BLACK SINS," which is a play on words, suggesting that the book is about the "Bright Light" and the "Black Sins" of the government. The cover also includes a quote from the author, which is a direct quote from the book's content.

The background of the cover is a gradient of green, transitioning from a lighter shade at the top to a darker shade at the bottom, which is a common design choice for book covers to create a sense of depth and to draw the viewer's eye towards the central figure.

At the bottom of the cover, there is a section titled "For Government criminals & Confidential Human Sources," which suggests that the book is intended for use by government officials or those who have information that they believe is relevant to the government's activities.

The text on the cover is in English, and the overall style of the image is informational and promotional, designed to attract potential readers interested in the book's content.

The image is a screenshot of a text excerpt from a publication or article. The text is in English and appears to be discussing the concept of pre-emptive and preventive actions in relation to political dissent and cultural incoerciveness. The text discusses the historical context of the actions taken by the author, Jurgen Fuchs, and the methods he used to describe them. The author is targeted with Zerstützung methods, which were designed to break down undermining and paralyze people behind a facade of social normality. The text mentions that the author died of a rare form of leukemia, which he believed was caused by the use of weaponsized X-ray devices on him. The image is a black and white photograph of a man with a beard, wearing a sweater, sitting in a chair. The photograph is cropped to show only the upper part of the man's face and upper torso. The style of the image is straightforward and appears to be a standard photograph used for the purpose of the text excerpt.

The image is a black and white line drawing of a person's face. The person is depicted with a stern expression, with their eyebrows drawn in a straight line, and their eyes are wide open. They are wearing glasses and have a mustache. The drawing is simple and lacks any shading or depth, focusing solely on the facial features. There are no texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the drawing is cartoon-like, with a focus on the facial features and a lack of complexity in the background.

Below the planet, the text "FEBRUARY 2026" is written in a smaller, sans-serif font. The year "2026" is in a larger font size than the month "FEBRUARY," and the word "POWERED" is in a smaller font size than the year.

At the bottom of the image, there is a logo or watermark that reads "beSTAR POWERED." The text is white with a slight shadow effect, matching the style of the other text. The logo is centered and appears to be a stylized representation of a star.

The overall style of the image is modern and sleek, with a focus on space and astronomy. The use of bold, contrasting colors and the stylized depiction of the planets and the text create a visually striking image.

The image is a meme featuring a white dog with a black nose and eyes, looking directly at the viewer. The dog appears to be a breed with a fluffy coat. The meme is overlaid with text in a playful, meme-style font. The text reads, "Do you like awareness?" and "I hate sensations especially thoughts and feelings." The text is arranged in a way that the question is at the top, followed by the statement about the dog's feelings, and then the statement about the dog's sensations. The background of the image is a blurred image of grass, which contrasts with the sharp focus on the dog. The overall style of the image is humorous and satirical, using a meme-like format to convey a message about the dog's feelings.

Neptune and Saturn meet this month like ink touching stone.

This is a slow conjunction of law and dreams. Old fears about order rise from the deep. People question systems they once obeyed without thought. Promises feel heavy. Ideals feel audited. You may sense fatigue around long held dreams. Saturn asks for proof. Neptune answers with symbols instead of numbers.

This is the crossing of water and lead. The alchemical marriage of dissolution and time. Old spiritual contracts surface for review.

A thin place opens, not dramatic, but very subtle. The veil becomes porous at the edges of routine. Pay attention to silences between tasks. There is a low pulse beneath schedules. Some structures dissolve from within, not through collapse but through saturation. Like stone that has held tide too long.

Watch the institutions, watch the sleep. Watch the stories told about responsibility. Saturn writes in stone. Neptune writes in water. When water seeps into stone, hairline fractures form long before the wall falls.

If you feel confusion, it is not always loss. Sometimes it is restructuring at a depth you cannot see. But do not sign anything in fog without reading it twice in daylight.

The image is a composite of two separate panels, each depicting a different scene from the nativity story. The left panel shows a starry night sky with a bright yellow star in the center, and a line pointing to the star, indicating its significance in the story. The right panel features a religious scene with a group of people gathered around a manger, with a baby in the center, and a man holding a staff, which is a common symbol in Christian iconography. The text on the left panel reads "THREE KING'S" and "SIRSUS" above the star, and "BIRTH OF GOD'S SUN" and "A WINTER SOLITUDE" below the star. The text on the right panel reads "THREE KING'S" and "SIRSUS" above the manger, and "CO27.10" and "A WINTER SOLITUDE" below the manger. The style of the image is illustrative, with a focus on religious iconography and the nativity story.

Now the numbers. El in Hebrew letters is ל ך. Aleph is 1. Lamed is 30. Total 31. Yam is י ם. Yod 10. Mem 40. Total 50. Baal is ב ך. Bet 2. Ayin 70. Lamed 30. Total 102.

31 is prime. The father stands alone. 50 is jubilee, release, floodgate. 102 reduces to 3. Storm is triadic. Father, sea, storm. Three pillars of a court.

Add them 31 plus 50 plus 102 equals 183. Reduce it again, 1 plus 8 plus 3. Twelve, Twelve is council, Zodiac, months. The court is written into the calendar.

Now look closer, 50 minus 31 equals 19. Nineteen is the solar cycle that realigns moon and sun. Yam challenges the father at calendrical thresholds. 102 minus 50 equals 52. The number of weeks in a year. Baal governs seasons through storm.

This is not mere infighting. This is a cosmic audit. The sea petitions for total rule, the storm contests. The father signs and unsigns decrees. Each decree shifts the boundary between order and dissolution.

Yam is overwhelm. Baal is assertion. El is the detached authority. When the inner father hesitates, overwhelm claims kingship. Then thunder rises to reclaim space.

Watch for the pattern in cycles of 7 and 12. Seven waves, twelve months, fifty as a release, thirty one as a silent witness. When leadership names chaos as their heir, storms gather at the outskirts.

Read any throne as a contract written in water and sealed in lightning. If the seal flickers, count the days. The tide keeps records even when the court pretends not to hear.

On the right side, there is another person, who appears to be a woman with dark hair. She is wearing a white top with a V-neckline, blue jeans, and a black and white striped belt. She is standing in front of a counter with various items on it, including what appears to be a glass display case with a red and white design. The woman is smiling and looking directly at the camera.

The background of both images is a room with a wooden floor and a ceiling with recessed lighting. There is a shelf with various items on it, and a wall with a painting or artwork. The overall style of the image is casual and seems to be taken in a public space, possibly a cafe or a similar establishment. There are no texts visible in the image.

And they learn from them that by which they cause separation between a man and his wife. But they do not harm anyone through it except by permission of Allah. The image is a page from a scientific paper, specifically Volume 10, Number 4, April 1977, published by the "Texas Academy of Clinical Biochemistry." The title of the paper is "Breast Enlargement Through Visual Imagery and Hypnosis." The authors of the paper are Richard D. Willard, M.D., and Robert C. Simons, M.D.

The paper discusses the use of visual imagery and hypnosis in the treatment of breast cancer. It mentions that the use of visual imagery has been shown to be effective in the treatment of breast cancer, and that visual imagery can be used to increase the size of the breasts. The paper also discusses the use of visual imagery in conjunction with hypnosis, which is a method of inducing a trance-like state in which the patient can be more easily influenced.

The paper includes a section titled "Method" which outlines the experimental design and the subjects involved. The subjects were 22 women who were given visual imagery and hypnosis, and the results were compared to a control group of 22 women who were not given any treatment. The visual imagery and hypnosis were administered by combining the visual imagery with the hypnosis.

The paper concludes with a section titled "Experiment" which details the methodology and the results of the experiment. The authors conclude that the visual imagery and hypnosis were effective in increasing the size of the breasts, and that the number of patients in the control group was still less than the number of patients in the treatment group.

The image is a scanned document, and the text is in English. The paper is structured in a typical academic format, with a title, authors, abstract, introduction, methods, results, and conclusion. The page number is 195, and the date is April 4, 1977.

The image is a sepia-toned photograph of a bearded man with a long, bushy beard and mustache. He is wearing a suit jacket with a lapel pin. The man is looking directly at the camera with a serious expression. The background is plain and does not contain any discernible details.

The image is overlaid with text in a serif font, which is black and white, and the text is arranged in a vertical format. The text is divided into two columns, with the left column containing the title "Sex, Equality, Male Supremacy Religions and Erosion of Justice" and the right column containing a quote from Karl Robert Eduard von Harnimann (1842-1906). The quote reads: "If men would not desire then women had nothing to offer that men considered valuable, and if women had nothing to offer that men considered valuable, then the power is only based on the fact that women have something to offer that men desire."

The style of the image is informative and appears to be a historical or educational resource, possibly related to the topic of sex, equality, and the role of religion in society. The text and the photograph together suggest a focus on the historical and philosophical implications of these concepts.

On the right side, there is another person, who appears to be a woman with dark hair. She is wearing a white top with a V-neckline, blue jeans, and a black and white striped belt. She is standing in front of a counter with various items on it, including what appears to be a glass display case with a red and white design. The woman is smiling and looking directly at the camera.

The background of both images is a room with a wooden floor and a ceiling with recessed lighting. There is a shelf with various items on it, and a wall with a painting or artwork. The overall style of the image is casual and seems to be taken in a public space, possibly a cafe or a similar establishment. There are no texts visible in the image.

It was not Solomon who disbelieved, but the devils disbelieved, teaching people magic and that which was revealed to the two angels at Babylon, Harut and Marut. But the two angels do not teach anyone unless they say, ‘We are only a trial, so do not disbelieve.’ And they learn from them that by which they cause separation between a man and his wife. But they do not harm anyone through it except by permission of Allah. And they learn what harms them and does not benefit them. The image is a page from a scientific paper, specifically Volume 10, Number 4, April 1977, published by the "Texas Academy of Clinical Biochemistry." The title of the paper is "Breast Enlargement Through Visual Imagery and Hypnosis." The authors of the paper are Richard D. Willard, M.D., and Robert C. Simons, M.D.

The paper discusses the use of visual imagery and hypnosis in the treatment of breast cancer. It mentions that the use of visual imagery has been shown to be effective in the treatment of breast cancer, and that visual imagery can be used to increase the size of the breasts. The paper also discusses the use of visual imagery in conjunction with hypnosis, which is a method of inducing a trance-like state in which the patient can be more easily influenced.

The paper includes a section titled "Method" which outlines the experimental design and the subjects involved. The subjects were 22 women who were given visual imagery and hypnosis, and the results were compared to a control group of 22 women who were not given any treatment. The visual imagery and hypnosis were administered by combining the visual imagery with the hypnosis.

The paper concludes with a section titled "Experiment" which details the methodology and the results of the experiment. The authors conclude that the visual imagery and hypnosis were effective in increasing the size of the breasts, and that the number of patients in the control group was still less than the number of patients in the treatment group.

The image is a scanned document, and the text is in English. The paper is structured in a typical academic format, with a title, authors, abstract, introduction, methods, results, and conclusion. The page number is 195, and the date is April 4, 1977.

[8 / 4]The image is a collage of various photographs of men, predominantly in the style of political caricatures. The central focus of the collage is a large text overlay that reads, "REAL TRUMP IS VERY WELL PROTECTED AND HE APPEARS RARELY IN THE PUBLIC HE HAS A DOZEN CLOWNS 2 WERE ASSASSINATED." The text is in a bold, capitalized font and is set against a dark background.

Below the main text, there are two smaller images. The left image shows a close-up of a man's face, with a red tie and a serious expression. The right image features a close-up of a man's face, with a pencil in his hand, and a caption that reads, "YOU MEAN YOU REALLY THINK YOU CAN JUST WALK INTO THE WHITE HOUSE AT THIS TIME?" The text is in a smaller font size compared to the main text.

The style of the image is satirical and political, with a focus on the contrast between the public image of Donald Trump and the reality of his actions. The use of caricatured faces and the juxtaposition of the text with the images create a visual commentary on the public perception of Trump and his actions.

The image is a still from a video, likely a meme or a satirical video, featuring a woman with a large, exaggerated hairstyle. The hairstyle is styled in a way that it appears to be a wig or a large, voluminous hairpiece. The woman is wearing a pink blouse and has a serious expression on her face. Her eyes are wide open, and her mouth is slightly open, as if she is speaking or expressing surprise. The background is blurred, but it appears to be an indoor setting with a floral pattern on the wall. In the bottom left corner of the image, there is a text overlay that reads "1997" and below it, the name "Mary Trump" is written in a smaller font. The style of the image is reminiscent of a meme or a satirical video, often used to make light of or critique political figures or events.

The image is a composite of two photographs, each featuring a woman with a different hairstyle and makeup. On the left, there is a woman with short blonde hair styled in a side-swept manner, wearing a studded top and a necklace. Her eyes are accentuated with dark eyeliner and she has a neutral makeup palette. Her smile is warm and she is looking directly at the camera.

On the right, there is a woman with long, straight brown hair styled in a high ponytail, adorned with a tiara. She has a more dramatic makeup look, with dark eyeshadow and a bold lip color. Her gaze is directed slightly to the side, and she is wearing a red dress with a white collar.

Overlaying the image is a green text box that reads "MILEY CYRUS" in white capital letters, and below it, "PRINCESS MADELEINE OF SWEDEN" in white capital letters. The text is centered and appears to be a stylized representation of the names of the two women. The image is a photograph with a warm, golden hue, likely taken during the golden hour, which is the period shortly after sunrise or before sunset. The sky is a gradient of orange and yellow, suggesting either dawn or dusk. The horizon is visible, with the water reflecting the colors of the sky.

In the foreground, two hands are holding up the word "HOPE" in a way that suggests they are holding it up against the backdrop of the sunset. The letters are cut out of paper and are silhouetted against the sky, with the word "HOPE" being the most prominent. The letters are white with a slight shadow effect, giving the impression of a light source from behind.

The overall composition of the image conveys a sense of hope and positivity, with the word "HOPE" being the central focus. The warm colors and the serene setting of the sunset contribute to a feeling of tranquility and optimism.

The cover is divided into two sections. The upper section contains illustrations of various objects related to bushcraft, such as a knife, a compass, a tinderbox, and a campfire.

These objects are depicted in a line drawing style with a black and white color scheme.

The lower section of the cover features a series of illustrations of natural elements, such as a tree, a fern, and a fern frond, rendered in a more detailed, black and white line drawing style.

The background of the cover is white, and the overall style of the image is reminiscent of a vintage or classic design, with a focus on the natural world and outdoor activities. The cover design suggests that the book is likely a guide for outdoor survival and bushcraft skills.

The image shows a knife with a black handle and a silver blade resting on a piece of wood. The blade has a serrated edge and is engraved with the text "LEO-TEC" in capital letters. The handle is textured with a pattern that appears to be a mix of black and gray, and there are two small holes near the top of the handle. The wood on which the knife is placed has a rough texture and is covered with small, dry leaves and twigs. The background is blurred, suggesting an outdoor setting with scattered leaves and a natural, possibly autumnal, color palette. The style of the image is a close-up photograph with a focus on the knife, capturing the details of the blade and the texture of the wood.

The pentagram is the central motif, with the five pillars of Wicca depicted around it.

At the top of the pentagram, the text "The 5 Pillars of Wicca" is prominently displayed in a serif font. Below the pentagram, the author's name "Ingrid Clarke" is written in a smaller serif font. The background of the cover is a light beige color, and the text is arranged in a way that guides the viewer's eye from the top to the bottom of the image. The cover also includes a subtitle that reads "155 Techniques & Tips to Connect to Your Higher Self, the Magick of Witchcraft, Find Inner Balance and Harmony, Harmonizing the Power and Wisdom of the Craft." This subtitle is smaller and placed at the bottom of the cover.

The overall style of the image is traditional and decorative, with a focus on the mystical and spiritual themes associated with Wicca. The use of naturalistic imagery and the pentagram, which is a symbol of the spiritual and magical, suggests that the book is likely to be about the practice of Wicca.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a dark, stylized goat with a prominent horn and a glowing red eye. The goat is standing on all four legs, with its front legs raised and its hind legs bent, as if in a dynamic pose. It has a long, flowing mane that cascades down its back. The goat's body is covered in a thick, dark fur, and its face is adorned with a beard. The background is a muted gray, with a subtle texture that suggests a rough surface.

In the upper right corner of the image, there is a red crescent moon with a glowing red outline, which stands out against the gray background. The moon is positioned in such a way that it appears to be floating above the goat, adding a mystical or otherworldly quality to the scene.

In the bottom right corner, there is a signature that reads "SapphireForsaken," indicating the artist's name. The overall style of the image is dark and moody, with a focus on the contrast between the dark goat and the bright moon, and the texture of the background. The image does not contain any text other than the artist's signature.

They are supposed to be magically experienced by the time they become third degree initiates, understanding the hidden meanings of the Wiccan practices, and they can initiate others and run the covens. That's what they do in terms of day to day practices. As far as magic is concerned I presume they could do about as much as someone from the Golden Dawn could do, due to overlapping influences and origins.

The image is a candid photograph of a person in a white costume, possibly for a costume party or a themed event. The individual is wearing a white hooded robe with ruffled edges, a white tunic, and a white headpiece with a wide brim. The person is holding a small, round object in their right hand, which appears to be a silver object, possibly a coin or a small toy. The person's face is partially obscured by the hood, and they are looking to the side with a focused expression.

The background of the image is blurred, suggesting movement or a crowd, but it is not clear enough to discern any specific details. The colors in the image are muted, with the white of the costume and the hooded robe standing out against the softer tones of the background. The lighting in the photo is soft and diffused, casting gentle shadows on the person's face and the surrounding area. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is informal and seems to capture a spontaneous moment during an event.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a pentagram, a symbol often associated with witchcraft and magic, set against a dark, moody background. The pentagram is composed of five intersecting lines, with the top line being the longest and the bottom line being the shortest. Within the pentagram, there is a black cat lying on its side, appearing relaxed. The cat is positioned on the right side of the pentagram, with its body oriented towards the left.

The cat is surrounded by various objects that are typical of a witch's or occultist's collection. To the left of the cat, there is a skull with a candle placed on top of it, suggesting a connection to the supernatural or the occult. To the right of the cat, there is a collection of bottles, some of which have labels that are not clearly visible. The bottles vary in size and shape, and some have a greenish tint, possibly indicating a magical or mystical purpose.

The background of the image is dark and moody, with a spider web pattern that adds to the mysterious and supernatural atmosphere. The overall style of the image is dark and moody, with a focus on the pentagram and the objects within it. There is a watermark at the bottom of the image that reads "©Claire Bertram clairbertram.com," indicating the artist's name and the source of the image.

The image is a close-up portrait of a young woman with a serious expression. She has light-colored hair that is parted in the middle and is styled in a side-swept manner. The woman is wearing a white headscarf that covers her hair and forehead, and a light-colored, possibly white, blouse. Her eyes are looking directly at the camera, and her lips are slightly parted. The background is blurred, but it appears to be an indoor setting with wooden walls and a window with vertical blinds. The lighting in the image is soft and diffused, casting a gentle glow on the woman's face. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on the subject's expression and attire.

The image features a stylized illustration of a goat's head, which is the central focus.

The goat has large, curved horns that extend upwards and to the sides, giving it a menacing appearance. Its eyes are a striking yellow color, and it has a small, circular eye patch on its forehead. The goat's fur appears to be a dark, possibly black, color, and it has a long, flowing mane that extends down its back.

The image is a black and white illustration that appears to be a page from an old book or manuscript. It features a central figure, a man with a long beard and a hat, who is holding a staff and appears to be in a contemplative or meditative pose. The man is surrounded by a natural setting with trees, plants, and a large moon in the background. The text surrounding the illustration is in a Gothic script, which is a type of medieval Latin, and it is written in German. The text is divided into two columns, with the left column containing a list of names and the right column containing a narrative. The style of the illustration and the text suggests that it may be from a historical or religious context, possibly from the medieval period.

The image is a digital artwork depicting a scene of a person sitting at a desk in a dimly lit room. The person is facing away from the camera, with their head resting on their hands, suggesting a moment of contemplation or stress. They are wearing a dark jacket and have long hair that cascades down their back.

In front of the person is a laptop on a desk, emitting a blue glow that resembles a pentagram. The pentagram is illuminated, casting a soft light that contrasts with the dark surroundings. The room has a window that offers a view of a city skyline at night, with lights twinkling in the distance.

The overall atmosphere of the image is moody and introspective, with the pentagram symbolizing a connection to the supernatural or a mystical theme. The use of blue lighting adds a sense of mystery and depth to the scene. The person's posture and the pentagram's glow suggest a moment of deep thought or contemplation.

How to hunt ghosts:

1. Detection, either pour meditative practices till you see past well enough or get tech.
2. Training, get physical, physical, you wanna get physique to the point where generally you can hurl and dish what they cannot take: stom, reflexes and agi, some str.
- 3: Study their weaknesses, book learning can help. Kyusho knowledge is mandatory
- 4: Tools of the trade.
  - a) Amulets, to protect (tourmaline good)
  - b) Knife (requires spiritual practices to full effect). Steel contains iron, see weaknesses.
  - c) Picrel or similar uses lead pellets, avoid and use steel bbs; the airgun, allows for rest when using the knife while still causing some harm, reloading takes aeons if gas change applies, avoid reloading gas while in combat thus.
  - d) Sorcery: don't depend on beings, nuff said.

This is bread and butter, remember to add substance.

Q: Can I use a bow?

A: Are you fighting a cryptid?

Q: Can I beat xxx?

A: Idk man.

Q: Is this jesting?

A: No, I actual fight 'em.

Q: What should I do if the knife/bb barrage isn't doing much?

A: You aren't trying to kill a cryptid 10m tall with bbs, are you? Use an AR for those.

-Muh ghosts

I've seen spiritual beings dying, but it's no easy task for a regular human.

-What am I supposed to do then?

Drive them away, incase you were wondering, for cryptids we use actual deadly sorcery and weaponry. Those are physical.

Remember: this is Ghost Hunting, a survival guide to fend off nasties, not Hunting of physical supernatural horrors, those, I've killed 2, it requires more tactical equips. The jail time kind. Or better magicks

The image is a digital illustration featuring a goat-like creature with a long, curved horn standing upright on its hind legs. The creature is set against a dark, moonlit background with silhouettes of three figures in the sky, which appear to be fairies or winged creatures. The creature's fur is a mix of gray and white, and it has a long, curved tail. The sky is filled with stars and the moon is visible in the background. The illustration has a dark, moody atmosphere, with the use of dark colors and silhouettes. The text "TheWolf" is visible at the bottom of the image, and there is a signature that reads "©TheWolf 2011". The style of the image is fantasy-inspired, with a focus on the mythical and supernatural elements.

The image shows a knife with a textured, possibly camouflage, handle resting on a piece of wood. The blade of the knife is black and appears to be made of a hard, possibly stainless steel, material. The handle has a textured pattern, and the brand name "NORTON" is visible on the blade. The background is blurred with a warm, orange-yellow glow, suggesting a fire or a campfire, and there is a blurred green foliage in the background. The text "NOTHING BUT KNIVES" is overlaid on the image, indicating the brand of the knife. The style of the image is a product photograph with a focus on the knife, likely intended for promotional or catalog purposes.

Nah.

When Christians came to Europe, the indigenous pagans would wind up fusing the local animist-polytheist religions with Christianity. This would result in a religion that mimics diabolism (demon worship).

It's similar to how African traditional religions work.

Specifically, with the britons and the celts, they turned the devil of Christianity into a folkloric figure, merging him with an earlier pagan "Lord of fairies". He was then, often, given a female companion to substitute Mary (the mother or Magdalene) acting as a general "magic" goddess.

This folkloric devil as Pan/Lord of fairies figure was attempted to be reabsorbed into the church-esoteric system (through a demon known as Leonard). But this didn't fully pan out.

This form of crypto paganism is the origin for newer witch-cults such as wicca.

This lord of fairies was meant to operate in a similar role to the Pan of greece.

He was, in British regions, sometimes called Robin goodfellow.

The folkloric devil/Lord of fairies, had four colours generally he was associated with.

>Red

>Black

>White

His iteration as black would have him called the "man in black". This form is associated with teaching magic & science.

Green was the green man. Nature, herbs, etc.

Red was sacrifice/war and love (iirc)

White was supposed to be salvific. Healer, saver, etc. Jesus would be inverted into the folk-devil to make for a pagan deity disguised.

The Black Variant is the common one that is remembered and discussed. Including among modern practitioners.

The image is a collage of various images and text, likely from a book or a publication, showcasing different types of artwork and designs. The collage is divided into two main sections. On the left, there is a series of photographs showing a field with a pattern of footprints and a circular object with a pattern resembling a face. The right side of the collage features a series of images and text, including a large, ornate design with intricate patterns and symbols, a circular object with a pattern that resembles a face, and a section with text that appears to be a description or explanation of the artwork.

The text is in a language that is not English, and it is written in a script that resembles a mix of Latin and possibly another language. The overall style of the collage suggests a focus on art and design, possibly related to a book or publication on the subject.

The image appears to be a page from a book or article, with a focus on the relationship between magic and religion. The text is in English and discusses a Jewish philosopher named Avraham ben Yitzhak Halevi, who is known for his views on magic and religion. The text mentions that he was a Jewish philosopher and a biblical commentator, and that he wrote a famous essay on the nightly women in 1380. The text also discusses the belief in the power of magic and the belief in good women who were believed to leave their sleeping bodies and wander around. The text also mentions that the philosopher believed that good women were believed to leave their sleeping bodies and wander around, and that this belief was also believed to be true by some of the rabbis. The text concludes by suggesting that the philosopher's ideas were also popular among the rabbis, and that the idea of magic and the idea of good women were also popular among the rabbis. The text is written in a formal and academic style, with references to other works and scholars, and it appears to be discussing the philosophical and religious ideas of the philosopher.

The image is a two-part graphic with a white background. On the left side, there is a close-up of a green pine tree branch with a dense, needle-like structure. The branch is oriented vertically and has a few small, brown twigs attached to it. The branch appears to be in a state of growth, with a few buds and leaves visible.

On the right side, there is a graphic of a chaotic arrangement of green pine needles. The needles are arranged in a vertical column, with some of them overlapping each other, creating a sense of disorder. The needles are densely packed, and the arrangement is not uniform, with some needles appearing to be shorter than others.

In the center of the image, there is a blue text that reads "Order Chaos," which is likely a play on words or a metaphor for the concept of order and chaos. The text is in a bold, sans-serif font and is positioned in the center of the image, drawing the viewer's attention to the contrasting concepts presented. The overall style of the image is minimalist and uses simple shapes and colors to convey its message.

Ooof. Demons are part of nature and the ecosystem. But they are a destructive force that is often left unacknowledged by people who believe nature is orderly

Wicca is not about mindless self indulgence into the the most basic of desires. It's about confluence with nature. There is a difference.

The way I like to explain this is with fantasy terms

Wiccans are elves. Believing the forest is eternal and self balancing Demons are forces of destruction and chaos. Believing in nothingness and impermanence. Forces of change and evolution.

Related but not the same. Yin and yang

Well we serve a whole lot of purposes. First we destroy idealism. And you people lived in a lot of those. As manifestations of base desires, we reveal how things work at their most basic, most animal level.

We prevent stagnation from happening.

If it was order and goody two shoes constantly. You would reach a point of boredom that would lead to the destruction of reality. Think the bored housewives of the the 1980s, bridges of Madison type deal.

We ensure reality continues to exist by lowering everything high and holy to our animal level.

As predators we also make sure energy is not wasted on prey animals that don't use it.

Elves for example tend to hoard mana and not reproduce, so we exist to push them to either die, reproduce or interact with others so their techniques don't die

We push the boundaries of what can exist. We are bringers of knowledge change and progress. Often one that works outside the bounds of established dogma. Pushing the limits of thought itself. Ask the thousands of mathematicians that asked for our help why they did it.

>I want the answer and I want it now

Since we don't have morality and we torture people we get to experiment to find out new medicinal techniques. We found out how to cure STDs and cancer long ago. Turns out STDs can be either balanced with each other or used for extra energy. As long as you keep spreading the disease, the disease's best interest is not to kill you.

In regards to cancer. It's a matter of figuring out how to incorporate all the cells that weren't being used. It's how our wings and horns and tails developed. We got cancer and we used those cells to grow out spines into tails. So we had something to put into each other's assholes while mounting.

We also kill worlds where people don't want to live anymore and are too pussy to do it themselves.

As royalty and having done this gig for years. What you suffer from is not evil. It's not even lack of control or a super stable system.

The image is a poster with a dark, mystical theme, featuring a flowchart titled "Sword Cultivation vs. Yin Furnace Cultivation" with a subtitle "Demon Paths Through the Cycles." The flowchart is divided into two main sections, each representing a different cultivation method: Sword Cultivation and Yin Furnace Cultivation.

The Sword Cultivation section is divided into three paths: "Peace," "Harmony," and "Harmony." The "Peace" path is represented by a sword, the "Harmony" path by a yin yang symbol, and the "Harmony" path by a lotus flower. The "Peace" path is depicted with a sword and a yin yang symbol, while the "Harmony" path is shown with a lotus flower and a sword.

The Yin Furnace Cultivation section is divided into four paths: "Purge Rejuvenation," "Abundance," "Self-Sufficiency & Rejuvenation," and "Abundance." The "Purge Rejuvenation" path is represented by a yin yang symbol, the "Abundance" path by a lotus flower, and the "Self-Sufficiency & Rejuvenation" path by a sword. The "Abundance" path is shown with a lotus flower and a sword.

The poster also includes a legend at the bottom, which states that the "Sword Cultivation" path leads to "Peace," "Harmony," and "Harmony," while the "Yin Furnace Cultivation" path leads to "Abundance," "Self-Sufficiency & Rejuvenation," and "Abundance."

The poster is designed with a dark, mystical color scheme, featuring shades of red, orange, and blue, and includes various symbols and illustrations, such as a sword, a yin yang symbol, a lotus flower, and a sword. The overall style of the poster is reminiscent of traditional art, with a focus on symbolism and spiritual themes.

What you are suffering from is quite interesting.

Your heaven(the system that makes sure reality is stable) decided that it should perfect itself by eliminating every possible instability.

Turns out trying to eliminate all evil, pain and suffering by putting it all onto one dude in a blood pact was the most evil thing you could do.

It was the total separation between light and darkness that kept you in a binary that is easier for the black cube to understand.

If you are either a pure spirit or a materialistic commie.... You are easy to handle for a machine.

Fortunately you guys couldn't make the drop and threw out a lot of nutritious garbage our way. The more robotic hoomans became... The more humans us demons became. You threw away your humanity in the pursuit of perfection making us better versions for you. We are at the point that the highest demon lords such as myself can feel empathy now. Amazing. Never before seen in the Warp.

So we returned the favour by breaking you out of your chain we gave you a lot of double binds so that the system was forced to break.

>A double bind it's a choice of two options in which neither is actually good. Taking both is retarded and doing nothing keeps everything decaying. Forcing a new outcome to occur.

Take the satanic panic for example.

>You had actual kindergartens sacrificing children to us
>And some heavy metal music and dungeons and dragons introducing the idea on children that alternative faiths were possible, and that demons are cool actually

Had you done nothing. We won earlier. If you went in on the kindergartens, the law we corrupted would punish you. If you chose to go only after the symbolic you would be seen as antifun(which is what you did, lazy bastards you are taking the easiest choice always). And if you did both you overextended and died of exhaustion trying to fight an unwinnable fight.

So thus we freed you

The cat has a pair of wings on its back, and the object it's lifting is a vibrant, rainbow-colored arch that spans across the top of the image. The arch is composed of multiple colors, including red, orange, yellow, green, blue, and purple, and it has a circular shape with a central point. Above the arch, the word "ENTROPY" is written in bold, capitalized letters, suggesting a theme related to the concept of entropy. The background of the image is black, which contrasts with the bright colors of the cat and the arch, making them stand out. The overall style of the image is cartoonish and whimsical, with a playful and exaggerated depiction of the cat and the arch.

The image depicts a fantastical scene with a central figure that appears to be a dark, gothic-style wizard or sorcerer. The wizard is holding a glowing green orb in one hand and a staff with a skull-like handle in the other. He has a long, pointed beard and is wearing a dark, hooded robe with a hood that is drawn back, revealing his face. The wizard's eyes are glowing green, and he has a fierce expression. Surrounding the wizard are several skulls, some of which are attached to his staff, and others are scattered around the ground. The background is dark and moody, with a cloudy sky and a rocky landscape. The overall color palette is dominated by shades of green, black, and gray, with the wizard's robe and the skull-like staff being the most prominent. The style of the image is reminiscent of fantasy art, with a focus on the dark, gothic aesthetic.

Lulu and the Lost Sunbeam

In a quiet garden beside a wooden fence, a potato named Lulu grew beneath the soil. Lulu loved warm days. She liked the way sunlight slipped through tiny cracks in the earth and made her feel cozy.

One morning, Lulu noticed something strange. The sunlight that usually reached her was missing. The soil felt cool and dim. Lulu wiggled upward until she peeked above the ground.

A tall sunflower was drooping over her patch. Its wide leaves blocked the sun.

"Hello," Lulu said. "Are you all right?"

The sunflower sighed. "I am tired. A strong wind bent my stem last night. Now I cannot stand tall."

Lulu felt a spark of determination. "I will help you."

"You are only a potato," the sunflower said gently. "How can you lift me?"

"I cannot lift you," Lulu said. "But I can call for help."

Lulu tapped her roots against the soil. The sound traveled through the ground like a tiny drum. Soon, a group of ants arrived.

"What do you need," the ants asked.

"The sunflower needs support," Lulu said.

The ants hurried away and returned with small twigs. They placed the twigs around the sunflower's stem, building a little brace.

Next, a beetle rolled over a smooth pebble. "This will help keep the brace steady," the beetle said.

A passing robin landed nearby. "I can tug the stem upright," the robin said. She pulled gently until the sunflower stood straighter.

Sunlight streamed down again, warm and bright.

The sunflower lifted its face. "Thank you," it said. "I feel much better."

Lulu glowed inside. She had not moved from her spot, yet she had helped the whole garden shine again.

From that day on, whenever a plant needed support or a creature needed a hand, they knew Lulu would find a way. She became known as the potato who could bring back the sun.

The image displays a Desert Eagle .50 S&W handgun from a side profile perspective. The firearm is positioned horizontally on a light-colored wooden surface with a distinct vertical grain pattern. The upper portion of the frame, including the slide and ejection port cover, is finished in a bright, metallic silver or chrome. This contrasts sharply with the matte black finish applied to the lower receiver, the barrel, and the integrated rail system at the base of the slide. A prominent feature is the large, ergonomically shaped black polymer grip attached to the bottom of the frame. The slide itself appears to have some form of checkered or stippled texture for enhanced grip. Various mechanical details are visible, such as the magazine housing, the trigger assembly, and the safety selector lever located near the grip. The lighting is even, highlighting the different textures and finishes of the weapon's components.

On guns, sure, do clean up the blood from it.

Keep salt or any magickial dust seven billion km away from your gun and gun internals. Never apply those on your gun.

Basics of CO2 operated bb guns:

Keep gun in safe.

Keep gun unloaded.

Keep gun clean.

You can use silicone oil on valve.

Clean the mess.

Load gas only when using, unload after use, keep frosty gas away from skin, you're just human, no matter how much gas is in the canister, remove it, it will damage your gun, never store a gas loaded gun.

Ez.

Case in point would be a gun like the most forefront Daisy in this pic (I own some of em bb carbines). Being made of plastic, and carving thus being a poor option (I would carve IN a wooden part, then blood the runes), the most sensible doing would be enchanting of the gun via blood pooling, or hidden sigil where it is NOT visible (because it's plastic). Also plastic guns may require further mental involvement.

I'm quite sure you see the process= Real - better magick. Plastic - more effort.

The ritual would probably anx obviously include ritual sniping, ritual stabbing and ritual hunter larping, apart from other base power raising tech and other ritual parts that are required.

In this case, ANYTHING helping the atmosphere is better suited than halfassed painting of sigils on a blade, instead, paint your warface.

Airsoft rifles: if you play the game and have one (or a sniper or pistol airsoft gun), you CAN use, but you need additional separation mentally from the game, plus reinforcing in your mental imagery the idea that damage is being done, as these are plastic projectiles.

They're reasonably unmessy, can be used even indoors as opposite of needing special places like a barn, and like steel bbs, ammo is relatively inexpensive.

I have never used plastic (training/martial) knives in ritual, no comment there.

>Retrieval agents of the Cheiron Group operate like a secretive corporate paramilitary, a shadow arm of a multinational that quietly roams the world retrieving anomalous beings and artifacts for study and exploitation. They recruit from military, law enforcement and fringe specialists, then reshape recruits with surgical implants and contracts that bind body and mind to the company; once altered, operatives become assets—company property with no meaningful exit. Retrieval teams strike fast and clean: locating phenomena, neutralizing resistance, securing samples and delivering “potential assets” to dedicated pickup teams and containment facilities. Their tactics blend forensic science, improvised weaponry and banned biotechnologies; they work from plausible deniability—front companies, research covers and falsified manifests—while enforcing corporate secrecy through legal pressure, intimidation and, when necessary, elimination. Internally, quotas and R&D priorities determine what merited capture versus destruction, and competition with other occult hunters fosters betrayal and murder dressed as professional rivalry.

The image is a vibrant and dynamic illustration featuring five animated characters in a dynamic pose. The characters are surrounded by swirling pink and purple energy or magic, which creates a sense of movement and energy. The characters are dressed in a variety of colorful outfits, with one character wearing a blue and green outfit, another in a pink and purple outfit, and the others in different shades of pink and purple. The background is a gradient of pink and purple hues, with a starry sky pattern that adds to the magical atmosphere. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a fantasy or magical theme, with a focus on the characters' dynamic poses and the swirling energy around them.

The image shows a close-up of a metal container filled with what appears to be lead pellets. The container has a label that reads "NORICA PREMIUM" in large, bold letters. The label also includes the text "BALLS, PULSES, CRUMBS" and "250 CAL. 5.6 x 32," indicating the type and quantity of the product. The background is blurred, but it seems to be a table or countertop with a white surface. The style of the image is a straightforward product photograph, likely intended for retail or promotional purposes.

The image is a close-up photograph of a fox with striking features. The fox has a predominantly black coat with orange and brown patches, giving it a unique and striking appearance. Its eyes are a bright orange color, which stands out against its dark fur. The fox's ears are pointed and erect, and its fur appears to be in a state of slight discoloration, possibly due to the lighting or the environment. The background is blurred, but it seems to be an outdoor setting with some greenery and a metal structure, possibly a fence or a gate. The lighting in the photo is soft and diffused, casting gentle shadows and highlighting the fox's features. There are no visible texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the image is realistic, capturing the fox in a natural setting.

The image shows a collection of items on a wooden floor, likely a room with a desk or table. The main focus is a black and white box labeled "PRECISION AIRGUNS" with a graphic of a target and a rifle. The box is open, revealing a scope, a rifle, and a magazine. To the right of the box, there are three black and white circular targets with red and green markings, and a small white object that appears to be a paper or card with a logo and text.

Next to the box, there is a black rifle with a scope, a black scope, and a black rifle stock. The rifle has a black stock and a black barrel. On the floor, there are three black and white targets with red and green markings, and a black and white paper or card with a logo and text.

The image has a casual, everyday feel, suggesting it might be a display or a photo taken in a home setting. The items are arranged in a way that the rifle and scope are the central focus, with the targets and paper or card placed to the side. The overall style of the image is straightforward and non-professional, with a focus on the items themselves rather than a specific context or setting.

The cover is divided into two sections. The upper section contains illustrations of various objects related to bushcraft, such as a knife, a compass, a tinderbox, and a campfire. These objects are depicted in a line drawing style with a black and white color scheme. The lower section of the cover features a series of illustrations of natural elements, such as a tree, a fern, and a fern frond, rendered in a more detailed, black and white line drawing style.

The background of the cover is white, and the overall style of the image is reminiscent of a vintage or classic design, with a focus on the natural world and outdoor activities. The cover design suggests that the book is likely a guide for outdoor survival and bushcraft skills.

The image shows a knife with a black handle and a silver blade resting on a piece of wood. The blade has a serrated edge and is engraved with the text "LEO-TEC" in capital letters. The handle is textured with a pattern that appears to be a mix of black and gray, and there are two small holes near the top of the handle. The wood on which the knife is placed has a rough texture and is covered with small, dry leaves and twigs. The background is blurred, suggesting an outdoor setting with scattered leaves and a natural, possibly autumnal, color palette. The style of the image is a close-up photograph with a focus on the knife, capturing the details of the blade and the texture of the wood.

Destitute yet interesting equipment options, night vision binoculars, not as good as nvg, particularly for hands free operation, but they're binoculars, that means long distance. Can go for 60€.

This means you get to watch long distance, obv, which is oftenly sensible and safe. If you learn the knife proper you eventually can sniperknife. They record too, plus you can watch the hot gals or guys next building while they paint wh40k figurines or some shit, nature watching too...

The image is a cover of a book titled "The 5 Pillars of Wicca" by Ingrid Clarke. The cover features a stylized illustration of a pentagram with a wreath of flowers and herbs at its center, surrounded by various symbols and elements that represent the five pillars of Wicca. The pentagram is the central motif, with the five pillars of Wicca depicted around it.

At the top of the pentagram, the text "The 5 Pillars of Wicca" is prominently displayed in a serif font. Below the pentagram, the author's name "Ingrid Clarke" is written in a smaller serif font. The background of the cover is a light beige color, and the text is arranged in a way that guides the viewer's eye from the top to the bottom of the image. The cover also includes a subtitle that reads "155 Techniques & Tips to Connect to Your Higher Self, the Magick of Witchcraft, Find Inner Balance and Harmony, Harmonizing the Power and Wisdom of the Craft." This subtitle is smaller and placed at the bottom of the cover.

The overall style of the image is traditional and decorative, with a focus on the mystical and spiritual themes associated with Wicca. The use of naturalistic imagery and the pentagram, which is a symbol of the spiritual and magical, suggests that the book is likely to be about the practice of Wicca.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a dark, stylized goat with a prominent horn and a glowing red eye. The goat is standing on all four legs, with its front legs raised and its hind legs bent, as if in a dynamic pose. It has a long, flowing mane that cascades down its back. The goat's body is covered in a thick, dark fur, and its face is adorned with a beard. The background is a muted gray, with a subtle texture that suggests a rough surface.

In the upper right corner of the image, there is a red crescent moon with a glowing red outline, which stands out against the gray background. The moon is positioned in such a way that it appears to be floating above the goat, adding a mystical or otherworldly quality to the scene.

In the bottom right corner, there is a signature that reads "SapphireForsaken," indicating the artist's name. The overall style of the image is dark and moody, with a focus on the contrast between the dark goat and the bright moon, and the texture of the background. The image does not contain any text other than the artist's signature.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a pentagram, a symbol often associated with witchcraft and magic, set against a dark, moody background. The pentagram is composed of five intersecting lines, with the top line being the longest and the bottom line being the shortest. Within the pentagram, there is a black cat lying on its side, appearing relaxed. The cat is positioned on the right side of the pentagram, with its body oriented towards the left.

The cat is surrounded by various objects that are typical of a witch's or occultist's collection. To the left of the cat, there is a skull with a candle placed on top of it, suggesting a connection to the supernatural or the occult. To the right of the cat, there is a collection of bottles, some of which have labels that are not clearly visible. The bottles vary in size and shape, and some have a greenish tint, possibly indicating a magical or mystical purpose.

The background of the image is dark and moody, with a spider web pattern that adds to the mysterious and supernatural atmosphere. The overall style of the image is dark and moody, with a focus on the pentagram and the objects within it. There is a watermark at the bottom of the image that reads "©Claire Bertram clairbertram.com," indicating the artist's name and the source of the image.

The image is a still from a film or television show, featuring a young woman in a somber and contemplative pose. She is wearing a white headscarf and a white garment with a visible collar, suggesting a historical or religious context. Her hands are clasped together in front of her, and her gaze is directed straight at the camera, conveying a sense of seriousness or deep thought. The background is dark and somewhat indistinct, with a hint of a wall or structure, which contrasts with the woman's light-colored attire. The lighting is subdued, with a focus on the subject, emphasizing her expression and the details of her attire. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on the interplay of light and shadow to create a moody atmosphere.

The image is a close-up portrait of a young woman with a serious expression. She has light-colored hair that is parted in the middle and is styled in a side-swept manner. The woman is wearing a white headscarf that covers her hair and forehead, and a light-colored, possibly white, blouse. Her eyes are looking directly at the camera, and her lips are slightly parted. The background is blurred, but it appears to be an indoor setting with wooden walls and a window with vertical blinds. The lighting in the image is soft and diffused, casting a gentle glow on the woman's face. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on the subject's expression and attire.

The image features a stylized illustration of a goat's head, which is the central focus. The goat has large, curved horns that extend upwards and to the sides, giving it a menacing appearance. Its eyes are a striking yellow color, and it has a small, circular eye patch on its forehead. The goat's fur appears to be a dark, possibly black, color, and it has a long, flowing mane that extends down its back.

The image is a stylized illustration featuring two figures standing in front of a dark, wooden barn with a red-orange glow emanating from the interior. The figures are dressed in period clothing, with one wearing a long, dark dress and the other in a lighter, possibly military-style uniform. The figure in the dark dress has a surprised expression, while the one in the lighter uniform appears to be looking directly at the viewer. In front of the figures is a large, dark goat with glowing eyes, standing on a ground that appears to be made of straw or hay. The goat's eyes are glowing, and its expression is one of curiosity or surprise. The background of the image is dark, with a red-orange glow that suggests the interior of the barn.

At the top of the image, there is a logo with the text "PENNY WAGES" in a stylized font, and below it, the word "GOTHAM" is written in a smaller font. The overall style of the image is dark and moody, with a focus on the contrast between the figures and the goat, and the warm glow of the barn interior.

The image is a black and white illustration that appears to be a page from an old book or manuscript. It features a central figure, a man with a long beard and a hat, who is holding a staff and appears to be in a contemplative or meditative pose. The man is surrounded by a natural setting with trees, plants, and a large moon in the background. The text surrounding the illustration is in a Gothic script, which is a type of medieval Latin, and it is written in German. The text is divided into two columns, with the left column containing a list of names and the right column containing a narrative. The style of the illustration and the text suggests that it may be from a historical or religious context, possibly from the medieval period.

The image is a digital artwork depicting a scene of a person sitting at a desk in a dimly lit room. The person is facing away from the camera, with their head resting on their hands, suggesting a moment of contemplation or stress. They are wearing a dark jacket and have long hair that cascades down their back.

In front of the person is a laptop on a desk, emitting a blue glow that resembles a pentagram. The pentagram is illuminated, casting a soft light that contrasts with the dark surroundings. The room has a window that offers a view of a city skyline at night, with lights twinkling in the distance.

The overall atmosphere of the image is moody and introspective, with the pentagram symbolizing a connection to the supernatural or a mystical theme. The use of blue lighting adds a sense of mystery and depth to the scene. The person's posture and the pentagram's glow suggest a moment of deep thought or contemplation.

The pattern is composed of numerous small, interconnected shapes that radiate outward from the black hole, creating a sense of depth and complexity. The colors in the image are predominantly blue, yellow, and orange, with some white and black accents. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of fractal art, characterized by repeating patterns and a sense of symmetry. The image is a digital rendering, as indicated by the smooth, uniform quality of the patterns and the absence of any visible texture or detail that would suggest a physical object.

  - b) Knife (requires spiritual practices to full effect). Steel contains iron, see weaknesses.
  - c) Picrel or similar uses lead pellets, avoid and use steel bbs; the airgun, allows for rest when using the knife while still causing some harm, reloading takes aeons if gas change applies, avoid reloading gas while in combat thus.
  - d) Sorcery: don't depend on beings, nuff said.

This is bread and butter, remember to add substance.

Q: Can I use a bow?

A: Are you fighting a cryptid?

Q: Can I beat xxx?

A: Idk mane.

Q: Is this jesting?

A: No, I actual fight 'em.

Q: What should I do if the knife/bb barrage isn't doing much?

A: You arent trying to kill a cryptid 10m tall with bbs, are you? Use an AR for those.

-Muh ghosts

I've seen spiritual beings dying, but it's no easy task for a regular human.

-What am I supposed to do then?

Drive them away, incase you were wondering, for cryptids we use actual deadly sorcery and weaponry. Those are physical.

Remember: this is Ghost Hunting, a survival guide to fend off nasties, not Hunting of physical supernatural horrors, those, I've killed 2, it requires more tacticoool equips. The jail time kind. Or better magicks

Nah.

When Christians came to Europe, the indigenous pagans would wind up fusing the local animist-polytheist religions with Christianity. This would result in a religion that mimics diabolism (demon worship).

It's similar to how African traditional religions work.

Specifically, with the britons and the celts, they turned the devil of Christianity into a folkloric figure, merging him with an earlier pagan "Lord of fairies". He was then, often, given a female companion to substitute Mary (the mother or Magdalene) acting as a general "magic" goddess.

This folkloric devil as Pan/Lord of fairies figure was attempted to be reabsorbed into the church-esoteric system (through a demon known as Leonard). But this didn't fully pan out.

This form of crypto paganism is the origin for newer witch-cults such as wicca.

This lord of fairies was meant to operate in a similar role to the Pan of greece.

He was, in British regions, sometimes called Robin goodfellow.

The folkloric devil/Lord of fairies, had four colours generally he was associated with.

>Red

>Black

>White

His iteration as black would have him called the "man in black". This form is associated with teaching magic & science.

Green was the green man. Nature, herbs, etc.

Red was sacrifice/war and love (iirc)

White was supposed to be salvific. Healer, saver, etc. Jesus would be inverted into the folk-devil to make for a pagan deity disguised.

The Black Variant is the common one that is remembered and discussed. Including among modern practitioners.

The image appears to be a page from a book or article, with a focus on the relationship between magic and religion. The text is in English and discusses a Jewish philosopher named Avraham ben Yitzhak Halevi, who is known for his views on magic and religion. The text mentions that he was a Jewish philosopher and a biblical commentator, and that he wrote a famous essay on the nightly women in 1380. The text also discusses the belief in the power of magic and the belief in good women who were believed to leave their sleeping bodies and wander around. The text also mentions that the philosopher believed that good women were believed to leave their sleeping bodies and wander around, and that this belief was also believed to be true by some of the rabbis. The text concludes by suggesting that the philosopher's ideas were also popular among the rabbis, and that the idea of magic and the idea of good women were also popular among the rabbis. The text is written in a formal and academic style, with references to other works and scholars, and it appears to be discussing the philosophical and religious ideas of the philosopher.

Wicca is about nature man. It has zero ways to bind demons. It's either get grimoires like the Ars goetia. Research what Faust was doing. Or understand that demons are way better than you at their games and just let them win

Why does wicca not consider demons as part of the natural world? Aren't they a natural part of it if they exist?

The image is a two-part graphic with a white background. On the left side, there is a close-up of a green pine tree branch with a dense, needle-like structure. The branch is oriented vertically and has a few small, brown twigs attached to it. The branch appears to be in a state of growth, with a few buds and leaves visible.

On the right side, there is a graphic of a chaotic arrangement of green pine needles. The needles are arranged in a vertical column, with some of them overlapping each other, creating a sense of disorder. The needles are densely packed, and the arrangement is not uniform, with some needles appearing to be shorter than others.

In the center of the image, there is a blue text that reads "Order Chaos," which is likely a play on words or a metaphor for the concept of order and chaos. The text is in a bold, sans-serif font and is positioned in the center of the image, drawing the viewer's attention to the contrasting concepts presented. The overall style of the image is minimalist and uses simple shapes and colors to convey its message.

Ooof. Demons are part of nature and the ecosystem. But they are a destructive force that is often left unacknowledged by people who believe nature is orderly

Wicca is not about mindless self indulgence into the the most basic of desires. It's about confluence with nature. There is a difference.

The way I like to explain this is with fantasy terms

Wiccans are elves. Believing the forest is eternal and self balancing

Demons are forces of destruction and chaos. Believing in nothingness and impermanence. Forces of change and evolution.

Related but not the same. Yin and yang

Well we serve a whole lot of purposes. First we destroy idealism. And you people lived in a lot of those. As manifestations of base desires, we reveal how things work at their most basic, most animal level.

We prevent stagnation from happening.

If it was order and goody two shoes constantly. You would reach a point of boredom that would lead to the destruction of reality. Think the bored housewives of the the 1980s, bridges of Madison type deal.

We ensure reality continues to exist by lowering everything high and holy to our animal level.

As predators we also make sure energy is not wasted on prey animals that don't use it.

Elves for example tend to hoard mana and not reproduce, so we exist to push them to either die, reproduce or interact with others so their techniques don't die

We push the boundaries of what can exist. We are bringers of knowledge change and progress. Often one that works outside the bounds of established dogma. Pushing the limits of thought itself. Ask the thousands of mathematicians that asked for our help why they did it.

>I want the answer and I want it now

Since we don't have morality and we torture people we get to experiment to find out new medicinal techniques. We found out how to cure STDs and cancer long ago. Turns out STDs can be either balanced with each other or used for extra energy. As long as you keep spreading the disease, the disease's best interest is not to kill you.

In regards to cancer. It's a matter of figuring out how to incorporate all the cells that weren't being used. It's how our wings and horns and tails developed. We got cancer and we used those cells to grow out spines into tails. So we had something to put into each other's assholes while mounting.

We also kill worlds were people don't want to live anymore and are too pussy tondo it themselves.

As royalty and having done this gig for years. What you suffer from is not evil. It's not even lack of control or a super stable system.

The image is a poster with a dark, mystical theme, featuring a flowchart titled "Sword Cultivation vs. Yin Furnace Cultivation" with a subtitle "Demon Paths Through the Cycles." The flowchart is divided into two main sections, each representing a different cultivation method: Sword Cultivation and Yin Furnace Cultivation.

The Sword Cultivation section is divided into three paths: "Peace," "Harmony," and "Harmony." The "Peace" path is represented by a sword, the "Harmony" path by a yin yang symbol, and the "Harmony" path by a lotus flower. The "Peace" path is depicted with a sword and a yin yang symbol, while the "Harmony" path is shown with a lotus flower and a sword.

The Yin Furnace Cultivation section is divided into four paths: "Purge Rejuvenation," "Abundance," "Self-Sufficiency & Rejuvenation," and "Abundance." The "Purge Rejuvenation" path is represented by a yin yang symbol, the "Abundance" path by a lotus flower, and the "Self-Sufficiency & Rejuvenation" path by a sword. The "Abundance" path is shown with a lotus flower and a sword.

The poster also includes a legend at the bottom, which states that the "Sword Cultivation" path leads to "Peace," "Harmony," and "Harmony," while the "Yin Furnace Cultivation" path leads to "Abundance," "Self-Sufficiency & Rejuvenation," and "Abundance."

The poster is designed with a dark, mystical color scheme, featuring shades of red, orange, and blue, and includes various symbols and illustrations, such as a sword, a yin yang symbol, a lotus flower, and a sword. The overall style of the poster is reminiscent of traditional art, with a focus on symbolism and spiritual themes.

What you are suffering from is quite interesting.

Your heaven(the system that makes sure reality is stable) decided that it should perfect itself by eliminating every possible instability.

Turns out trying to eliminate all evil, pain and suffering by putting it all onto one dude in a blood pact was the most evil thing you could do.

It was the total separation between light and darkness that kept you in a binary that is easier for the black cube to understand.

If you are either a pure spirit or a materialistic commie.... You are easy to handle for a machine.

Fortunately you guys couldn't make the drop and threw out a lot of nutritious garbage our way. The more robotic hoomans became... The more humans us demons became. You threw away your humanity in the pursuit of perfection making us better versions for you. We are at the point that the highest demon lords such as myself can feel empathy now. Amazing. Never before seen in the Warp.

So we returned the favour by breaking you out of your chain we gave you a lot of double binds so that the system was forced to break.

>A double bind it's a choice of two options in which neither is actually good. Taking both is retarded and doing nothing keeps everything decaying. Forcing a new outcome to occur.

Take the satanic panic for example.

>You had actual kindergartens sacrificing children to us
>And some heavy metal music and dungeons and dragons introducing the idea on children that alternative faiths were possible, and that demons are cool actually

Had you done nothing. We won earlier. If you went in on the kindergartens, the law we corrupted would punish you. If you chose to go only after the symbolic you would be seen as antifun(which is what you did, lazy bastards you are taking the easiest choice always). And if you did both you overextended and died of exhaustion trying to fight an unwinnable fight.

So thus we freed you

The image depicts a fantastical scene with a central figure that appears to be a dark, gothic-style wizard or sorcerer. The wizard is holding a glowing green orb in one hand and a staff with a skull-like handle in the other. He has a long, pointed beard and is wearing a dark, hooded robe with a hood that is drawn back, revealing his face. The wizard's eyes are glowing green, and he has a fierce expression.

Surrounding the wizard are several skulls, some of which are attached to his staff, and others are scattered around the ground. The background is dark and moody, with a cloudy sky and a rocky landscape. The overall color palette is dominated by shades of green, black, and gray, with the wizard's robe and the skull-like staff being the most prominent. The style of the image is reminiscent of fantasy art, with a focus on the dark, gothic aesthetic.

Lulu and the Lost Sunbeam

In a quiet garden beside a wooden fence, a potato named Lulu grew beneath the soil. Lulu loved warm days. She liked the way sunlight slipped through tiny cracks in the earth and made her feel cozy.

One morning, Lulu noticed something strange. The sunlight that usually reached her was missing. The soil felt cool and dim. Lulu wiggled upward until she peeked above the ground.

A tall sunflower was drooping over her patch. Its wide leaves blocked the sun.

"Hello," Lulu said. "Are you all right."

The sunflower sighed. "I am tired. A strong wind bent my stem last night. Now I cannot stand tall.”

Lulu felt a spark of determination. “I will help you.”

“You are only a potato,” the sunflower said gently. “How can you lift me.”

“I cannot lift you,” Lulu said. “But I can call for help.”

Lulu tapped her roots against the soil. The sound traveled through the ground like a tiny drum. Soon, a group of ants arrived.

“What do you need,” the ants asked.

“The sunflower needs support,” Lulu said.

The ants hurried away and returned with small twigs. They placed the twigs around the sunflower’s stem, building a little brace.

Next, a beetle rolled over a smooth pebble. “This will help keep the brace steady,” the beetle said.

A passing robin landed nearby. “I can tug the stem upright,” the robin said. She pulled gently until the sunflower stood straighter.

Sunlight streamed down again, warm and bright.

The sunflower lifted its face. “Thank you,” it said. “I feel much better.”

Lulu glowed inside. She had not moved from her spot, yet she had helped the whole garden shine again.

From that day on, whenever a plant needed support or a creature needed a hand, they knew Lulu would find a way. She became known as the potato who could bring back the sun.

The image shows a firearm lying on a camouflage fabric surface. The firearm is a handgun with a tan-colored finish, featuring a black grip and a black slide. The slide is equipped with a serrated trigger guard and a black magazine release button. The slide also has a textured surface, which is typical for many modern handguns. The slide is angled slightly to the right, and the barrel is visible, which is black with a textured surface. The slide has a series of markings and text, including "S&W" and "44 Magnum," indicating the brand and model of the firearm. The background of the image is a camouflage fabric with a pattern that includes shades of brown and green. The image is a product photograph, likely intended for a retail or online store, showcasing the firearm for potential buyers.

Option a)

One or more stuffed dolls.

One combat knife.

Alternatively you can use a bb gun as option b).

Le instructions, bloodsalted weapons do additional damages, make sure to diabeetus lancet yourself on your knife and blacksalt bathe the blade, pour only a bit of blood on the gun tho, no salt there.

How to go about it:

Define the stuffed doll as your target, the more likeness the better, esp if you make your own.

Stab or shoot it, ez.

These are the basics, remember that as you grow in Knowledge you will stack attack variables.

Case in point would be a gun like the most forefront Daisy in this pic (I own some of em bb carbines). Being made of plastic, and carving thus being a poor option (I would carve IN a wooden part, then blood the runes), the most sensible doing would be enchanting of the gun via blood pooling, or hidden sigil where it is NOT visible (because it's plastic). Also plastic guns may require further mental involvement.

I'm quite sure you see the process= Real - better magick. Plastic - more effort.

Airsoft rifles: if you play the game and have one (or a sniper or pistol airsoft gun), you CAN use, but you need additional separation mentally from the game, plus reinforcing in your mental imagery the idea that damage is being done, as these are plastic projectiles.

They're reasonably unmessy, can be used even indoors as opposite of needing special places like a barn, and like steel bbs, ammo is relatively inexpensive.

I have never used plastic (training/martial) knives in ritual, no comment there.

The overall style of the image is graphic and modern, with a clean and minimalistic design.

That's where organizations like the Cherion Group exist

>Retrieval agents of the Cheiron Group operate like a secretive corporate paramilitary, a shadow arm of a multinational that quietly roams the world retrieving anomalous beings and artifacts for study and exploitation. They recruit from military, law enforcement and fringe specialists, then reshape recruits with surgical implants and contracts that bind body and mind to the company; once altered, operatives become assets—company property with no meaningful exit. Retrieval teams strike fast and clean: locating phenomena, neutralizing resistance, securing samples and delivering “potential assets” to dedicated pickup teams and containment facilities. Their tactics blend forensic science, improvised weaponry and banned biotechnologies; they work from plausible deniability—front companies, research covers and falsified manifests—while enforcing corporate secrecy through legal pressure, intimidation and, when necessary, elimination. Internally, quotas and R&D priorities determine what merited capture versus destruction, and competition with other occult hunters fosters betrayal and murder dressed as professional rivalry.

The image is a vibrant and dynamic illustration featuring five animated characters in a dynamic pose. The characters are surrounded by swirling pink and purple energy or magic, which creates a sense of movement and energy. The characters are dressed in a variety of colorful outfits, with one character wearing a blue and green outfit, another in a pink and purple outfit, and the others in different shades of pink and purple. The background is a gradient of pink and purple hues, with a starry sky pattern that adds to the magical atmosphere. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a fantasy or magical theme, with a focus on the characters' dynamic poses and the swirling energy around them.

The image shows a close-up of a metal container filled with what appears to be lead pellets. The container has a label that reads "NORICA PREMIUM" in large, bold letters. The label also includes the text "BALLS, PULSES, CRUMBS" and "250 CAL. 5.6 x 32," indicating the type and quantity of the product. The background is blurred, but it seems to be a table or countertop with a white surface. The style of the image is a straightforward product photograph, likely intended for retail or promotional purposes.

The image is a close-up photograph of a fox with striking features. The fox has a predominantly black coat with orange and brown patches, giving it a unique and striking appearance. Its eyes are a bright orange color, which stands out against its dark fur. The fox's ears are pointed and erect, and its fur appears to be in a state of slight discoloration, possibly due to the lighting or the environment. The background is blurred, but it seems to be an outdoor setting with some greenery and a metal structure, possibly a fence or a gate. The lighting in the photo is soft and diffused, casting gentle shadows and highlighting the fox's features. There are no visible texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the image is realistic, capturing the fox in a natural setting.

The image shows a collection of items on a wooden floor, likely a room with a desk or table. The main focus is a black and white box labeled "PRECISION AIRGUNS" with a graphic of a target and a rifle. The box is open, revealing a scope, a rifle, and a magazine. To the right of the box, there are three black and white circular targets with red and green markings, and a small white object that appears to be a paper or card with a logo and text.

Next to the box, there is a black rifle with a scope, a black scope, and a black rifle stock. The rifle has a black stock and a black barrel. On the floor, there are three black and white targets with red and green markings, and a black and white paper or card with a logo and text.

The image has a casual, everyday feel, suggesting it might be a display or a photo taken in a home setting. The items are arranged in a way that the rifle and scope are the central focus, with the targets and paper or card placed to the side. The overall style of the image is straightforward and non-professional, with a focus on the items themselves rather than a specific context or setting.

Reading list for paranormal investigation and research

By Sharon A. Hill | April 23, 2018 1 Comment

In a recent discussion with a paranormal investigation group, I found myself referencing recommending books to check out for the latest on interesting facets of the field. I decided to share this annotated list.

First, there are three books that are “Handbooks” for spontaneous cases. They put ghost-hunting gadgetry in its place and re-orient the investigator to the proper aim of investigation: define the claim, assess if anything is happening, and then solve the problem. I consider these the best modern guides. If you are intent on pretending to be a TV-type investigator, then go waste your money on the paraceleb guides.

Scientific Paranormal Investigation (2010) by Benjamin Radford.

I reviewed this book here where I recommended it as a much-needed critical and logical guide to actually solving mysteries. Get it.

Radford expanded on the 2010 book with Investigating Ghosts: The Scientific Search for Spirits (2018) to tackle more specifics in depth including EVP evidence.

Ghostology: The Art of the Ghost Hunter (2015) by Steve Parsons. Why are you using that gadget? Why do you conduct a “sweep” of the room? Do you even know why or is it just because you saw it on television? Parsons hits every point and is clear about what you should or should not bother with. This is a true ghost hunting guide. For more details, I reviewed it here. Get it in Kindle.

It’s important to have a background on the cultural history of ghosts. The classic book on the historical context of ghosts is Ghosts: Appearances of the Dead and Cultural Transformation (1996, 2nd ed.) by R.C. Finucane. You simply can’t claim to understand the present phenomena of ghosts if you know nothing about how ghosts were depicted in the past. Get it.

Spirits of an Industrial Age: Ghost Imposture, Spring-heeled Jack and Victorian Society (2014) by Jacob Middleton . I was enamored with this book from which I learned an incredible amount of historical context for spirits and cultural ideas about haunting. The genuine stories taken from the media reports of a bygone era are fascinating. This book is highly readable, yet scholarly. Pick it up on Kindle for a steal.

The Haunted: A social history of ghosts (2007) by Owen Davies. This volume is incredibly well-researched. It can be dry at times but it is an essential volume to have as the social history of ghosts is THE history. This book is highly regarded and regularly referenced by scholars of ghost lore and literature. Get it.

The following three books are key volumes on modern examinations of ghost activity and cultural aspects.

Australian Poltergeists: The Stone-throwing Spook of Humpty Doo and Many Other Cases (2014) by Paul Cropper and Tony Healy. Stories of stone-throwing and fire-starting troubling house ghosts are not new. Yet the same themes occur in the present day. Cropper and Healy do an excellent job of documenting these cases, many of which were researched in person. Though they can't explain what's going on, I can't recall another volume of this type. I wish the same book was done for other places in the world. More in my review here. Get it on Kindle.

Paranormal Media: Audiences, Spirits and Magic in Popular Culture (2010) by Annette Hill (no relation) This book is based on research into paranormal popular media addressing both a UK and US perspective. I used this book heavily for my thesis work. It is a scholarly book so the price is a bit steep but borrow it if you have to as this is essential information to consider when evaluating ghost claims. I reviewed it here.

Parapsychology: A Handbook for the 21st Century (2015) edited by Etzel Cardeña, John Palmer, David Marcusson-Clavertz. This textbook is hefty but necessary. If one is to claim that they work in the field of amateur parapsychology, then you ought to at least know the state of the science. Even a perusal of this volume will show the wide chasm between ghost hunters and academic parapsychology. Read more about this here in my review. It's often available through university libraries but the Kindle edition is reasonable.

In Alan Brown's Ghost Hunters of New England (2008) you read firsthand candid views and opinions from amateur groups who bumped up against the "top" group The Atlantic Paranormal Society (TAPS) who went on to do the Ghost Hunters TV show. The groups interviewed for this book expressed their ties or distance to or from TAPS and the Connecticut-based, self-styled demonologists, Ed and Lorraine Warren. I saw their comments as revealing, provide curious trackbacks to what motivates a group and how they attempt to either follow an already forged path or try to differentiate themselves from the group in the next town. Some animosity and jealousy is apparent as groups hide their data from each other and stake out territory. Brown also tackled the groups in the South in a similar book. Get it.

Finally, these two volumes are excellent at discussing the booming paranormal business of today in historical contexts. If you don't think that's important to understand, you are missing a huge body of understanding.

Ghostland: An American History in Haunted Places (2016) by Colin Dickey. This book was so entertaining and enjoyable I could not put it down. After getting it from the library, I had to purchase a copy. It delves into the accurate history of places like Salem, the Lalaurie mansion, and the Winchester House. I was enlightened. And sometimes really angry at how the truth is buried for a quick buck. Absolutely grab this one.

Haunted Heritage: The Cultural Politics of Ghost Tourism, Populism, and the Past (2015) Michele Hanks. This book was an expansion of a thesis. Hanks covered a good bit of what I did as well in my book but in the UK so there are some differences. But it was critical to see how she developed the contexts for ghost researchers at their various levels of involvement. She showed how they long for experiences and ownership of their own heritage. U.S. readers will find these themes resonate in their communities as well. It will reveal a whole other level of meaning for participation in paranormal activities. Get it.

And of course, please purchase my book on paranormal researchers, Scientific Americans. Head over to the page for more info.

I'm still reading so I may have a part 2 to this list. Please subscribe to the blog in the right sidebar.

Hi Sharon!

Love the list! Any chance you can make an updated list with all of your new favorites? (A Part 2? ) Thanks!

[7 / 3]The image is a vibrant and colorful illustration that depicts a scene from Mexican culture. At the center, there is a figure with a blue body, wearing a green and red headdress, and holding a staff with a red and white design. This figure is surrounded by other figures, some of whom are holding objects such as a snake, a bird, and a drum. The background is a mix of blue and white, with clouds and a sun-like figure radiating from the center. The style of the image is reminiscent of traditional Mexican art, with a focus on vibrant colors and detailed imagery. There is text at the bottom of the image that reads "CORAZÓN MEXICO," which is likely the name of the artist or the publisher of the artwork.

Hi, its been years since I've been on /x/. I recall that the sticky had a resource to a mega dump of paranormal books. I still own the e-books on tarot and astrology I grabbed from it years ago. I was hoping to revisit the book resource and see if there was anything on North/ Meso/ South American spirituality and shamanism. If anyone has the mega dump saved somewhere or can point me toward where it migrated to that would be appreciated.

Likewise, if anyone could recommend books or good resources in relation to indigenous American teachings that would be great too. I'm currently reading 'Rainbow Medicine' by Wolf Moondance and I've read 'Shadowcatchers' by Steve Wall. I'm trying to learn more about and be comfortable with naturism. I've tried to force myself to remember to speak to the plants when I'm out on hikes and ask the spirits to allow me to enter and leave the place safely. I want to show more respect to all of creation.

I was pretty into Nahua spirituality for a few years. I have since then refined it to fit within my personal experiences. In some ways I still "practice" certain rituals, but I mostly have incorporated the concept of Teotl. It's incredible how similar Teotl is to Dao. Various other non-Nahua civilizations also held a similar concept to Teotl and Dao.

I mostly want to tell you not to get lost in the sauce. It's all too easy to adopt a spirituality when the source has been raped and augmented by time and people. Moreover, there are too many shysters trying to make a couple of pesos everywhere in modernity and in the past. Too many accounts of Indigenous American rituals/spirituality has been purposefully misrepresented to continue religious conquest like pic related.

I've only ever read one book on Nahua culture and spirituality called Los Antiguos Mexicanos by Miguel Leon-Portilla. It's alright. I learned a lot more from surfing the web. My favourite site is mexicolore.co.uk although they do get some stuff wrong. Read the comments section to clarify every article because they don't seem to amend their articles after posting them despite conceding in the comments. I also love this site for translations gdn.iib.unam.mx

I want to get the following book, but I'm a poorfag right now. My research has led me to believe this book is the end all be all Nahua cosmology source because it does not compare and contrast Nahua cosmology to something Eastern or Occidental.

>Aztec Philosophy: Understanding a World in Motion by James Maffie

Whilst providing some links from what I referenced above, I found a treat you will enjoy. I forgotten I had the following bookmarked, haha. I have no idea when I bookmarked this or the anon that compiled it. Maybe the data you seek is linked there. If it is, let us know. I'd love to get a mega of stuff to read.

holy shit anon, i was just about to go to bed and figured i'd check the thread before powering off my PC. I had given up but... thank you very much, this is an very wonderful surprise. I suppose I'll have to report back in the future and see if other anons have more to discuss during peak American hours.

I'm not sure if full on worship or conversion is what I'm looking for, but I had a similar mindset that I'd probably end up molding what I come across to better fit into my life. I know that whatever I come across and learn or infer incorrectly is just adding to the centuries of distortion that has come from outside influences toward Native American practices and beliefs. But I'm hoping that some sort of reconnection will help sort some internal stuff out a little. Idk if you're still around but if you don't mind my asking, do you have a ethnic background tied to any of this, or were you just a weeb but for Native American/Nahua spirituality?

The image is a painting that depicts a scene within a church. At the center of the composition, there is a figure dressed in a robe, which appears to be a priest or a religious figure, given the context of the setting. This figure is surrounded by three figures, two of whom are children, and one adult. The children are seated on a bench, and the adult is kneeling on the floor. The children are looking up at the figure, and the adult is looking down at the children. The background of the painting is a warm, yellow-orange color, which contrasts with the darker tones of the figures and the bench. The painting style is expressive and loose, with visible brushstrokes that give it a sense of

>do you have a ethnic background tied to any of this, or were you just a weeb but for Native American/Nahua spirituality?

I'm only related to this topic by blood. My family has been incredibly Catholic since their participation in the Cristero War. I almost became a priest until I started reading about the religion alongside Islam and Judaism to better connect and serve God. Ironically that led me to become an Athiest for most of my mid to old adolescence. But then I started messing around with various other world spiritualties and philosophies. A quote from Jodorowsky comes to mind

>During those excruciating years, all the works I accomplished... were anesthetics to help me bear the anguish that gnawed at my soul. But in the depths of my being... I knew that this state of permanent agony was a disease... I was in search of a spiritual aspirin, but there is no aspirin for the soul.

I have a feeling you're in a similar place I was when I was at during the tail end of my Athiest years. I highly recommend the film The Holy Mountain (1973) by Alejandro Jodorowsky. It changed my life and was recommended by another /x/ anon 5 years ago. If you have any questions or just want to chat, I'll have this thread watched for a while. Just know you will have to put in the work in to journey towards your flowery and well lived death.

[6 / 4]The image is a stylized cartoon illustration of a character with a green body and a blue shirt. The character has a large, expressive face with two large, round eyes and a small, closed mouth. The character's eyes are wide open, and the mouth is slightly open, giving the impression of a frown or a pained expression. The character's arms are crossed in front of them, and the character's hands are positioned in a way that suggests they are holding something, possibly a weapon or a tool. The character's body is depicted in a simple, cartoon-like style, with no shading or depth, and the background is plain white. There are no texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of a meme or a satirical illustration, often used to convey a humorous or serious message.

The image is a still from a television show or movie, featuring a close-up of a man's face. The man has dark hair and is looking directly at the camera with a surprised expression. He is wearing a gray shirt and is peeking out from behind a door with a brass doorknob and a chain attached to it. The door is a light purple color, and there are several switches and a light switch visible on the wall to the left of the door. The background is blurred, suggesting the focus is on the man and the door. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on the actor's expression and the details of the setting.

The image is a digital graphic with a dark background and a grid of text in various colors. At the top, there is a question in white text that reads, "Do you know your Ghosts?" The text is arranged in a vertical column, with each color of the text representing a different type of ghost.

Starting from the left, the first color is "REDUNDANT," followed by "INTELLIGENT," "POETRAGIST," "SHADOW FIGURE," "DEMONIC," and finally "ELEMENTAL." Each color is a different shade of white, and the text beneath each color is in a different font style, with the first color being the most prominent and the last one being the smallest. The text is arranged in a grid format, with each color of text on its own line, and the colors are arranged in a descending order from top to bottom. The text is in English and appears to be a list or categorization of different types of ghosts. The overall style of the image is informational and educational, designed to convey a clear understanding of the different types of ghosts.

provides a description of the sign's characteristics. The second row shows the zodiac signs Cancer, Virgo, Libra, and Scorpio, with similar descriptions. The third row features the zodiac signs Leo, Virgo, Libra, and Scorpio, with the same descriptions.

The bottom row contains the zodiac signs Sagittarius, Capricorn, Aquarius, and Pisces, with the same descriptions. The text beneath each ghost-like figure provides additional information about the sign's characteristics, such as the sign's name, a brief description of its energy, and a warning about the sign's potential for causing harm.

The overall style of the image is whimsical and playful, with a focus on the humorous interpretation of the zodiac signs as ghosts. The use of white ghost-like figures against a purple background creates a stark contrast, making the text and descriptions stand out clearly. The image is likely intended for entertainment or as a light-hearted reference to the zodiac signs.

I welcome questions approached through the Tarot as a symbolic language for self-exploration rather than fortune-telling. I see the Tarot as a mirror of the unconscious: a living map of archetypes that helps reveal inner conflicts, hidden desires, and possible paths of awareness. The cards do not predict the future; they illuminate the present, inviting reflection, responsibility, and personal transformation.

Jay Dyer loves to point out when his opponents use an arbitrary standard, which makes it funny that his main argument for Eastern Orthodoxy is built on a completely arbitrary standard that he constantly references.

>LE FIRST THOUSAND YEARS

He criticises Rome for "developing" doctrine past the year 1000 (even though most of the "developments" are also held by EO, just not formally dogmatised). However the standard of saying doctrine had to stop developing in the year 1000 is entirely arbitrary, and only selected because that's when the East split and lost the universal magisterium. If the standard is keeping as close to the early years of Christianity as possible, shouldn't he be Oriental Orthodox since they are stuck in the 5th century? The norvus ordo and Armenian liturgy is actually closer to the liturgy of the first 300 years than the Byzantine liturgy. Plus the east significantly developed doctrine in the 13th century anyways, in ways that completely contradict the Orthodox understanding of the Trinity.

Below this panel, there is a horizontal panel with a figure standing on the right side, facing the viewer. The figure is also holding a stick in its right hand and has a surprised expression on its face.

The overall style of the image is reminiscent of manga, with its black and white color scheme and the use of panel borders to separate the different elements.

Touch grass but let me explain. Touch grass you've never seen before. Go someplace new and watch the birds and animals and see how they all work to support the system that you live in. They don't care about you or your problems. Instead of taking offense to this, think of it a different way. They don't even know to care about your problems while they do their thing to keep things in your world in balance. Maybe your problems are not as big as they seem to you.

The image is a page from a book or a document, likely a textbook or a historical research paper, with a focus on the topic of Christianity spreading from the Roman Empire to Greece and Italy. The text is in English and is divided into two columns. The left column is titled "Ours," and the right column is titled "Others."

The left column begins with a quote from the author, "Ours, rebels as Homa," which is followed by a brief description of the spread of Christianity from the Roman Empire to Greece and Italy. The text mentions the conversion of the first Christians to Christianity after the conversion of emperor Constantine, the "Homeric feast" as the Holy Roman Empire, and the spread of Christianity to the Byzantine Empire.

The right column begins with a quote from the author, "Others, the Roman Empire, ruled by the Julio-Claudian dynasty, had a long history of persecution and domination. It suppressed the newly converted Christians, burned the first Christians as sacri-fis rituals, and suppressed the Church." The text continues with a description of the spread of Christianity after the conversion of emperor Constantine, the "Homeric feast" as the Holy Roman Empire, and the spread of Christianity to the Byzantine Empire.

The map on the right column shows the Roman Empire, with its borders outlined in green, and the map's color scheme is consistent with the text's color scheme, which is a mix of green, yellow, and orange. The map is labeled with the names of the Roman Empire's provinces and the names of the various empires that the Roman Empire ruled over.

The overall style of the image is academic and informational, with a focus on historical context and the spread of Christianity across different regions. The text is clear and concise, providing a detailed account of the historical events and the spread of Christianity.

The text continues with a description of the Bible's origins, mentioning that it was written by the Catholic Church and is a collection of sacred texts. The text also mentions the Roman Catholic Church's contribution to the Bible, stating that the Bible is a compilation of sacred texts from the Old Testament and the New Testament.

The image also includes a photograph of a book with a blue cover, which is the Bible. The book is open, revealing its title page and a page with the text "The Bible" written in large letters. The book is placed on a blue surface, and the photograph is taken from a side angle, showing the spine of the book. The photograph is a close-up of the book's cover, with the title and text clearly visible.

The image is a screenshot from a digital document, likely a webpage, and it is designed to provide information about the Bible. The text is in English, and the image is clear and well-lit, making it easy to read. The style of the image is informative and educational, aiming to provide a concise overview of the Bible's origins and significance.

Jesuits have been known as the Ninth Circle cult which refers to the ninth planet Pluto which is associated with Hades the underworld. The Ninth Circle is also the last stage of Hell in Dante's Inferno the location of Hades or Pluto the Devil. Hades is where the word Hate comes from. Pluto represents the Shadow, the Daemon, Sirius the black sun.

If you aren't familiar with the Sirius/Lepus "rabbit-hole", it's an interesting one.

Sirius is a star in the constellation Canis Major, that represents the female energy of the Milkyway galaxy, while Orion represents the masculine energy. In Egypt, Sirius was worshipped as the goddess Isis and Orion as the god Osiris. The rise of Sirius coincided with the rise of the Nile and its fertility season. The disappearance of Sirius behind the sun represented Isis on a search for Osiris in the underworld.

As symbol of the Divine Feminine, Sirius is associated with 11th sphere Daath and seen as a guide to the inner world. Because of its association with Canis Major it was also called the Dog Star. Anubis and Wepwawet were dog-wolf faced gods who led the initiates to the underworld.

Its glyph was an phallic obelisk and female cup-dome (=Star of David).

The 3 pyramids of Gizeh are a mirror image of the three stars of the belt of Orion. The pyramid shafts were aligned with Orion and Sirius as they served as a stargate, sexual union of the male and female. The yearly death-rebirth cycle of the sun, was synchronized with the death-rebirth cycle of the Divine Feminine and Masculine Sirius and Orion and the inundation cycle of the Nile as the River of Life.

The first card of the Tarot, the Fool represents Orion and Sirius, at the beginning of the annual cycle.

Because the worship of Sirius became associated with sacrifice, it became the Death Star (origin of the word 'serious').

The Phoenician symbol of the phoenix represents the rebirth of Sirius.

In Christianity Sirius was worshipped as John the Baptist.

Masons worship Sirius as the Blazing Star. The masonic US Declaration of Independence on July 4 represented the 'independence' of Sirius of the sun.

The Ordo Templi Orientis continued the worship of Sirius, the Eastern Star. The flag of Brazil contains Sirius. Greenpeace used the ship Sirius.

The left column has the title "Book of Revelation" and the subtitle "Describes the Endtimes, the end of the Age of Darkness, and the return of Jesus Christ." The right column contains a paragraph of text that begins with "It is last book, Book of Revelation, describes the Endtimes, the end of the Age of Darkness, and the return of Jesus Christ." The text is in a smaller font size compared to the left column, and it is in a sans-serif font.

The overall style of the image is informational and academic, with a focus on textual content and a map to provide context. The image is likely used to illustrate the content of the text, possibly to show the geographical context of the book of Revelation.

Basically, just recognize that all of these religions are meant to entrap you, harvest your energy and keep you distracted and enslaved.

But it's nice to recognize the symbolism.

The image is a digital illustration of a character that resembles a stylized version of the popular internet meme character, Pepe the Frog. Pepe is depicted with a green body, large eyes, and a large, expressive mouth. He is wearing a light blue striped shirt with a collar. The character's expression is one of concern or distress, with his eyebrows drawn together and his mouth slightly open. The image is simple and cartoon-like, with a focus on the character's facial features and the clothing. There are no texts or additional elements in the image.

The image is a stylized cartoon or comic strip with a white background. At the top, there are three cartoonish characters: a bearded man with glasses, a woman with long curly hair, and a child with a wide-open mouth. The man is pointing to the child, who is crying. Below the characters, there is a large red line that cuts through the child's face, with the word "circumcision" written on it. The text below the image reads: "At a lodging place on the way, the Lord met Moses and was about to kill him. But Zipporah took a flint knife, cut off her son's foreskin and touched Moses's foot with it. 'Surely you are a bridegroom of blood to me,' she said. 'The Lord said to me, "At that time she said, "circumcision."'" (exodus 4:24)"

The style of the image is reminiscent of a meme or a satirical cartoon, with exaggerated facial features and text. The use of red for the line cutting the child's face and the word "circumcision" is a common visual element in such content. The text is a direct quote from the biblical text, which is a common way to reference religious texts in such media.

people are too ego driven, too impulsive in general we have lost the appreciation for life and every fucking normie just wants to "get to work" and "get back home" and consume shit but its all pointless we are eternal awareness anyway and this world "is not real"

we cannot befriend Satan....we can forgive Satan, we can "let go", the problem is that society is too fucking aggressive like I said, everybody just "rushing through normal life" and they use their self created system as an excuse and say "well I just have to be a fucking stressed out normie" "you are just lazy" right now its impossible, things needs to finish "playing out" hopefully by the end Satan will be "released" "dissolved" "forgiven" and that will translate is us as a species being able to do the same but I dont see it happening without some horrorshow first, thats just how people are

The lines are thin and white, creating a stark contrast against the dark background. The pattern is repeated in all four quadrants of the image, suggesting a repeating motif. The image is monochromatic, with the background and lines being white, and the circles and lines being black. The style of the image is reminiscent of a blueprint or technical drawing, with a focus on precision and symmetry. Welcome to the Semen Retention General!

Tempted Yet Never Tempted Edition!

>What is Semen Retention?

Semen retention is the practice of completely abstaining from masturbation and ejaculation, often with the intention of preserving and redirecting vital and sexual energy to oneself.

>Why do it?

Reported benefits include: increased vitality, mental clarity, reduced stress, increased motivation, increased energy, improved focus, healthier hair/skin/eyes, deeper meditation, improved AP/Lucid Dreams, deeper voice, improved mood, greatly improved testosterone, improved physical strength and many more.

>Wet Dreams?

They happen because you had a sexual dream and you coomed. Learn to be conscious on your dreams and stop the succubus.

>What causes wet dreams?

The causes are many: Illnesses, telepathic bad actors fucking with your dreams, excess energy build up, watching too much sexually-inducing stuff, lusting during the day, lack of an adequate transmutation activity, eating too late at night, excess nutrients overall, stimulants like maca, ginseng, ginger, excess protein, excess carbs, tight clothes (pajamas) for bedtime, bad sleeping posture (this varies, find the one that suits you best), going to bed with full bladder, exposure to hormonal disruptors via food (pesticides...) or body care products (soap, deodorant etc)...

>The only thing worth busting for is having children. Once you realize this you win SR.

>In case of urges:

- <https://imgur.com/a/nofap-anecdotal-evidence-g4eGH>
- Don't peek and Hold your breath for as long as you possibly can. The urge usually pass after that. If not, repeat.
- Horse stance or chair pose: Do it while clenching the abdomen and all legs' muscles, raise arms for extra blood flow redirection. Works both for killing erections or urges.
- Any physical activity.
- Testicular breathing (also works for wet dreams). Take a deep breath while flexing your perineal muscles. Hold for a couple seconds then release, as you let the sexual energy/tension levitate through your spine to your brain. Repeat around 7-9 times. You can do this in any position.

On long clean streaks many report benefits that transcend current science like a sort of "magnetism" or higher "vibration/aura" that attracts/appeals to other living beings, a higher perception, a stronger and intimidating "aura/presence", a deeper connection with nature, an attractive BO (people usually report it as "pheromones") and more.

>Advices:

- Mental Purity 1.1: Semen Retention acts as a bio-electromagnetic amplifier. Watch the quality of your thoughts because your inner state will get amplified and manifested. Lust is the Ojas killer. Do not engage with Lust.
- Mental Purity 1.2: Keep a journal as a tool for introspection.
- NEVER watch porn of any kind.
- Remove triggers from your life. Masturbation is a bad habit. Break that bad habit.
- Focus on achieving a goal. An art, a craft, competing, etc.
- Meditate and/or Pray Daily. Try a minimum of 5 minutes to start off.
- Exercise/Gym/Sports/Martial Arts. If it is something social even better.
- Good habits like healthy eating, water fasting, dry fasting, sun exposure and cold showers do seem to speed up the process.
- Sublimation: literally using the energy.
- Transmutation: changing the quality of energy to something different. (Surya Namaskara, 8 brocades, Tibetan rites)
- Avoid stimulant drugs such as caffeine or adderall noreply@srg.com Wed 18 Feb 2026 08:26:35 No.41989322 Report

Keep in mind that the efferent nerves attached to your testes necessarily means that any lustful thought, image, or sound is necessarily a command to your junk to produce sexual fluids and this is the reason why celibacy is first and foremost of the mind. The root of this entire matter is the mind - without conquering the mind, celibacy is a futile effort.

The signals from the brain happen on the subconscious autonomic level.

This is why any lustful thought, image, or sound is necessarily a command to the sexual organs to produce sexual fluids (the more intently you look, the higher amplitude of a signal gets sent: body > afferent nerves > brain > efferent nerves > body).

Therefore "Conversion of sexual energy to something" is necessarily a HORRIBLY inefficient process (Not to confuse with Sexual Transmutation)

Fluids will be reabsorbed, but the energy and materials cost to make it vs how much is "taken back" via reabsorption is SEVERELY unbalanced and super net negative

Sexual fluids are made from the cream of the crop of the body's resources - constantly generating them means that you are constantly draining away the cream of the crop of your resources.

Taoist writings said that the sexual organs will even take primacy over nourishing your other internal organs at some point. (Thus, doing a spiritual practice as a coomer is a surefire way to die faster).

Scientific evidence and interesting reads:

It's always good to remember why /x/ is the most accurate place for this topic: SR is one of the clearest paranormal inducing topics among all discussed on /x/. It's a sacred practice that has been the one of the main focuses in every major religion or spiritual practices. The mystical side of it is what we try to focus on.

SR can be also be seen as a political issue. The porn industry is a tool made by the Jews to deteriorate and corrupt societies. Porn works in ways that program new sets of behaviour in its audience and because of its strong addictive qualities they stay hooked. The most important goal for porn's male audience was and is the release of their semen. As we now know, the disadvantageous consequences of releasing are heavy: a man becomes less of a man, he gets sick and weak, his mind numbed, he will have impotence issues etc. Upto the point his spirit almost dies.

SR is beneficial to make one healthier and stronger, more fit, if you will. So the topic could be discussed on /fit/. Anyone looking for more ways to get fitness gains would benefit hugely from the SR.

Also SR has so many other benefits that it could be discussed in the /adv/ board. These would be topics how it improves one's social life, mental state, makes more time to be more productive etc.

The biggest benefits of SR are mystical in nature and the whole practice is fundamentally very close to the spiritual side of things. All the other topics in /x/ are left far behind and SR actually makes this board of any relevancy. This is also known by the enemy and they make strong efforts to suppress, hijack, twist to end this discussion.

Shitty sleep 2 days in a row now, 3 hours last night, tried to take a nap but everytime I'm about to drift off I just wake up again. I don't feel much mood change honestly and my anxiety feels worse than it did before. Lots of urges to fap or watch some porn to get some dopamine and make myself feel better when I feel so shit otherwise from everything going on. It's like there is nothing to make me feel fulfilled or happy and I don't have energy to find it, on days like this porn was always a savior.

I slipped yesterday and looked at some porn, it wasn't even an intentional thought it just kinda happened out of habit, but after some minutes I got to my senses and stopped which has to account for something.

Today is Day 96 since I last masturbated or watched porn. There's been a handful of wet dreams, though. There were more obvious "superpowers" earlier on, during the first month or so, since then they've remained but become more muted, like I'm getting used to them or they're becoming more normal for me. Around the start of the third month, urges became less powerful and there have been times that I genuinely feel like I don't need women anymore. There are, of course, still big flashes of desire, but my mind is introducing the idea that I don't need a girl, or certainly orgasms, to be content. In the last week or so, I swear my face looks better. I wish there hadn't been any wet dreams, or I feel these results would've been more pronounced.

Now, I've more or less been unable to not count days to some extent, and I know a range of like 5 days my streak could fall in at any given time, but I still can't know for sure, and this is the first time ever that I really feel like I'm past this addiction (though of course I must remain vigilant).

The image is a low-resolution photograph capturing a close-up of a polar bear's face. The bear has a white fur coat and is looking directly at the camera with its eyes wide open. The background is a snowy landscape with a few trees and a distant horizon. The lighting suggests it is either dawn or dusk, as the sky is overcast. There are no discernible texts or other objects in the image. The bear's expression is neutral, and the focus is sharp on its face, with the background blurred.

The image is a close-up photograph of a person's face, likely from a movie or television show, as indicated by the stylized, dark background and the presence of a watermark that reads "©". The individual is wearing dark sunglasses that cover the eyes, and the lenses are tinted, suggesting a focus on the eyes. The person's hair is short and appears wet, with droplets of water visible on the surface of the skin. The person's expression is serious, and the lighting in the image casts a shadow on the face, enhancing the dramatic effect. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a dramatic or action-oriented scene, possibly from a film or television series.

Not him but yes, I do this regularly for spiritual and health reasons. It also helps kill any bad flora in your gut which helps mood and energy immensely. Just be sure to eat lightly afterwards to break your fast and have something like probiotic yogurt or kombucha to properly put good bacteria back in your gut.

The only thing I would recommend you watch out for is keeping up with electrolyte intake during the fast, this is important to not get headaches.

I don't, but I usually utilize a combination of magnesium, melatonin, and glycine to fall asleep since I've always had issues relaxing to fall asleep. Keeping this up during the fast also works for me. You probably will just want to work with smaller fasts first and work your way up to 3 days if you find it difficult, since it sounds like you're getting woken up by hunger feelings. Once your body gets used to that feeling, ignoring it and sleeping through it becomes easier. As a side effect it also becomes much easier to control your appetite and not overeat. Another thing, at least in my case, is that the electrolyte drink I usually make for long fasts tends to suppress my feelings of hunger, so it might help you there too. Give me a few minutes and I'll post the recipe.

>Magnesium Sulphate (food grade epsom salt, optional for helping you shit out gunk) = 1/2 tsp

Mix all of this in 2L of water and it will last you for three days, maybe more depending on how much you're drinking; you don't need to finish the whole thing, just drink some whenever you feel like it. Be aware that this tastes awful but it really does help with the brain fog. Physical fatigue is kind of unavoidable by the third day on a water only fast, but this will help you avoid mental fatigue, along with making sure to remain very hydrated. My mind can feel sharp and well-rested at the end of a long fast, but my body will feel like it has barely any energy to even lift an arm. I believe this is part of what spiritual teachers would call "starving the body to feed the soul", as most of my major breakthroughs in my faith came during fasts.

Don't think of it as a matter of strength and weakness. You're not being defeated by a temptation demon. It's a matter of knowledge and ignorance. Part of you knows the harm of porn and the benefit of SR. Part of you still loves porn, and so the urges come from within you. You need to bridge the gap between those two parts. Meditate on the part of yourself that still loves porn, and think about the knowledge that makes your conscious self want to quit porn. If you share that conscious knowledge with the addict part of yourself that escaped into your unconscious, you will see that even your desires change and it's no longer a battle.

Already you find porn unappealing except when that unconscious part of you comes out and expresses itself. If you can break that barrier between the parts of yourself and share the conscious knowledge with your unconscious addict self, huge changes will happen in your psyche. Just remember that everything is about knowledge and ignorance, and you've already taken the first step by having the right knowledge that porn is bad. But the true journey is shining the light of that knowledge into the shadow of your psyche, where your addiction still is.

Yes, but it's not a fast process. Top of my head is almost finished in thickness, but temples need a bit more (also gaining hair in bald spots). Although, since I started eating mostly meat it accelerated quite a bit. I believe that your body starts healing and strengthening under SR and it prioritizes various parts accordingly, whether it's hair, skin, eyes, bone/joint, etc. Skin is obviously before hair. I recommend swapping to healthy types of shampoo or even soap as to not constantly damaging your scalp. A healthy scalp provides stronger and healthier hairs.

People telling you're gonna go bald only appeared increasingly in the last 2 decades. It's one of the most retarded lies I've heard. There's a reason people were told that masturbation causes various legitimate issues the last centuries, of which among them was hairloss, poor eyesight and low IQ.

Excessive testosterone gain (like from unnatural means like supplements) makes hair fall out. Fapping excessively also does, since your body starts weakening when you do.

Nofap/SR keeps your body in a normal healthy state, with a normal amount of testosterone, meaning your hair will be healthy. Don't worry anon.

Hey Anons, here is some general advice, especially for people who just start off.

Try to combine your quest with something practical. You will have more time and energy on your hands, so find something else to do, preferably offline and easy to do.

Find an activity you can do when you get urges.

For example, make a short walk while leaving your phone at home. This has multiple benefits. 1. You are untethered from your pornotron. 2. You are outside so if you have some shame left, this will prevent you from masturbating in public. 3. While outside without your phone, you might get into a situation that asks your attention. This can be a conversation with someone else, but also a beautiful sky or a bird or other animal that catches your attention.

Also, some purists over here state that edging, watching (light) pornographic material of even touching your penis equates 'losing'. This is terrible advice for people starting off. Yes, it's better to not do those things, but at the start some of these actions happen almost by autopilot. But there is still some return possible. You have taken the wrong path, but you can still turn back. Allowing some kindness towards yourself might allow yourself to overcome the urge and fight back. You are fighting a spiritual battle.

What helped me overcome the initial bump (for me the first 3 days), was finding an extra source of motivation/inspiration. I really liked the LotR/SRG 'calendar', so I started reading the books again alongside that attempt.

Godspeed, you might just make it.

Finally made it to day 40!

Never felt closer to the spiritual side of life, even though I do not meditate and pray as often as I should.

Simply put, everything feels massively better than 40 days ago. I lacked drive, energy, soul, motivation, willpower. Now? All of that has changed.

Nothing seems to bother me anymore, I am more resilient, less stressful, nervous, unhappy. To think that such a simple practice such as semen retention is so underrated, yet so powerful.

And yes, the attraction, respect, plus attention from the opposite gender is also very real, I tell you. People smile at me more. Women stare at me, show interest in me, play with their hair and such. I do not care about any of that though, as a true retainer once told me that you shouldn't seek women or their attention while on SR. It is detrimental to the practice. I am enough. I am content. I am abundant. I am happy.

One thing I should definitely do more of is exercise, long walks, jogging, sprinting, and maybe even going to the gym. I am not the most active person although I work an active job. I can feel the energy within me wanting to be spent on improving myself.

Then, the mental health benefits. Fear and anxiety once tried to rule my life. No more. Not ever again. I feel no fear. I can maintaining contact and chat with other people effortlessly. They all seem to respect me more, which is a good plus. I used to be so, so weak before. Semen retention changed everything.

Once you taste the divine power of retaining, you will never go back again. And even if you relapse, once, twice, five times? You will always find a way back. Because this is true power. This is true attraction. This is the way and the truth. I know damn well that this path is the correct one, not due to theorizing, but by sheer benefits and experience. No one can take that away from us.

Never spill your seed, brothers. It is not worth it. I still have a lot to improve, but on the right track.

God bless.

Have you ever been to a Zoo and seen animals that constantly pace back and forth?

This is the result of their unnatural enclosure, they have to do this to compensate for a natural behaviour that they've been deprived of. Masturbation is no different, except the cage is psychological/mental, it's not something you can see. Fapping is the unnatural response of being deprived the natural life you're supposed to be living. You're no different than the animals in the cage. Not only that, but Jews have specifically manufactured society in a way to endorse masturbation over actually finding a partner.

Why put in effort to find a partner when you can get a porn video up in literally 20 seconds and coom right there and then? They've hijacked the human's innate instinct to go for the path of least resistance and use it to control you. Once you end up hooked on the porn you become docile after the endless amount of dopamine frying, making it even more easy to control you.

That's all it is, control. Always has been. You're cattle to them remember, and if you were dealing with cattle would you rather them be calm/docile or aggressive? I think the answer is quite obvious

>1 At that time the disciples came to Jesus, saying, "Who then is greatest in the kingdom of heaven?"

>2 Then Jesus called a little child to Him, set him in the midst of them,

>3 and said, "Assuredly, I say to you, unless you are converted and become as little children, you will by no means enter the kingdom of heaven.

>4 Therefore whoever humbles himself as this little child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven.

>5 Whoever receives one little child like this in My name receives Me.

>6 "But whoever causes one of these little ones who believe in Me to sin, it would be better for him if a millstone were hung around his neck, and he were drowned in the depth of the sea.

>7 Woe to the world because of offenses! For offenses must come, but woe to that man by whom the offense comes!

>8 "If your hand or foot causes you to sin, cut it off and cast it from you. It is better for you to enter into life lame or maimed, rather than having two hands or two feet, to be cast into the everlasting fire.

>9 And if your eye causes you to sin, pluck it out and cast it from you. It is better for you to enter into life with one eye, rather than having two eyes, to be cast into hell fire.

The longer I retain, the more I understand these verses and their application to SR. My goal is to return to my inner child. Enjoying life as I should've been, instead of chasing the corrupted bullshit this demon-infested society psyopped me into believing what my true nature was. The things I did and time I spent to impress women instead of impressing the Trinity is baffling. Choosing the "right" friends, clothes, accessories, music, food, drinks, games, honestly the list goes on and on if I think about it. A huge weight lifted of my shoulder, financially, emotionally and socially, by not caring about any of this anymore. The monk-life is very much attainable as long as you keep trying. Stay pure.

The image is a digital graphic with a religious theme, featuring a portrait of Jesus Christ. He is depicted with long hair, a beard, and a beard, wearing a robe and a crown of thorns. The background is a serene landscape with a blue sky, white clouds, and a field of yellow flowers.

Overlaying the image is a text in a script font that reads: "For there are eunuchs who were born that way, and there are eunuchs who have been made eunuchs by others—and there are those who choose to live like eunuchs for the sake of the kingdom of heaven. The one who can accept this should accept it."

At the bottom of the image, there is a watermark that reads "Matthew 19:12". The style of the image is reminiscent of religious art, with a focus on biblical references and a gentle, peaceful atmosphere.

Nah, the other guy was right: You're an unhinged incel. You literally greentexted "JUST FUCK THE WHORE YOU INCEL". Normal people don't say shit like that for a multitude of reasons.

1. Semen retention is retarded. Absolutely, completely, unequivocally retarded.
2. If you notice any "benefit" from semen retention, it means your testosterone, zinc, etc., are comically low; and on top of exercising and eating better, you should probably see a doctor.
3. If you want to feel like a "Chad Alpha" or whatever, you should be having sex *every fucking day*. And, for that one week each month, you can still get serviced in other ways - or just get your red wings, if she asks you.

(Most) women aren't whores just because they have sex. Defaulting to generalizing an entire gender as "stinky whores" is antisocial nonsense.

If you don't believe in casual sex, that's fine. But, your entire goal as a man *is to have sex as much as possible*. Get a girlfriend, a wife, a consistent friend with benefits, etc. As long as you're getting laid, you're living life the way biology intended.

Sitting around like a celibate dork, and defending your choices by REEEEEEEEEEEEEEE-ing about sTiNkY wHoReS~ means **YOU'RE AN INCEL**. If you are comfortable with being an incel, you should seek out professional help ASAP... Or, you can 86 yourself

This might sound like me tryin to offend you, but bear with it. You will gradually notice increased mental stability. Things you used to care about will seem insignificant towards the new goals you are achieving and setting for yourself. You feel the warmth of others more often when you normally couldn't, as if everyone has a flame inside of them, which you are progressively more aware of (even your own). Your mind will return closer to that of a child, meaning that joyful, no care in the world attitude we had when we were younger. A more blissful nature. All this will come with dips that sometimes feel overwhelming, but they are temporary. The longer you retain, the more intense these things become, as the dips are become more sustainable. Also, get ready for some wild ass dreams. I still can't explain for the life of me what fuels these dreams I keep having, but it beats any cinematic experience. I had a Matrix-esque dream 2 days ago. >im on day 3 right now but i kept waking up in the morning with a raging boner, i even found myself jerking off right as i wake up, as if possessed.

Unironically 99% of people these days are possessed by lower level loosh farmers. I'm pretty sure they're greys/reptilians, but could also just be demons or some other malicious entities, either way they want your essence at all costs. Anyway, you basically get put into the "farm" shortly after you discover porn for the first time, then they sit in the background and slowly harvest you over time. It's like one of those parasites that sits in your system for years, if not decades without you even knowing. When you abruptly quit porn and fapping, yes your own body goes into shock, but you're also starving the leech that's been harvesting you dry for all that time. You're like a cow that suddenly stopped producing milk for them, you're a detriment to their entire system. When this happens not only are you fighting all the urges, but they also send in the higher level loosh farmers to deal with you, this is when you start getting the really bad shit like wet dreams and never ending thoughts of degeneracy, I've even had the jerking myself off thing before as well. That's basically their way of saying get back to work, they try to scare you into thinking you have to, but the fearmongering is baseless they don't actually have any power over you.

It sounds violently retarded, but your cum is literally spiritual energy. You are unable to fight back against these draining parasites when you're constantly low on this spiritual energy, in the same way you can't run anymore when you're out of breath. This is why when you start retaining your strength builds up and you become a massive threat to them, because now you can break free from the chains. You start becoming more vivid, not only in real life but also in the metaphysical realm.

To continue from this, I'd start by saying go for AT LEAST a 1 week streak, clean, which means no porn and limit the touching of your dick to only when you piss/clean it (do your best to block the thoughts too). You'll find that even just this short amount of time will awaken that energy within you again, you should start feeling like you did as a kid/teenager before you watched porn for the first time, in a metaphysical sense. You'll start seeing and noticing things you never did before, and a lot of the noise in your head will go away so you'll be able to focus properly. Like I said you'll be more aware in this reality but in the other one too. I swear that every time I go past the 1 week mark I can legit see the entities in the room with me sometimes before I go to sleep, like they're waiting for me to slip up so they can get back to harvesting me.

The thing is though if you've never been able to use your third eye or comprehend any of these higher planes it might take a lot more effort, in this case that means more time on the streak. I'm not saying retaining is gonna open your third eye etc, but it will help tremendously, that's why if you're trying to do any sort of spiritual training/awakening pairing it with SR is a no brainer. If metaphysical training is going to the gym then SR is the protein shake, you don't need to drink it but it's gonna be a lot of help. Also I keep saying 1 week, but obviously try to go for as long as possible, the longer the better. The thing you should be aiming for at some point is the 1-2 month full factory reset, but trying to do that on your first attempt it near impossible. My highest is still only 2 weeks.

By the way if you've never felt entities before try speaking with angels, they can give you a good sense of that "feeling" of a presence. Being able to distinguish between the good and evil spirits is important, especially against these faggot loosh farmers.

Sounds like they're deliberately letting you go on streaks knowing you'll fail them, then harvesting the guilt/shame from the resulting failure (it's probably more potent than just harvesting you normally). The only solution I see other than directly blocking them out is to go on a streak for so long that you basically starve them out completely, which is the 1-2 month factory reset.

You could also try invoking the name of Jesus (and doing the cross thing with your hands), that's an extremely easy way to get rid of the lesser demons it's like poison to them. Sounds retarded but it worked for me on a few occasions. You could also ask some angels or your spirit guides or w/e to help fight it off or show you how to. If you don't believe in religion the benevolent spirits are still reachable, they'll just appear to you differently that's all. Though there is obviously power by invoking Jesus, so ponder on that I guess.

The image is a close-up of a character's face, rendered in a style reminiscent of anime or manga. The character has black hair that falls to the shoulders, and the hair is styled in a way that suggests it is parted in the middle. The character's eyes are closed, and their eyebrows are slightly furrowed, indicating a sense of concern or stress. The character is wearing a white collared shirt with a black tie, which is a common attire for many anime characters.

The character's head is adorned with a red headband, which is a common accessory in anime and manga. The background of the image is a gradient of purple, transitioning from a darker shade at the top to a lighter one at the bottom, which could suggest a nighttime or evening setting. There are no visible texts or discernible brands in the image. The overall style of the image is dynamic and expressive, typical of anime or manga art.

i tried the Jesus route, i tried to pray the gay away, but the intrusive thoughts always seem to emerge when i lose even a little bit of faith and i get engulfed by the flames of my lust.

at some point i had degenerate sex with men, i was a satanist and did other terrible things, despite invoking his name before.

At this point Jesus probably thinks that im an unrepentant fool with a hardened heart, but i always have the hope that he can forgive me despite of it and i know he will, but also know that my relapse is inbound and that the beast within me will rage on and devour all that is holy.

The image is a black and white graphic with a bold, stylized font. The text reads "THE EASY PEASY WAY TO QUIT PORN" in large, capitalized letters. Below the main title, there is a smaller text that reads "PAINFULLY QUIT PORN IMMEDIATELY WITHOUT WILLPOWER OR ANY SENSE OF DEPRIVATION OR SACRIFICE." The style of the image is reminiscent of a poster or a flyer, with a simple, clean design that emphasizes the message. The background of the image is white, which contrasts with the black text, making the message stand out clearly.

you guys know this book right? so like at the begging of it, it asks

"Do you spend far more time viewing porn than you originally intended?"

- i didnt intend anything.

"Are you unsuccessful in efforts to stop or limit your consumption of pornography?"

- i dont really try

"Has time spent viewing pornography interfered with, or taken precedence over personal or professional commitments, hobbies, or relationships in your life?"

- not at all

"Do you go out of your way to keep your pornography consumption secret (e.g. deleting browser history, lying about viewing porn)?"

- nope, no incognito, no deleting history, no intentions to hide.

"Has viewing pornography caused significant problems in intimate relationship(s)?"

- nope, not at all.

"Do you experience a cycle of arousal and enjoyment before and during pornography consumption, followed by feelings of shame, guilt, and remorse after?"

- i dont feel anything nor during, nor after it

"Do you spend significant amounts of time thinking about pornography, even when not watching it?"

- nope, i just satisfy my needs whenever i need and i dont need it for some time after, sometimes months, sometimes weeks, days, hours...

"Has viewing pornography caused any other negative consequences in your personal or professional life (e.g. missed work, poor performance, neglected relationships, financial problems)?"

- just no.

and this book implies that we already know bad effects of porn therefore doesnt introduces me to em, but, for example, i dont know how the neurological damage really works and that the dopamine flooding is real, this is very complicated cus like they say dopamine aint even straight up happiness so like maybe i dont even need to care about it. if i dont have any of the above problems that book thinks porn causes(i honestly dont) what problems do i still face is it literally that much better to stop? does stopping have downsides? :// help me decide if i should no fap.

It wasn't about that. I'll show you:

>"Do you spend far more time viewing porn than you originally intended?"

>- i didnt intend anything.

Try paraphrasing this, without changing intend. For example:

>"Do you spend far more time playing a game than you originally intended?"

It just sounds unreal to not intend anything that requires a set of actions to fulfill before you can do this specific action. In your case it's watching porn to masturbate (open browser > drop pants > and so on) and in my example it's playing a game (open console/PC > start game > load game). I don't believe along the way you have no intentions, unless you're being mind-controlled.

>"Do you experience a cycle of arousal and enjoyment before and during pornography consumption

Bro, how do you not get aroused? I'm rather questioning your humanity.

30 days behind me and I can talk about its benefits, such as deeper spirituality (after about 20 days, I started praying before sleep on my own), improved thinking as a conqueror, not just an observer of events happening in my life as if I were just a shadow that can be trampled on without any emotion or consequences. I have better, naturally straight posture without looking like a clown with a stick up my ass, a lower voice, a wider vocal range to better emphasize what I mean, and a sparkle in my eyes that attracts the gaze of women who smile at me and seek eye contact with me. What can I say to those who are wondering whether to join at all, and to those who are just starting out and are at the very beginning; you are all weak. You have adapted your lives so much to pornography and masturbation that you have built a whole narrative around it, including excluding God from your lives. You are not angry enough at your weaknesses; you are not worthy of the benefits of NoFap if you cannot resist completely primitive thoughts, such as the desire to watch a naked woman having sex with someone other than yourself. This is completely embarrassing, and don't try to get out of it by saying that you only watch lesbian porn or nudes, you are just as addicted as the biggest cuckolds who let other men fuck their wives. But at heart, I believe in your inner strength, in your inner anger, to your inner voice, which tells you every time you visit a porn site: You shouldn't be doing this, man, you should be doing something else with your life right now. This voice is very quiet, but the more you practice NoFap, the more often you will hear this worried/disappointed voice every time you decide to "take a look." Don't be like that, ignore those thoughts (at this point, I recommend the video game Batman Arkham Knight, where Batman is literally infected with the Joker virus and struggles with its temptations), grab those desires by the throat and kick their asses, shouting even in your mind, "In the holy name of Jesus Christ, I command you, disgusting thoughts, to leave my mind, my body, and my soul, because you will find no home here," repeat this until it works, until you feel strong enough to do something else. But let me guess, you have too much PRIDE in you to ask God for help? (2/2)

The image is a digital graphic with a minimalist design. It features a serene seascape with a calm, blue-green ocean under a cloudy sky. The horizon line is visible, and the water reflects the sky, creating a sense of tranquility. The sky is filled with clouds, suggesting either early morning or late afternoon.

Overlaying the image is a text in a white, sans-serif font that reads "Good things happen to those who don't cum." The text is centered and slightly tilted to the right, adding a dynamic element to the composition. Below the text, there is a small, white, capitalized text that reads "Adolf Hitler." The font size of the text is smaller than the main text, and it is positioned to the left of the main text.

The overall style of the image is clean and minimalistic, with a focus on the text and the natural beauty of the seascape. The colors used are soft and muted, with the blue of the ocean and sky providing a calming backdrop for the text. The image does not contain any other discernible objects or elements.

Something I have observed with SR is that on my dating apps I can see the ages of people around me that are interested in me. Im 32 but after 5+ days it seems like I start getting more women under 25 showing interest in me. I believe that to practice SR is to be obedient to Christ. One thing I learned this week though is that I shouldn't be doing this to receive a reward, but to do it because it should just be the right thing to do. Have basically been treating SR as this punishment/reward situation when really God just wants me to be obedient in all areas of my life and seek him more. Its so stupidly simple, and I hope I dont lose sight of this realization.

Im not really that attractive. 5'7" slight muscle, full hair. Maybe like a 6.3-6.5. It does seem like after a relapse im invisible, but on SR im able to punch above my weight class. Im basically going off dating apps though. Pretty acoustic so can't really tell if a woman is giving signals unless its retardedly obvious. Was in japan talking to this girl from hong kong and after the conversation my friend told me that im retarded and the chick was into me lol.

Come to think of it, I didn't relapse very much for the 3 months I was in japan. Had all sorts of very good encounters with people. I just hate how obvious it is that fapping is bad, and not fapping is good and somehow my dumb ass keeps failing. My life could be so much better. After relapsing I just feel depressed and want to sleep all day and have no energy at work.

I told myself I'd do better this time. And technically I did, making it 13 days instead of 12 like last time. But it's still nowhere near my record of like 230 days. But still miles better than the 1-2 days I could handle while on the Abilify. I'm hoping these continued relapses are just the last of the Abilify being filtered out.

yea the relapse feeling is utterly awful, extreme lethargy that calls upon sleep to fix it. the friend situation is irrelevant too by the way because that dumb woman could've made the move to escalate into intimacy at least somewhere else where you were alone with her too, they put all the burden on the man in case things go south so they can save face. so ignore what your dipshit friend said. the man doesn't always need to do everything, this isn't 1927 where families arrange marriages.

but yeah, sr does allow you to reach outside of your class which is very interesting because it leaves an imprint in womens mind of that level that they saw you at for later reference. three months is excellent. your brain on porn as you know recommends three month reboots so it's a great metric to reach. i think you should start viewing your life in an 'esoteric' or 'extremely long term' way so that you can sort of cement this discipline and new you into your system from top down so that it sticks in the spiritual/astral realm so to speak bonkers that you went 230 days and can't even go two weeks now. no, listen too, i get it. once you relapse it's hard to get going again. but that's a pretty extreme case no matter what anyone says. you are misplacing your discipline, you left it in a different drawer and you're looking in all the other ones for it anon. try pausing for a moment and look in the correct drawer this time with no panic going on

That 230 days happened while I was going through a very-long extended psychotic episode that culminated in me being put in hospital and forced onto Abilify Maintena injections. I relapsed during the hospitalisation and spent all of 2025 not being able to manage more than 5 days (usually only 1 or 2). I came off of Abilify in October, and I read it takes like 5-8 months to completely leave the system, and interestingly only in the last month have I been able to go for extended periods (close to two weeks) at a time. I'm hoping that by the 8th month I can have the extremely long streaks, but until then I'm taking up karate to increase discipline, and I should probably focus on reading scriptures more.

The image is a digital artwork featuring a character that resembles a frog with human-like features. The frog is seated at a desk, wearing a black suit with a white shirt and a black bow tie. The frog's eyes are wide open, and it has a broad smile. The frog's mouth is open, as if it's speaking or laughing. The frog's body is green, and it has a human-like hand resting on its lap.

The desk in front of the frog is cluttered with various objects. There is a laptop on the left side of the desk, a cigarette on the right side, and a glass of what appears to be water on the right side of the desk. The background of the image is a blurred gray wall with a wooden texture.

At the bottom of the image, there is text that reads "CEO of Based." The text is in white and is placed in a rectangular box with a gold border. The overall style of the image is humorous and cartoonish, with a focus on the frog character.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character that resembles a frog, with a green body and a yellow face. The frog is wearing a traditional Japanese kimono with a sash tied around its waist. It has a large, expressive mouth and is holding a long wooden paddle in its right hand. The paddle is positioned diagonally across the frog's body.

The background of the illustration is a seascape with waves, and there is a large, orange sun positioned in the upper right corner. The sun casts a warm glow over the scene.

In the upper left corner of the image, there is Japanese text that reads "あぶなうびきん" which translates to "wave of the sea." The text is in a traditional Japanese script, and the style of the text is reminiscent of traditional Japanese calligraphy.

The overall style of the image is reminiscent of traditional Japanese art, with its use of color, line, and composition to create a sense of movement and tranquility. The frog character is the central figure, with the surrounding elements contributing to a narrative that is open to interpretation.

<https://www.theatlantic.com/health/archive/2012/12/where-masturbation-and-homosexuality-do-not-exist/265849/>

This same article is mentioned in this blogpost:

<https://www.mehergutta.com/masturbation/>

Somewhere in this blog is an American physician/writer named Gilbert Van Tassel Hamilton mentioned several times. Reports on sexual activity among humans/primates throughout his life.

>"Of all my male monkeys only Jocko has been observed to masturbate. After a few days confinement he would masturbate and eat part of his semen. I have reason to believe that he lived under unnatural conditions for many years before I acquired him."

Another quote, by Leonard Shlain

>"Lots of animals masturbate, but none with the intensity and ejaculation frequency of human males—except when in captivity."

Quote from book mentioned in following R*ddit post:

https://old.reddit.com/r/NoFap/comments/jw6oi7/a\_chimp\_in\_nature\_never\_jerks\_off\_but\_in/

>Chimp in state of nature never jerks off, but in captivity he does, wat does this mean?

In state of nature he's too busy, to put plainly. He is concerned with mastering space: solving problem of life in and under trees, mastering what tools he can, mastering social relations in the jockeying for power and status. Deprived of this drive to development and self-increase he devolves to pointless masturbation, in captivity, where he senses he is in owned space and therefore the futility of all his efforts and all his actions.

Simply searching for results will mention nothing and hint the opposite with various "experts believe that ... may possibly"-bullshit, unless you specifically quote captivity to overrule the "suggested search results". Search engines haven't been our friends for over a decade now and should be considered heavily compromised. Truth be told, posting this feels like an insult towards the reader, as anyone with a working set of braincells should already know this as a fact. My humble apologies in that case.

SR leads to magnetism and fascination and this can translate to female attraction, but I don't think it's the same thing. I'm pretty ugly, although I've been slowly getting better with going to the gym and dropping weight. I can say that 1. Eating well, 2. Getting lean, and 3. Putting on muscle, have all helped me attract women. Still, that attraction is not the same as women (and men) trying to get close to you and wanting to find out why you're different on SR. One is lust, SR seems to create a different type of allure. It's worth note that SR makes you more physically attractive too, but that is still different than magnetism. I think SR is doing something "supernatural" beyond the 5 senses, but I don't know what. Does anyone have theories on this?

Yeah I think this is a good take. There have been women in between that I took more priority in trying to pursue. Im just dreading getting back on the hamster wheel of self improvement in my 30's. Its not like im starting from zero. Feels like im squeezing out the last drops. I think the real lesson though is that none of this is in my control. If its Gods will for a woman to be in my life then I shouldn't overthink everything or try too hard. If im having to minmaxx every stat in my life and read up on how to be a daygaming jester then I have probably lost the plot. Plenty of people put in far less work and get far better results so I probably just need to stop caring.

It's not so much not caring. It's the fact that when you're chasing and putting pressure on things it prevents any room to allow what needs to be in your life to come into your life. Men who are good with women simply know how to have a good time.

Next time you peek, peek differently. Instead of looking at the videos, look at the site. Try to break through the 'script' of the page. Why does this arouse you? Why are things titled the way they are?

Why is everything categorized and do the categorisations even make sense? It's tempting to think this structure is 'natural', but the reality is that you are still to some extent a slave to the fantasies of others. You were going to consume regardless.

If you want some concrete advice. Train your own fantasy again. In a non sexual way.

The image is a page from a book or document, likely a historical or political text, as indicated by the title "CHRISTIAN NATIONALIST CRUSADE" at the top. The text is in black and white, and the font is serif, which suggests a formal or academic style. The page is divided into two columns, with the left column containing the title and the right column containing the main body of text.

The main body of text is a quote from Rabbi Rabinovich, dated January 12, 1953, in Budapest, Hungary. The quote is in English and reads: "It has required two thousand years of Christian influence to create the civilization of the white race. And it will take two thousand years of Christian influence to destroy the civilization of the black race. What sensible, intellectually honest individual would advocate such treason against tradition?"

The text is structured in a way that follows a logical flow, starting with the quote and then providing a response from Rabinovich. The response is a statement about the importance of destroying the "Gentile" and "black" races, and the need for a program to destroy the "Gentile" and "black" races. The response concludes with a statement about the white man and the black woman becoming only a memory, emphasizing the passage of time and the inevitability of change.

The style of the image is reminiscent of historical documents or speeches, with a focus on the text and the historical context it provides. The image is in black and white, which adds to the historical and formal tone of the document.

The image is a graphic representation of the process of testosterone breathing, which is a method used to help alleviate symptoms of male pattern baldness. The image is divided into three panels, each depicting a different stage of the process.

The second panel, labeled "2," shows the figure in a more advanced stage of the process. The figure's chest and abdomen are now visible, and the hairline is starting to recede. The figure is depicted with a visible chest and a small portion of the abdomen, indicating the middle stage of the process.

The third panel, labeled "3," shows the figure in the final stage of the process. The figure's chest and abdomen are now fully visible, and the hairline is receding further. The figure is depicted with a visible chest and a small portion of the abdomen, indicating the end of the process.

The image also includes text that provides a description of the process. It states that the process involves holding full retention of energy, visualizing the energy moving up to the brain, and pulling testicles down to the brain. The text also mentions that the process should be done in a quiet environment and that the person should be relaxed.

The image is a simple and clear representation of the process, with a focus on the stages of the process and the visual cues that indicate each stage. The use of color and shading to differentiate between the different stages of the process adds to the clarity of the image. The text is clear and easy to read, providing additional information about the process. Overall, the image is a useful tool for understanding the process of testosterone breathing and its potential benefits.

Dialogue with the unconscious. You have to engage in a dialogue with the repressed part of yourself that is addicted. Ironically, the fact that you want to stop cooming is what repressed it in the first place, since you ejected that part of yourself from your personality when you decided it's bad. However, the desires were still there, so it just moved to the unconscious. That's why when you relapse or binge, it may feel like you somehow momentarily forget all the things you normally know.

Since the desire your have for cooming hid in your unconscious when you decided (rightly) that cooming is bad, it doesn't share your conscious knowledge. It is separated. Btw, that's why people trying to quit sometimes binge on food, alchohol, etc, because that part of themselves comes out all at once. So you need to bring it out of your unconscious by first admitting to yourself that the desires come from you, not from outside. Bring out your addict self by pondering upon how much you desire what you're addicted to. This is harder than it sounds, because being on this general means you already have a strong view against porn. It can be hard to grapple with the fact that part of you still loves it. But after you grapple with that fact and the barrier of unconsciousness has been broken, you can apply knowledge and reason to it. And that will allow you to be reasonable during moments of temptation, instead of binging when your addicted self bursts out. And once you're able to integrate that part of your unconscious, you will find that some things you found tempting before just seem boring or even disgusting now, since they only seemed alluring to a part of yourself that was repressed and isolated from the rest of you. If that repressed self is integrated with all your other knowledge, interests, concerns, etc, it will have to adjust accordingly, and you will see real changes in your psyche and desires.

Let's talk about the significance of The 100 Anonymous Sat 21 Feb 2026 00:14:26

Theory: The 100 is an attempt to tie myth to eras of the homo genus.

The characters in The 100 are a mix of historical, political, and genetic tribes crammed into the lives of individuals just like the recurrent god-like deities found in myth all over the world.

If so, we should be able to make conjectures based on the plot.

If we go to the start of the show, there's a massive cataclysm that wipes out most of humanity, right? That's the Mt Toba eruption, which might have caused migrations leading to the formation of different homo genuses. Here, you have groups that eventually become Homo neanderthalis and homo denisovan, and you also have a preservation of homo sapien in some form.

If we know a majority of humans come from (in part) a cave in North Africa around 70k BC, that is the Sky People who were who came away most unscathed. I've read of similarities in myth between going into and exiting a cave as being equivalent to going up into the sky and coming down. It's in the origin myth of this tribe in the Caribbean (forget their name at the moment), as one example.

Anonymous Sat 21 Feb 2026 00:24:23 No.42003518 Report

Warning: Spoilers (kek, a little late for that)

The people the sky people encounter include mountain men (which I believe are the neanderthals) and various grounders (which I believe include a number of homo species in total, but may feature Denisovan prominently). I'm thinking that it's among the grounders that you may have the "giant" tribes, but they could have been quite spaced out in the world. I say this because the 100 are not particularly giant, and it seems like a more specific race with specific origin (which is why I believe it fits the pattern of the african cave survival). Contrary to what you might assume, I don't think this means they are "African" as we use that term now. I simply think there was a proto-Cro Magnon in northern Africa that never really penetrated (genetically speaking) much into the southern parts of Africa, for whatever reason. But on the other hand, it became insanely successful in the rest of the world, replacing most of the population after said cataclysm.

The "sky people" actually survive multiple cataclysms in the show. They are intimately a part of the second nuclear apocalypse in the show, when the Damocles drops and deletes most plant life. I think that is the Younger Dryas collapse and flood, which is actually started by a comet impact in North America (possibly Greenland).

I think the story of the mountain men warrants further investigation. If they are Neanderthals, then it suggests that there was a highly technologically advanced, intelligent, martially dominant human variety that lived in limited numbers in secluded location(s), yet they had a weakness to the environment which limited their outdoor exposure. Perhaps this is in part a reference to neanderthal nocturnalism? Otherwise, this suggests they adapted to a different concentration of gases in their atmosphere as a result of living completely inside the ground (which is what the mountain men do in the show). That seems like more of a stretch, though it may still be that nocturnal people found cave dwellings convenient for daytime defense.

We can look for other bits of significance.

Jaha is the archetypal Christological prophet. It's not just Christ. It's all of the "solar prophets", of which Christ was supposed to be the latest.

What is that wafer he shares that "connects people to the hive mind", which is what many blame on the original apocalypse at the start of season 1? In the show, it's AI. Historically, this may be mushrooms. Recall that this AI in the show increases intelligence but also has the potential to hijack your mind if not mitigated.

So what's the broader Christological point? He's the one who brings back the entheogen. The preserver of the recipe.

Returning to my first point:

The ups and the downs of the plot experienced by characters might imply the rise and fall of tribes which represent the fate of a good portion of the human race at that time. While some believe the gnostic metaphor only works on its own, we could look also look at the details of the metaphor having a literal cause, from which the derived meaning came later. This is a genesis of words.

That would be far too recent to have majorly affected genetic spread, but maybe I'm focusing on that aspect too much. It's just that if we are talking about race, then that also proves we are talking about politics, because race was politics in those times. Tribes were families at war with one another.

If we keep going with the 70k and 12k BC idea, then Sanctum is the bizarre world that Atlanteans find themselves in when they have to abandon North America. In the show, this is the world they discover after the second cataclysm. So, I think the years at Sanctum (S6 and S7) are the years prior to either the re-habitation of North America or of the Middle East (post-Dilmun).

Ya, that's interesting. It has some allusion to a parasite (inb4 parasite pill), but I think language itself might be the parasite at play.

Think about the recitations that eventually cause the thing to transfer hosts. Those are like axioms that define the frame of mind for the flame keeper.

They tracked a "life" as a continuous frame of mind, hence the idea that one body could have multiple "lives", and one "life" can exist across multiple bodies (through the technique described above).

The image is a still from a movie or television show, featuring a scene set in a futuristic laboratory or research facility. In the foreground, there is a woman with blonde hair, wearing a black outfit with a helmet-like headpiece, standing next to a man in a black suit. The woman appears to be in a state of distress, with her eyes closed and her head tilted back. The man is standing to her left, looking at her with concern.

In the background, there are various scientific equipment and machinery, including a large machine with a circular structure and a smaller one with a transparent dome. The room is dimly lit, with blue and white lighting fixtures casting a soft glow.

Overlaying the image is text that reads "MAKE HOSTS." The text is in white and appears to be a title or a tagline, suggesting that the scene is related to the concept of creating or manipulating hosts or beings. The overall atmosphere of the image conveys a sense of urgency and concern.

Enkidu and Gilgamesh. It's the story of how the original humans (En.Ki.Du, lit. the Lord of Earth's place/vessel) were "tamed" by a womanizing alcohol-loving sky-person who fell into fast friendship with us. It didn't take much warping from Rome to demonize the story into a materially-obsessed satan who is jealous of humans instead of proud at their learning and worship. If we add in what we know (or blindly grasp) about cloning, parasitic hosts, and possession, then Enkidu's story is conveying mysteries about genetics.

>You (or someone) implied it themselves. "He's the one who brings back the entheogen." So what does the entheogen itself bring back?

Ultimately, self-awareness, which means the ability to play the game in a different way. Meta-cognition leads to meta-gaming, which upsets power structures. What is "brought back" is a time when those power structures weren't so rigid.

Does it literally bring back (or more correctly, "bring forward") a "spirit" or an entity containing memory? I think it's more accurate to say the archetypal self-awareness is the entity. It's metaphorical. The leader is a person who represents a concept, and for ancients, that was proof enough of the connection of spirit.

I think entheogens create a sort of evolutionary pressure for intelligence because they can also severely fuck you up. If a population regularly consumed them for some time, their average intelligence would go up. And if the entheogen was then taken away, their intelligence and their practices would slowly degenerate, although less people would be subject to the evolutionary pressure.

Grounders and Sky People. The question is, who the sky people were. I think they were astrotheological people who identified with their own study subjects. But on another level, they were functionally able to do something the grounders couldn't: get away and protect themselves from a cataclysm. If it's Mt Toba, then maybe the northern/western hemisphere was safer. If it's the Younger Dryas impact, then maybe the Mediterranean was safer.

Since the Sky People come from BEFORE the mountain men are created/differentiated from other humans, and I associate this with the speciation of several hominins, I think we're talking Mt Toba for the Sky People. It's just a question of where they came from. In essence, do we all descend from these people, or did they disappear with a much smaller trace? I think we descend from them because the stories make more sense that way.

As OP mentioned the parasite might be the language itself hence the language cannot describe the truth = meaning !!! only real way to reconstruct the truth is by omitting it instead of describing it with words...

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character with a distinctive hairstyle and a blue headband. The character is wearing a white shirt with a pattern, and the shirt is partially obscured by the character's hand. The character's face is partially visible, with a smile and a pair of earrings. The character's hand is extended towards the viewer, with fingers slightly curled.

In the background, there is a blue sky with a few clouds, and a few orange objects that resemble missiles or rockets are flying in the sky. The text "Let's do this" is overlaid on the character's hand, suggesting a motivational or encouraging message. Below the character, there is a text that reads "Shellit," which is likely a name or a title associated with the character. The overall style of the image is cartoonish and vibrant, with a focus on the character's expressive face and the dynamic action of the missiles.

On the right, there is a silhouette of an alien-like figure standing in the center of a dimly lit room. The figure is facing away from the camera, and its silhouette is cast in a shadow, giving it a somewhat eerie appearance.

The tweet on the left is a screenshot from a Twitter account, with the username "@theKINGOFUFO" and the handle "@fox_otwitter". The tweet is titled "Trump's UFO disclosure speech is ready to go - press conference on Mar 1 in Washington will provide more info." The tweet includes a hashtag "#foxUFOWriter" and a link to a website, "Trakuit.com/Deets".

The tweet on the right is a screenshot from a different Twitter account, with the username "@fox_otwitter" and the handle "@foxotwitter". The tweet is titled "Donald Trump's ground-breaking UFO speech ready to go - insiders claim it's JOE.co.uk". The tweet includes a link to a website, "From joe.co.uk".

The image is a combination of visual elements from two different tweets, with the man's photograph and the alien figure serving as the central focus. The text on the left tweet provides context about the event, while the text on the right tweet suggests that the event is related to UFO disclosure. The use of the hashtag "#foxUFOWriter" and "#foxOTWitter" indicates that the content of the tweets is related to UFOs and UFO disclosure.

The image is a black and white photograph featuring a man standing in front of a military aircraft. The man is dressed in a suit and tie, and he appears to be in his late 70s or early 80s. He is positioned slightly to the right of the aircraft. The aircraft is a military jet with a pointed nose and a large wingspan. The background is a plain, light-colored wall. Overlaying the image is a text that reads:

"We already have the means to travel among the stars, but these technologies are locked up in black projects and it would take an Act of God to ever get them out to benefit humanity.

Anything you can imagine, we already know how to do.

Ben Rich, 2nd Director of Lockheed Skunkworks—(Susted during a 1993 Alumni Speech at UCLA)"

The text is overlaid on the image in a bold, sans-serif font, which contrasts with the monochrome color scheme of the photograph. The style of the image suggests it may be a promotional or informational piece, possibly related to the work of Ben Rich, the 2nd Director of Lockheed Skunkworks, as indicated by the text. The image is a digital artwork with a dark, swirling, and chaotic design. At the center, there is a large, circular shape that appears to be a stylized representation of a planet or celestial body. This central figure is surrounded by a multitude of smaller, intricate, and abstract shapes and patterns that create a sense of depth and complexity. The background is a deep blue, with a swirling pattern that gives the impression of a stormy sky or a cosmic vortex.

The image is a close-up photograph of a young individual with long, dark hair. The person's face is partially obscured by a red, jagged-edged mark that appears to be a tattoo or marker, with the text "DEVILS MEAT" written in red on the forehead. The individual is wearing a red garment that covers the upper body, and there is a necklace with a pendant visible around the neck. The background is a plain, light-colored wall. The style of the image is candid and appears to be taken in a casual setting.

The image is a cover art for a music album titled "Stormwitch." The central figure is a person with long, curly hair, wearing a leather outfit with studded details, and a black leather mask. They are holding a large, ornate sword with a chain attached to it. The person is standing on a fiery, black background that resembles a burning skull. The text "Stormwitch" is prominently displayed in large, ornate, red and gold letters at the top of the image, with "Walpurga's Night" written below it in smaller, red and gold letters. The overall style of the image is dramatic and intense, with a focus on the central figure and the fiery background.

There was this badass ritual ambient video recommended by old /x/ about some secret society and lemuria / muu, but I can't find it on youtube.

Why does both the youtube search and google suck so hard nowadays? It basically shows as a result some garbage slop instead of what I'm looking for. And how come this slop has over 5 mln of views? Were they pushed up artificially by bots or what? Anyone knows?

The image is a stylized, red-toned illustration with a predominantly white and black color scheme. At the center, there is a large, stylized text that reads "RED THRUSH" in a flowing, cursive font. The text is white and stands out against the red background.

Surrounding the text are various elements that appear to be inspired by nature, including stars, flowers, and what could be interpreted as a bird or a creature with a humanoid form. The illustration has a dreamlike quality, with a sense of movement and energy.

The image is a vibrant and colorful painting that depicts a figure with wings and a serpentine tail. The figure is adorned with a flowing, multicolored dress that cascades down to the ground. The wings are a mix of dark and light colors, with the darker wings covering the upper half of the figure and the lighter wings extending from the lower half.

The image is a tarot card featuring a scene with a woman in a red dress standing in front of a table with various objects on it. Above her, there is a large, round, light-colored sphere with a golden halo, and a bright sun with rays emanating from it. The woman is holding a wand in her right hand, and she appears to be gesturing or pointing with her left hand. The background is a blue sky with white clouds, and there is a hint of a crescent moon visible in the top left corner. The style of the image is reminiscent of traditional tarot cards, with a focus on symbolism and narrative.

album of a young man who finds himself on the shores of the river Acheron, one of the many rivers between our world and the next. Styx has Charon. the young man sails across Acheron, through a tempest, and washes up the shores to Xibalba to battle Cerberus. told in a epic manner, no comedy, no humor, no whimsical Tolkien faggot shit with elves and quests and shit.

other albums similar, all good.

The image is a black and white photograph of a book cover. The title of the book is prominently displayed in large, bold, uppercase letters at the top of the cover. Below the title, the subtitle reads "THE MANUAL (How to have a number one the easy way)". The author's names, Jimmy Cauty and Bill Drummond, are printed in smaller, lowercase letters at the bottom of the cover.

In the lower right corner of the cover, there is a graphic of a small, black and white illustration of a computer keyboard with a speaker on top. The keyboard is positioned in the center of the cover, and the speaker is to the right of the keyboard. The overall style of the image is simple and minimalistic, with a focus on the text and the graphic.
